

TESTIMONY ALL IN IN STEARNS CASE

Witnesses for the Defense Were Called This Morning—Simon
B. Harris Testified

The libel case of Frank K. Stearns against Dennis A. Long was resumed before Judge Stevens in the civil session of the superior court at the local court house this morning.

The greater part of the morning session was taken up with the cross-examination of the plaintiff. Lawyer Bent, counsel for the plaintiff, rested his case shortly before eleven o'clock and Mr. Murphy made his opening argument.

Mr. Stearns Testifies

Mr. Stearns resumed the stand at the opening of this morning's session and testified to what he understood the interpretation of the sandwich law to be. He also, after being questioned, referred to test cases of alleged violation of the Sunday law and the article in the defendant's paper which alleged that there was a gambling place in Prescott street.

Lawyer Bent then read an article which stated or alleged that plaintiff was under "the hypnotic influence of the hotel keepers' spell."

"Were you ever under this hypnotic spell?" asked Lawyer Bent.

"No, sir."

"Did you, ever in any way, or the members of your board, attempt to deceive the people?"

"No, never."

"At this point Mr. Stearns referred to cases which were heard by the temporary board while he and the other two members were under suspension."

Lawyer Bent then read an article from the defendant's paper which was headed "Going the Limit."

Mr. Bent read from a transcript various articles which it is alleged appeared in the defendant's paper.

On rebuttal Mr. Stearns testified that he had made several visits to hotels after his appointment by Mayor Furman. He said that he made it a point to learn the definition of the meaning of the word "guest" in connection with persons frequenting hotels on Sundays. Mr. Stearns said that the advice came through counsel.

In answer to a question, he referred to a conference which the board had with the hotel keepers in December, 1907.

"At that conference were the hotel keepers informed that the manner in which they were conducting their business was in a direct violation of the law?"

Mr. Stearns did not remember.

Lawyer Murphy then went into detail of the hearing of hotel cases and referred to Judge Bell's decision in the Franklin House case.

Meaning of "Guest"

Mr. Stearns was then queried as to the meaning of the word "guest," a person who resorted to a hotel. Witness said that a person who entered a hotel and asked for food and then called for liquor he considered a guest of the house, but that if the person first called for liquor he should not be considered a guest.

Reference was then made to the reports of the liquor inspectors of the police department at a local hotel on July 26, 1908. He also read other records of the conditions at the hotel during the time that Mr. Stearns was chairman of the police board. Using a report of a hearing held before Mayor Brown, Mr. Stearns testified that the hotel keeper in question was given the benefit of the doubt.

Counsel for the defense then resumed the reading of a typewritten report of cases of alleged violation of the law by local inn-keepers.

Frank J. Simonds

Frank J. Simonds, former editor of the defendant's paper, was the first witness called for the defense. He testified that he wrote various articles in the newspaper in 1907, 1908 and 1909. At the present time he is residing in Somerville.

The witness said that he wrote the various articles which appeared at different times in the paper, with the exception of one, which was a report of a hearing before the board of police.

No questions were asked by Mr. Bent.

Simon B. Harris

Simon B. Harris was the next witness called. He testified that he was a member of the police board for a short time and listened to a hearing relative to an alleged violation of the liquor law at the New Merrimack house. Witness claimed that he wanted to be heard as a witness but that he was refused the privilege. He testified that Mr. Stearns said he could not hear him as a result of advice of counsel.

On cross-examination Mr. Harris said he served about six weeks on the board of police and then resigned.

Relative to the complaint against the Merrimack House Mr. Harris said that the charges were preferred by Sub. Welch and the matter was brought before the board while he was a member and postponed.

Winfred C. MacBrayne

Winfred C. MacBrayne testified that he was a member of the police board in 1908. He corroborated the testimony offered by the previous witnesses. He referred to a controversy which he had with Messrs. Stearns and Boulger at the Merrimack House hearing.

Rev. A. C. Ferrin

Rev. Allan C. Ferrin, of the High Street Congregational church testified that he has been a resident of Lowell for six years. He said that he met Mr. Stearns and that the latter asked him for suggestions relative to the enforcement of the law.

Subsequently Rev. Mr. Ferrin visited Mr. Stearns at the latter's office and offered four suggestions. Witness said, "Mr. Stearns told me that there was a great deal of money invested in the liquor business and that he should have to be very careful in his actions."

Mr. Bent did not cross-examine the witness.

Rev. J. M. Craig

Rev. J. M. Craig, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, said that he had several conversations with Mr. Stearns and that on one occasion Mr. Stearns said: "I wish that the Law and Order League was in it."

Witness said he had made several complaints against a gambling joint in Prescott street, five in all.

"What happened to the gambling joint after you had made the fifth complaint?" was asked.

"I do not know of my own knowledge," was the answer.

On cross-examination Rev. Mr. Craig

RIOTING IN BOSTON TODAY STREET CARS WERE HELD UP 7000 "L" EMPLOYEES STRIKE

BOSTON, June 7.—The first city wide railway strike in Boston in a quarter of a century broke at dawn today with some violence where several thousand employees of the Boston Elevated Railway company quit work because leaders announced that 3250 of the 6000 employees of the road, including motormen, conductors, guards and brakemen, had joined their ranks.

At the same time the company officials stated that more than 3500 of its help had remained loyal. The system of the Boston Elevated Railway company, includes all the street railway transportation lines in the city and extends to adjoining cities and towns, so that three-quarters of the metropolitan district was included in the strike's sphere of influence.

Incipient riots broke out on many of the numerous lines, not only in the city, but in the suburbs and at noon nearly twenty arrests had been made and there had been some damage to property and considerable inconvenience to patrons of the road.

About half of those taken into custody charged with inciting rioting, interference with police and in a few instances interfering with the progress of cars admitted that they were former employees. The others said that they were sympathizers.

Company officials stated at noon that all lines were in operation. There was a decrease in the number of surface cars, although the trains in the Washington street and Cambridge tunnels were running with nearly the usual frequency. The appearance of the car crews was out of the ordinary, there being many without uniforms except for the cap, while those in blue coats and brass buttons displayed many service stripes. The strikers declared that this indicated that old hands from the shops and other departments were being pressed into car service.

Start of Strike

The strike broke with the dawn. For many days rumblings had been heard from union leaders, including several organizers from other cities. The local papers began to show display advertisements for help by the company and statements in defense of its attitude towards its employees during the past year.

It was admitted by the strike leaders that the principal grievance was the refusal of the company to recognize the union. The company's failure to give reasons for discharge of employees was also a cause of discontent.

The matter of wages and hours of labor were satisfactory, the union leaders said. The company announced that it would deal with its employees individually, although the formation by trusted employees of an organization resembling a union in some respects was approved.

Mutterings of the labor storm be-

Johnson in order to get the latter's advice. Mr. Stearns said that the board followed Mr. Johnson's advice and later the hotel keepers were notified that they were violating the law. Subsequently all of the hotel keepers were summoned before the board and after being given a hearing the houses of all, with the exception of the Lowell Inn, were suspended for 24 days.

Counsel for defense began his argument at the opening of court this afternoon.

WALDO DETERMINED TO BREAK UP GANGS

Clean-Up of Crooks and Gun Men Started

NEW YORK, June 7.—Not only the two gangs engaged in the feud battles which have been raging on the lower East Side since Monday night, but every band of "Apaches" in the city will be reduced to a state of helplessness if Police Commissioner Waldo's campaign for extermination is carried out.

Second Deputy Commissioner Dougherty was yesterday placed in complete charge of cleaning up the gangs with the general instructions that no gun man be allowed to escape from surveillance until he is either in jail or driven out of the city.

In addition to keeping a personal watch over every suspect, the police intend to clean up what they call the "breeding places" of the rioters.

The state board of excise, it is announced, will be requested to close the saloons known to be meeting places of the gangs, while the fire department and the board of health will be asked to put an end to such resorts as cannot be reached by the excise board.

District Attorney Whitman has made known his intention to fight for the strictest interpretation of the Sullivan law forbidding the carrying of revolvers.

The fact has been brought to light that, while in many cases the law has been observed literally, saloon keepers have aided in its violation by keeping supplies of weapons behind the bars and handing them out to gang members in cases of emergency.

The first conviction as a result of the recent street fights came yesterday when Louis Bull, who was arrested

Johnston in order to get the latter's advice. Mr. Stearns said that the board followed Mr. Johnson's advice and later the hotel keepers were notified that they were violating the law. Subsequently all of the hotel keepers were summoned before the board and after being given a hearing the houses of all, with the exception of the Lowell Inn, were suspended for 24 days.

Honors Awarded and Principal Address Delivered by Hon.
Joseph H. Walker

The commencement exercises of the Lowell Textile school were held in Southwick hall in the main school building this afternoon, commencing at 2:30 o'clock. There were no tickets or invitations, the public being invited, and there was a large attendance. The building was open for inspection during the day and the most interesting feature, perhaps, was the reproduction of the school's exhibit recently made at the textile show in Boston.

The chief speaker of the afternoon was Hon. Joseph Walker, Dr. David Snedden, state commissioner of education, was stated for an address but because of other and previous engagements he found it impossible to come to Lowell. The medal of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers was presented by Frederick A. Flather, treasurer of the Boot mills, and Franklin W. Hobbs, treasurer of the Arlington mills of Lawrence, presented the prize offered by that corporation for proficiency in textile design. This prize is open to competition by both day and evening students and this is the second year that it has been offered by the Arlington mills.

Southwick hall was prettily decorated for the commencement exercises and Hibbard's orchestra furnished good music. The program of the exercises was as follows:

Overture, "Tambo de Guarde," Tull Orchestra.

Monday night after the shooting of "Big Jack" Zeig was sent to the workhouse for six months. Antonio Ballantini, another of the gang men, was sentenced yesterday to ten years in Sing Sing prison for robbery in the second degree.

APRIL FOOL JOKE CAUSED BOY'S DEATH

He Was Kicked by a Schoolmate

WORCESTER, June 7.—As the result, it is said, of an April fool joke four years ago, when a tag was pinned onto his coat and he was kicked by a playmate while romping in a schoolyard, Leroy S. Williams, aged 14, died yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James B. R. Hadden of 137 Highland street. The death of the boy ended four years of intense suffering and followed the death of his mother, Mrs. Martha Williams, last week. The boy's death was caused, by tuberculosis of the spine, said to be the result of the kick he received from his schoolmate, and his mother's death was attributed to worry over his sad plight as she saw his young life fading away with no power to save him.

Mrs. Williams was a widow and when she began to fall in health as a result of the condition of her son, they were taken into the home of Mr. Hadden, who is husband of Mrs. Williams' daughter, and cared for until the end came.

The card pinned on the Williams' boy's coat read "Kick Me Hard." One of the larger boys of the school caught the lad, who was then 10 years of age, by the shoulder and administered a kick which struck the victim on the end of the spine. The kick was so hard the Williams boy became unconscious and had to be taken to his home. He recovered his senses in a short time and it was thought the injury was not serious, but tuberculosis of the spine set in and the end came yesterday.

WOMAN SAVED CHILD FROM BEING KILLED

Mrs. Howland Figures in Thrilling Rescue

CLINTON, June 7.—Mrs. George Howland of North Main street yesterday figured in a thrilling rescue. Going from her house near the main line of the B. & M. railroad to meet her father, who was to cross the tracks, she saw the two daughters of Henry Cooper, 1½ and 3 years of age, upon the tracks.

At the same time she saw the Portland express, which had just left the Union station, bearing down upon the children. Her cries were heard by the children and the elder girl got off the track, but the younger fell over the rail upon which the train was approaching. Horrified by the sight her strength left her and she could not run to lift the child, but the frantic waving of her arms was noticed by the engineer, as she stood in the path of the train, and he stopped the locomotive.

Descending from the cab, he asked Mrs. Howland what water she had and she told him. Not until then did he see the child lying across the track just six inches from the engine.

Mrs. Howland took the children home and learned that their mother had sent them on an errand which necessitated their crossing the track.

LOWELL YOUNG MAN

Maurice E. Harris Graduates From B. U.

The numerous friends in this city of Maurice E. Harris, of 62 Lincoln street, will be glad to hear that he was among those who graduated from Boston University Law school during the present week. The exercises were held in the Tremont Temple yesterday afternoon, and there was a large number of friends of the graduates present to enjoy the program, which was an excellent one.

Mr. Harris is very popular here, having graduated from the Lincoln grammar school, being the youngest one of his class and later from the Lowell High school, class of 1904. He was exceptionally bright while in school and received high marks in all his studies. He will take the bar examination the latter part of this month and expects to start the practice of law in this city about July.

While in school young Harris was identified more or less in athletics, and in baseball he was one of the best semi-professional players in the city. He played on some of the best teams of the city and his clever playing and gentlemanly actions won for him a host of friends who will be pleased to learn of his success.

FIREMEN HURT

WHILE FIGHTING A BLAZE IN BROCKTON

BROCKTON, June 7.—Patrick Stack, a member of squad A of the central fire station, had his right hand nearly severed yesterday while breaking a window in the home of William Doten, the interior of which was a mass of flames.

Stack was alone on the piazza roof, and after receiving the frightful shock, attempted to stop the flow of blood with his handkerchief. His comrades on the ground noticed his weakened condition, due to the loss of blood, and a blanket was quickly produced, into which the injured fireman jumped.

He was rushed to the Brockton hospital by City Electrician Brennan, the fireman being unconscious when the three mile auto ride was completed.

The fire which started on the second floor practically gutted the entire house, causing a loss of about $1500. Assistant Chief W. L. Daley and Earl Clark, a volunteer fire fighter, were also out by falling glass, but did not have to seek medical attendance.

ATTEMPT TO FIX JURY IN $50,000 SUIT ALLEGED

Foreman of Jury Says He Was Asked to Return Verdict for the Plaintiff

PROVIDENCE, June 7.—Alleged at the superior court building yesterday, attempts at jury fixing in a $50,000 Robert LeMay, foreman of a jury banking suit created a sensation about hearing the civil suit of A. B. Crafts, an attorney, against the Mechanics Savings bank of Westerly and others, was approached, it was stated to Judge Baker, by a man who said he wished him to see that a verdict was returned for Crafts.

When this fact was brought to the attention of Judge Baker, the case was taken from the jury and passed. The alleged tampering with the jury was turned over to Atty. Gen. Rice for prosecution.

The case was brought to recover $50,000 for services claimed to have been rendered by the defendants in connection with transactions concerning oil properties in the west. The trial began May 20, and Crafts was on the witness stand for nine days.

When the court opened Judge Baker announced that the case had been taken from the jury and passed by agreement of counsel. It developed that Juror LeMay was the man approached. He is a grocer and market man of 615 Broadway, Pawtucket. The stranger appeared in LeMay's store and requested him to see that a verdict was rendered in favor of Crafts and against the bank. The man, according to LeMay, was about 5 feet 6 inches high and weighed about 130 pounds. He was apparently between 25 and 30 years old, LeMay thought. There was no request for any special sum to be awarded by the verdict and no suggestion, it is understood, as to when the implied reward would be paid to the foreman if he carried out the instructions.

Anonymous letters written to Judge Baker and to Lawyer Rathbone Gardner are said to have been mailed in Pawtucket. They describe what the writer calls a telephone conversation, arranging an appointment with LeMay. The writer claims to have overheard the conversation and says that he deemed it to be his duty to report the matter to the court.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Is Made Against Providence Man

BOSTON, June 7.—Officers of Division 17 went to Providence yesterday and arrested Joseph M. Reddington of 1632 Elmwood avenue, that city, on the charge of manslaughter, alleging he was responsible for the death of Andrew Strauss, aged 14, of 1182 Tremont street, Roxbury, who died at the City hospital from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile driven by Reddington.

The boy was crossing Washington street, near Grove street, on Wednesday night and was knocked down by the machine operated by the Rhode Island man.

He was first attended by Dr. Henry D. Stevens and then sent to the City hospital, where he died shortly afterward.

"The Teaser," a three act drama, was presented last evening in Odd Fellows hall, under the direction of the entertainment committee of the Rhode Island. The piece was given in a very clever manner and proved very interesting. The cast was as follows: Miss Alice Buchanan, Miss Leona Small, Mrs. E. Perry, Charles Wells, Edw. E. Perry, Herbert Baker, A. K. Harden, accompanists, Miss Viola Marshall and Miss Velma L. Harding. Between the acts, selections were heard by the ladies' quartet of the First Presbyterian church, as follows: Miss Florence Ramsey, Mrs. Ella MacAdam, Mrs. Ella Burns and Mrs. Jean Rogers, Miss Evelyn Spaulding of Billerica Centre was also heard in some most enjoyable readings.

PUBLIC MEETING OF CATHOLIC FORESTERS

Officers of State Court
Were in Attendance

slage and Mr. A. Lebel welcomed the guests in behalf of Court St. Paul. After brief remarks he presented as president of the assembly, Chief Ranger Raoul H. Monier of Court St. Paul. The latter explained the purpose of the meeting and briefly related the doings of the court since its inception seven years ago, when it was organized by N. V. Marcotte, now chief ranger of the state court.

The next number on the program was the presentation of a large bouquet by little Miss Alice Lebel to C. R. Marcotte, who responded in appropriate terms, closing his remarks by urging the young men to join Catholic societies, especially the Foresters. Rev. Henri-Victor, O. M. I., chaplain of the court, was next called upon for a few remarks and his subject was "Catholic Societies."

Miss Josephine Charbonneau rendered a couple of delightful vocal selections accompanied on the piano by Miss Anna McKercher. The young woman is possessed of a fine soprano voice. Vice High Chief Ranger, Simon Viger of Lawrence was presented a large bouquet, the presentation speech being made by Mr. Adelard Sylvestre, while the gift was presented by little Miss Fabiola Robillard. Mr. Viger in the course of his remarks said the Catholic Order of Foresters was founded in 1833 by the late Archbishop Field of Chicago. One court was founded in Chicago with 42 members. He showed how the organization increased during the past 29 years and explained that there are now 1744 courts in 26 states and two provinces of Canada. The society counts a membership of 151,000 members and is noted to be one of the strongest Catholic orders in the states and Canada.

In 1882 the order paid out $5,500 in death benefits, while last year there were 1,197 death claims. Since its inception the order has paid out in death benefits $1,366,886.84 per year or $13,276 per month, which means $3,572 daily or $158.25 per hour, making $2.64 per minute. The sick benefits amounted to $4,000,000. The speaker said there is now $2,775,000 in the treasury and with the new rates which will go into effect on Jan. 1, the order will be able to meet all its obligations.

At the close of his remarks Mr. Viger said he had been detailed by the state court to decorate Mr. Arthur Lavoie with a gold medal of the Legion of Honor as a token of appreciation from the members of Court St. Paul and the state court. He told of Mr. Lavoie's work for the order and said he was one of the most devoted members in the order. Mr. Lavoie was then escorted to the stage by Garde Frontenac and the decoration was made by the state chief ranger, Mr. N. V. Marcotte amidst loud applause. The new member of the Legion of Honor thanked his brethren and promised to continue helping the order.

There were several well done evolutions by Garde Frontenac and the evening closed with the following program: Vocal selection, Arthur Leveille; remarks, Alderman J. D. N. Souliere, Worcester; J. A. Daughlins.

NURSERY PLAY BOX

Habits of tidiness can easily be instilled in the nursery if they are made a pleasure instead of a hardship.

It should never be impressed on a child's mind that necessary duties are troublesome and then punishment given for the natural evasion that follows.

If bread and butter were to follow the cakes and the jam instead of preceding them at mealtimes, would not our little ones look on bread and butter as a "treat" instead of, as is generally the case, an uninteresting and "stodgy" infliction?

Following the same idea, why not make tidying up after playtime a privilege, a reward for "being good"? Let the boys and girls race each other to see which can get their things put away in perfect order first; then there is no grumbling when the summons comes to interrupt an exciting game of soldiers or housekeeping.

Each young member of the family should be given a play box of his or her own, and all will then have pride in keeping everything tidy.

A disguised packing case answers the purpose splendidly. It should be planned as smooth as possible, all dangerous nails removed and have a lid fitted with hinges to fasten with a safety catch that cannot hurt the tiny, tender fingers. Wall paper makes an excellent lining, and the outside of the box can be covered with druggist, cloths or sacking, with the owner's name painted on it in large letters.

The inside can be fitted with partitions, arranged to suit the child's need, and with very little extra trouble a tray is added to lift in and out that will hold small, light articles.

Such boxes may be piled one above another on shelves in a corner of the nursery, thus taking up little space, but if room can be spared it is the best plan to place them in a row by the wainscoting, so that they will not have to be lifted down before the children can use them.

They are delightful possessions, a real "joy forever," as they will answer many purposes besides that of being more boxes.

At need they become forts, or ships, or trains, or shops, or doll houses, or anything else under heaven, for the childish imagination can without help from material accessories, build up all that it longs for, even to the grandest of "castles in Spain."

FOR THE LITTLE LADDE

The very little laddie just out of babyhood wears a dainty, simple, boyish frock of stout linen, and an ideal frock of this type is of brown holland with white trimmings. The chubby boy of five is particularly manly in a middy suit of snowy duck, with chevrons and boy's sun's whistle and cord. At seven a sailor suit of dark serge or wool mixture with embroidered sleeve chevron and collar and belt of contrasting fabric will be the proper costume. At eight the small boy acquires conventional masculine garb and has his hair cut.

For Sweethearts and Wives

(Aunt Ruth in Household Helps)

"If the eyelashes are short and thin, plain pyroxin should be applied to lash roots with thumb and forefinger to make them grow thick and beautifully long. Thin eyebrows improve with daily applications of pyroxin.

Men admire glossy, well kept hair. Any girl can keep her hair light, fluffy and beautifully lustrous by dry shampooing every week or so. Put four ounces of powdered orris root in a fruit jar, add an original package of therox and mix together. Sprinkle a little on the head and brush through the hair. Therox removes dust, oil and dandruff.

Now comes the time when dainty complexioned look shiny from perspiration. A complexion beautifier that will not rub off or show like powder is made easily by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel. Gently massage face, neck and arms with this solution daily, and the skin will be soft, lovely, smooth and satiny.

"Embossing wild hairs can be made to vanish quickly from face or forehead by using delatone paste, made by mixing powdered delatone with water. Cover the hairy surface with this paste for two or three minutes; then remove, wash the skin, and the hairs will be gone."

SEVERAL SHOTS WERE FIRED IN THE HUNGARIAN DIET

Count Tisza, President of the Lower House, Had Narrow Escape From Death

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 7.—Count Tisza, president of the lower house, had a very narrow escape from assassination in the diet this morning. He was fired upon three times by Deputy Julius Kovacs, who then shot himself, probably with fatal effect. Count Tisza was unscathed. Kovacs was one of the most militant members of the opposition and was included with those who were ejected from the chamber Wednesday because of disorderly conduct. He was suspended for several sittings but this morning when the chamber reconvened he managed to evade the police and found his way into the press gallery. Soon after the proceedings opened Kovacs moved to the front of the gallery and shouting "There are still opposition members in the chamber" drew a revolver and emptied three chambers in the direction of the president. Then, seemingly chagrined at his bad marksmanship, he put two bullets into his own body.

The attack upon the count is a direct outcome of the agitation which has persisted since his election as speaker on May 22. Tisza is an opponent of universal suffrage and on this issue his election was contested with bitterness that culminated in violence in the chamber and bloodshed in the streets.

The whole affair took on a revolutionary character and the government was forced to compromise with the socialists by inducing the manufacturers involved in the strike to make certain concessions. The men returned to work on May 25 and the demonstrations shifted from the streets to the diet. The opposition by noisy tactics prevented the passage of legislation and the deadlock was unbroken until last Tuesday when President Tisza forced through the government's defense bills in the midst of a tumult. On the following day when the proceedings were again interrupted the president called in the police, who expelled 30 members of the opposition. Later these, with other obstructionists, were suspended for from 15 to 25 sittings.

WOMAN'S CONCOCTIONS

"When a woman prepares refreshments for a party," said a cynical master person, "she takes the inside out of something and puts in the inside of something else." Then she pours a yellow mixture over the result and its success depends upon the difficulty the guests have in telling what it was before she began fooling with it."

STRAWBERRIES

An artistic and appetizing first course for a formal luncheon consists in filling colla lilies with fresh strawberries. The flowers should have the stems cut off about an inch and a half from the blossom and the centre stem removed. The berries are then filled in and the lily laid flat on the pretty china plate.

United States is Ten Years Behind In the Field of Electrical Progress

Two Views of the Trackless Trolley in Operation in California

When a man of the highest standing in electrical matters says the United States is ten years behind in a field of electrical progress it should be time for Americans to wake up. Such is their standing in the matter of the adoption of the trackless trolley, in successful operation in Europe for several years and only now attracting general attention in America. Europe has at least twelve or fifteen trolley trackless systems, says Thomas Comberford Martin, the electrical expert, authority for the statement made above. In his "Report of the Committee on Progress," prepared for reading before the convention of the National Electrical Light Association in Seattle, June 10-14, this year, Mr. Martin says: "An entirely new department of business for central stations is the trackless trolley, operating on suburban roads or in rural districts where it is undesirable or unprofitable to install tracks, so that the opportunity ignored by trolley systems falls as naturally to the central stations as does the charging of electric automobiles, some of which might, of course, do the same work."

The trackless trolley, with contact wires overhead, has already been adopted at numerous places in Europe, and there are hundreds of communities in America that could be benefited by such a service, the central station at the same time picking up a nice, steady, off peak load and having quite frequently, already in use, the pole lines to which the circuits can be attached or else securing in this new field an additional use that will warrant the erection of such a line. The subject is already receiving very serious attention and many such installations may be looked for in the near future."

There is at present only one trackless trolley system in operation in America. That is, in California, near Los Angeles. It has been in successful use more than a year. Four years ago the matter was taken up in New Haven, Conn., and tests were made, but nothing came of the venture. The subject is receiving constantly "growing attention in Europe."

As far back as 1907, three trackless trolley routes were operated in Austria, six or seven in Italy and one or two in Germany, according to the official reports of the central bureau on street and electric railways. A year ago lines were opened in Leeds and Bradford, Eng. The description of the vehicle, and method of operation given in the report mentioned may be taken as descriptive of all the systems:

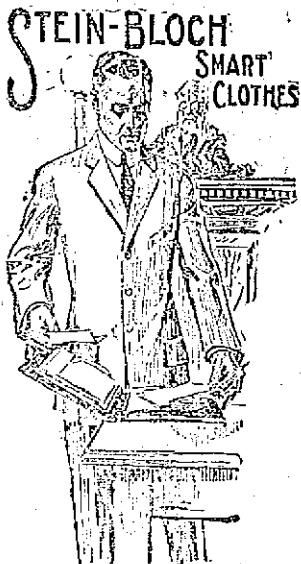

"The vehicles correspond in general appearance to the single deck motor omnibuses, plus the means of collecting current. A double trolley method is necessary to complete the circuit from the wire through the motors and back to the generating plant. On one of the lines in Vienna two pairs of cables are used, so that passing cars do not have to stop and exchange connections, as on other lines and as was done by some of the earlier electric railway trolley systems in the United States. "The Austrian vehicles, which, empty, weigh two and a half tons apiece, each carry 12 passengers seated, with standing room for 12 more. The electric motor, each of 22 horsepower, forms the hub of the rear wheels, and current is led to them by a flexible cable attached to a pair of wheels which run on top of the wire, a similar pair making the return circuit. A weighted pendulum slung from a frame presses the wheels down upon the wires. "It is stated that all the systems examined operated smoothly, with few hitches, and that owing to the comparative lightness of the vehicles the road suffers less than in the case of cars carrying gasoline or other engines. The committee reports itself as much impressed with the practicability of all the systems for transportation feeder purposes in sparsely settled districts and as a means of avoiding the heavy expense required for the installation of ordinary street railways."

In addition it may be said that the trackless trolley system lends itself very well to the purpose of those who desire to avoid the laying of tracks in restricted roads along which regular means of transportation of passengers or freight are needed. The wires may be hidden in trees at the sides of roads. In some cases the cars have been equipped with storage batteries so that the wires may be left if desired and the cars then may be run independently until such time as it is found advisable to hitch them again to the central sources of power. But the objection to this form of utilization of the cars lies in the expense of the batteries. In the opinion of Mr. Martin, and the European trackless trolleys have not been fitted generally with batteries. The flexible cable and the absence of tracks enable the car to run on any part of a road, overtake other carriages or to turn anywhere, accommodating itself, therefore, to all sorts of traffic. The great merit of the system has been found in Europe to be very reasonable.

ROCKLAND, Me., June 7.—The battleship Arkansas left here early today to continue her builders' acceptance trials. As she was anchored five miles outside the inner harbor and the weather was thick it was not known on shore what time she took her departure. The first of the trials was a four-hour endurance run on which she was expected to average 20½ knots an hour to meet the requirements of her contract. On that run she burned coal alone. This will be followed by a two-hour run, burning coal and oil. Then will follow a 24-hour run at 15 knot speed. The only other test would be a 24-hour run at 12 knot speed, but it was uncertain whether this would be made now or at the final acceptance trial which will be required owing to the accident to the cruising turbine.

training first came the great technical schools, such as the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, and now have come the textile schools and the various industrial schools. This new educational movement means much to the industrial development and to the future prosperity of the United States. In my judgment no schools are doing better work than our three great textile schools here in Massachusetts. I was present at the dedication of this building in which today these graduating exercises are being held. I have spoken at the graduation exercises of the Bradford-Burton Textile School of Fall River and of the New Bedford Textile School, and now I am especially glad to join with you in these graduation exercises. I have great interest and much faith in all these schools. I congratulate you upon what has already been accomplished by the work you are doing and I prophesy a great future for this school. You are serving not the select few, but, in your evening classes especially, you reach the great mass of ambitious textile workers. By developing their ability to serve their employers you increase their ability to serve themselves. You make them better men and better citizens.

This is a city of great mills and workshops. Let us never forget that in the last analysis these mills and these workshops are for the benefit of the multitudes of people who work in them and not for the benefit of the few who own and manage such mills and factories. If this were not so, then indeed would our industrial system be a failure. An industrial system which does not permit the normal development of childhood into manhood and womanhood, a system which tends to destroy the bodies and crush down the minds and souls of the many, cannot long endure.

Industrial Peace Needed

Industrial peace is essential to the prosperity and happiness both of employers and of employees. In the long run, the interests of capital and labor are the same. To harmonize these interests for the benefit of society is, therefore, essential. There can never be contentment and harmony, there can never be industrial peace until the individual worker is assured safe and healthful conditions of employment and a living wage for a reasonable day's work. The wage workers of the commonwealth must have a reasonable opportunity for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

NEW WING OF LOWELL TEXTILE SCHOOL

An industry which cannot pay a living wage for a reasonable day's work has no right to exist. No industry is good for a community the wage scale of which is permanently sub-normal.

This fundamental problem of industrial conditions, of wages and of hours, must be worked out. If it is not so worked out as to insure a reasonably high standard of living in each industry, then, not only our industrial system, but our free government itself becomes insecure. Oppressive conditions, insufficient wages and unreasonable hours of labor lead directly to discontent, to industrial wars and to socialism.

Employers' Obligation

Employers must realize the situation which confronts us in time. They must feel responsibility for the living conditions of their employees. They must look upon their employees not merely as machines out of which to get work but as men and women, as citizens and as brothers.

I realize the difficulties of the situation. It is always a nice question to decide how far and how fast Massachusetts acting alone can afford to go in this direction.

A Difficult Problem

Under our federal system of government and in the face of competition from other states, with longer hours and lower wages, this is a difficult problem to work out. But it must be worked out if we are to avoid that driving this country on to socialism. If the nation had power to fix uniform hours and uniform conditions of labor throughout the country, the problem would be easier of solution. If it were not for our protective tariff we would be in unrestricted competition with the feeling is as yet very widespread or very deep-seated. If all our citizens, employers and employees alike, and especially our legislators, act with fairness, with self-restraint and with wisdom in solving our great social and industrial problems I believe that that feeling of brotherhood, so essential in government like ours, can be kept alive. Now I believe that this school and schools like it which are trying to serve the interests of the workingman and of the employer alike, can do much to further the cause of industrial peace and of true progress.

ROCKINGHAM PARK AUTO RACES

Manager James F. Kerr, of the automobile race events scheduled for next Saturday at Rockingham Park, Salem, N. H., announced last evening an event added to those which were postponed from Memorial day on account of rain, which gives promise of several thrills and no little excitement. This will be a five mile match race between Charlie Basle in a 90 h. p. Blanche, the famous Italian racer, and Leland Hersey driving F. B. Collins' famous Chadwick. Hersey is a new professional in the field as compared with Basle, but the enthusiasts are looking to young Hersey to cast a shadow on Basle, at least a part of the way, if not at the finish.

The event of the day on which all interest will be centered will be that of the 20 mile race in which Harry F. Grant, the Vanderbilt cup winner, will race his 35 h. p. Berkshire against Harry Cobe in a 50 h. p. Jackson, and Charlie Basle in a Chadwick.

Other events will be a 50 mile race, and 10 and 5 mile races. Many of the crack star drivers of the country are entered and the Rockingham Park management is prepared to entertain the biggest crowd ever known at this track.

YESTERDAY'S RAIN INTERFERED WITH NEW ENGLAND GAMES

ANDREW F. ROACH AND JAMES J. KENNEDY, OWNERS OF
THE LOWELL BALL TEAM

Lowell Owners are Striving to Secure a Winning Team for This City

All the New England games were postponed yesterday on account of rain and in every city the managers report that this season has been the poorest paying in years on that very account, poor weather. Of course several of the teams, including our own, have made many ascensions and this too has decreased the attendance at the games considerably. But if we ever get good weather, and if the pitchers get going right and if the team bats as it should, we will win the pennant. There is no question but this weather is hard on players and while that may be the reason for the showing so far, many are of the opinion that there are others.

One man says that since the last trade the team has greatly benefited and that they will now play baseball, which they are certainly capable of doing. All over the circuit yesterday, where the players assembled and held fanling bees, there was much discussion about the Cooney-McGinnis deal. The general opinion is that we pulled a good one. Many congratulated the Lowell manager for pulling off what they term a great trade.

With the tall left-hander on the initial sack Miller on second, Bautes third, and Loneragan at short, the Lowell infield looks good. The outfield is present is of championship caliber, but McGinnis is not batting as good as the fans expected, and is surely not hitting like he did last season. His fielding is very good, but the boy with the willow is what is needed at this stage of the game.

The catching department is about as good as there is in this league. Lavigne is not only catching great, but his batting is one of the features of the team's work. He is hitting in great style and if his present fast gain continues the New England league will not be big enough to hold him next season. Monahan is also a very good man, and though not as fast as Little Arthur, he is a good second man. He too is hitting finely.

The pitching staff though is the principal weak spot on the team. Zolner while wild and ineffective in the first game at Lawrence Tuesday, came back strong in the second game and twirled a remarkable game. He has the stuff, and judging from the manner in which he went into the game with great odds against him, of being taken out of the first game and being pitched against the star, Keating, he did a wonderful thing. Mayhew and Wolfgang have pitched some good games, this season, but have recently received their bumps. The new man, Kolsteth, is said to be a good one, and all the fans hope so.

The Lowell fans realize that the owners of the team and Manager Gray are working hard to bring a winning team here. Messrs. Kennedy and Roach have instructed the manager to spare no expense to get the goods and they have so far invested a great deal of money. They say that they will continue until the team is satisfactory. The attendance at the games this season have been good, considering the weather, but unless the weather improves a great financial loss will be suffered by the owners.

Tomorrow Lowell and Haverhill will meet in a double-header at Spaulding park, the first game starting at 2 o'clock.

DIAMOND NOTES

If "Rube" De Groen, outfielder of the Lowell team, was known around the circuit for his amusing stunts as well as his hard hitting he would be a great drawing card. It is worth while to get around to a game an hour earlier when Lowell is playing to see Lotzoff pull off the comedy. The right fielder can catch a ball in his lap pocket, barehanded, in his hat, through his legs or almost any way. Then again he misses them in trying to make spectacular catches and this gives the fans the chance to have a hearty laugh at "Rube's" expense.—Lawrence Sun.

It is not generally known that Manager Connaughton got into an argument with Manager O'Brien at Athletic field Memorial day morning and in consequence of a delay from the Fall River manager, Connaughton challenged O'Brien to a duel in any branch of athletic sports.

O'Brien hotly declared that he could lick Connaughton, an assertion which caused the New Bedford manager to come back with a dare, which, up to date, the Fall River manager has not dared to accept.

Connaughton stated last evening that he was naturally of a peaceful turn of mind but he did not propose to stand for any pugilistic talk. That O'Brien might put up. There is promise of an interesting set-to when next the rival managers meet.—New Bedford Mercury.

In April rain fell on 23 days and in May it rained 15 days of the month—reason enough for the league magnates to be peevish.

Jimmy Gray is so hard up for pitchers that he intends to use Jake Doules in the box. Jake twirled for the Boston Nationals once, but that was many days ago, and surely he has not improved as a pitcher since then, or else he would not be playing the third bag.—Exchange. Some of them always came back for more.

Arthur Lavigne does not let up his good work behind the bat for Lowell. Arthur hits well, and never in his history has he thrown to second so well.

—Exchange. Well, about that, they started to realize that "Little Arthur" is some catcher. "She's the best that ever 'twas in this league."

"Bob" Gauley, former New England leaguer, is through in the Southern league. He has been cut loose by the Atlanta club.—Exchange.

Keating is beginning to get his bumps, maybe Van Dyke won't be glad to get another crack at him.—Worcester Post.

Lawrence is going like a house afire right now, but those barstiffs are bound to hit a shump, and then—there is no telling what will happen.

Manager Clark Griffiths of the Washington team, says that Chicago recently purchased Gandil from the Montreal team of the International league, where he has been a sensation for the last two years. This is not his first entry into the big show. He was a member of the Chicago White Sox three years ago and was sent back to the minors for more seasoning.

JIM CALLAHAN AND HIS WHITE SOX ARE SHOWING CLASS

Will the Chicago White Sox blow? That is a question big league bugs are asking. And big league baseball writers are pondering over the amazing form Jimmy Callahan's men have shown this season. The Sox leader has two youngsters, Rath and Weaver, in the middle of his inner works, and these players are said to be playing in grand style and with all the confidence of old leaguers.

The doubt seems to hang over Weaver. Rath went to the Sox from Cleveland, and the Cleveland writers believe he will keep to his guns, although they didn't count him in the running when he was turned over to the Sox. Callahan's supporters believe he will be in the fight until the end. It is such unexpected doings as the capers of the White Sox, the Cincinnati Reds and the Washingtons that make baseball the wonderful game it is. The uncertainty of the game and the surprises that arise from that uncertainty keep the interest in the sport at high tide and the turnstiles never grow rusty.

Austrian Watermen Are Strong May Win Some Olympic Events

While it is not likely that Austria will send more than three or four swimmers to the Olympic games, as they would be hopelessly outclassed in most of the events, the Vienna newspapers express the belief that Otto Sheff, O. Demjan, F. Kellner and H. Kollner have a good chance to land the awards.

This seems to outsiders rather an optimistic view to take of the situation when past performances are considered. Still, in these days of rapid progress in aquatics everything is possible, and it is unwise to be too skeptical. Sheff is undoubtedly a good man at 400 and 1500 yards, and if he has improved of late, as claimed, he may accomplish the unexpected for some time ago he negotiated 400 yards in 5 minutes 40 seconds in a 110 foot pool and one mile in 25 minutes 30 seconds over a 110 yard course. At that, though, his prospects are not over bright.

Demjan, on the other hand, appears to be a rather promising candidate for the two breast stroke races. At 200 meters he may only make a bid for a place, but at 400 meters he is credited with having done 6 minutes, 45 seconds, and this time, if correct, would place him in line for the title.

Kellner may figure in the 100 meter back stroke race. He is thought to be able to swim the distance under 1 minute 19 seconds, and such a performance would rank him with the leaders.

As to Kollner, the fancy diver, he must have developed wonderfully in the running, and even European experts think his skill has been greatly overestimated. They don't concede him a look in.

Chicago watermen are making a great fuss over the recent 225 yard performance of Kenneth Huzzagh, who finished second to McGillivray in 2 minutes, 21 seconds. They are predicting that he will defeat all easterners in the layout for the relay team, besides asserting that he will prove one of our most valuable representatives at the Olympic games owing to his brilliant 100 yard work.

Unfortunately, their great hopefulness is in no way warranted. Huzzagh's furlong mark was made in a sixty foot pool and is equal to about 2 minutes 24 seconds in a standard foot tank, which is slower time than that of Rollie of the New York A. C. or Fritell of the city C. C. or Hubner of the Illinois A. C. and when it comes to sprinting Huzzagh has been consistently defeated by Duke Kahanamoku of Hawaii, and only a few days since Harry Hubner of the Illinois A. C. traveled the century in 55.1-5 seconds, which is faster by almost two seconds than the best marks of either Huzzagh or Kahanamoku. So, without wishing to throw cold water on the waterman's heated enthusiasm it must be admitted that everything seems to indicate that there are several better men for both the 100 and 220 yard distances than the Windy City youth.

According to Coach Sullivan of Princeton, Harry O'Sullivan of the New York A. C. will wear the orange and black in competition next season and be eligible for the varsity team. As the Mercury footer has repeatedly beaten 60 seconds for 100 yards, he should prove a strong contender for the intercollegiate title in 1913.

SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE

HAS BEEN ORGANIZED

Representatives From Churches and Charitable Organizations Held Meeting

At a meeting last night of representatives from many of the churches and charitable organizations of this city, the Lowell Social Service League was formally inaugurated.

The meeting was held in the rooms of the Board of Trade and there was a short address by Mr. Robert A. Woods of the South End house, Boston, on the scope and effectiveness of a social service league such as it was proposed should be established here.

Mr. Woods said, in part: "One of the most encouraging facts in our modern American life is the interest which our young business men take, not in the attainment solely of their own personal success and that of their business, but in setting aside of these more selfish desires for the betterment of their community and in their interest in the public welfare. The business organizations, too, as bodies, are taking a very friendly sort of interest in the welfare of the community, the same sort of interest which the Board of Trade in this city has shown toward you in your plans for organizing a clearing house for the charitable work of the city."

"When I was serving on one of the district boards of the London Charitable society I found that one of the most important features of charitable work was looking after the individual family, the family being a little nation in itself and the very foundation of society itself."

"I also discovered that the method of dealing with the family was simply a problem of sympathetic assistance and co-operation. Each family and individual in that family had to have his

ECZEMA? TRY ZEMO

Yes, try Zemo. That's all you need to get rid of the worst case of eczema. You take no chance, it is no experiment. Zemo is positively guaranteed to stop itching, rash, raw, bleeding eczema, make a pimply face smooth and clean. Zemo is a wonder and the minute applied it sinks in, vanishes, leaves no evidence, doesn't stick, no grease, just a pure, clean, wonderful liquid and it cures. This is guaranteed. Zemo is put up by the E. W. Dows Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., and is regularly sold by druggists at $1 for the large bottle and 25-cent for the liberal size trial bottle. case diagnosed and treated in the same way that a physician treats the individual patient, in fact there have been great strides made in charitable work from the study of medical work. "And other great needs of organized charitable work are the need of high intelligence and thorough training, the need of imagination which will be able to plan and look forward into the future, and last but not least, the need of great intellectual persistence."

"To the social and political betterment of a city, organized charitable work is the very foundation because it goes into the homes, builds them up and strengthens them, raises each individual in the home to a position where he can stand on his own feet, makes him independent and able to stand for himself, free from all dominance by selfish bosses."

"The foundation of our schools is in the home. Many times a teacher finds one of her pupils seriously handicapped by conditions which she is unable to cope with because she cannot give each individual in her care the study and time necessary to solve the problem of his home life. Many a child is held down through life by the serious physical and moral handicaps of his early life at home. These questions can be cared for by the organization and charitable work which deals with the individual home and the problems for the betterment of the conditions which a careful study reveals."

"Another phase of this work is that of caring for the chronic cases of destitution and drunkenness and other forms of social evil. We have all learned that there are contagious diseases and we take stringent care of them nowadays. But there is a moral contagion just as truly as there is a physical contagion and these chronic cases of destitution and poverty should be treated by isolation and treatment just as contagious diseases are."

"And lastly I want to mention the neighborhood work. This is one of the greatest phases of all. When we undertake to better the conditions in our own neighborhoods there arises a pooling of interests which results not only in the attainment of the betterment of the neighborhood but in the creation of public spirit, a by-product more valuable than the original product desired, a condition which has so often happened in our industrial life."

The constitution as drawn up by the committee of three, appointed for that purpose was read by the chairman of that committee, Rev. Clarence R. Skinner. The constitution was accepted.

TAFT WINS FIRST FIGHT

Before the Republican National Committee

CHICAGO, June 5.—President Taft won the first of the contests for seats in the republican national convention heard by the republican national committee today when by a vote of 53 to 0, a unanimous decision, the contest over the Alabama delegates at large, six in number, was decided in favor of the "long" (Taft) delegation.

The first vote was viva voce, Senator Borah asking for an aye and nay vote, although evidently there were no negatives.

His request was complied with and confirmed the unanimous decision.

NORTHERN STATION

ENGINEERS MAKING SURVEYS IN THAT VICINITY

This morning at the Middlesex street station several engineers were making surveys. They also measured the crossing there and it is said at the depot that they were doing the work in view of the fact that the new grade crossing at that point will soon be started.

The traveling on the trains was reported to be very good and all were on schedule. Several more Lowell people left today for the beaches along the Maine coast.

The attaches of the depot are expecting that the new time table will present many changes. One of the men said that he was informed many of the trains that now go into Boston will be changed, and that more will pass through Lowell. There is a movement so that the New York trains changed so that the company will receive the baggage fare and not express companies in the hub.

Frank Goss, baggage master at the depot, who attended the convention of the Order of Moose in Springfield yesterday, was back on the job today.

GRAIN ELEVATOR BUILT FOR THE J. B. COVER CO.

NEW GRAIN ELEVATOR OF J. B. COVER CO.

New Structure in Middle Street Will Store Many Carloads of Grain

The new grain elevator of the J. B. Cover Co. in Middle street, next to the Central fire station, is now finished and will be occupied soon. The building is of brick, 33x50 feet, three stories high. The plans were drawn by Architect Henry L. Rourke and the work was done by C. P. & J. B. Varum, while the foundation and the brick were set by Patrick Conlon.

On the first floor are the offices and salesroom as well as a large shipping room and a large elevator with a capacity of two tons, which runs from the basement to the third floor. The second and third floors as well as a large basement 10 feet deep will be used as storage rooms. In the rear of the building are grain bins extending from the first floor to the roof. The capacity of each bin is 20 cars of grain. The grain cars run in the rear of the building and are unloaded by power, one man alone unloading a car in one hour. The building is said to be one of the strongest in the city and is almost fire proof. The second and third floors will hold 25 car loads of grain, while the basement's capacity is 20 car loads.

The tower which can be seen on the above picture is that of the Central fire station in Palmer street, adjoining the new grain elevator.

TO GROW HAIR ON A BALD HEAD

BY A SPECIALIST

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless, the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist. Buy Bala, 5 ounces; Lavona de Cologne, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystal, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add half to one teaspoonful of Te-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Do not apply to the face or where hair is not desired. Before publication we presented this prescription at Hall & Lyon's drug store, this city, and they state that they have filled it many times for their patrons who report most astonishing results from its use.

GRAND MINSTREL PERFORMANCE

Testimonial to William H. Way a Big Success

The minstrel and vaudeville testimonial to William H. Way at the Hathaway theatre last night was very largely attended. The entertainment was one of the best produced by amateurs of this city and created a favorable impression. The members of the Lowell baseball club were guests of the evening and they occupied the boxes. Mr. Frank K. Stearns, an old-timer on the amateur stage, was at the helm again as interlocutor and his work was very commendable. The first half of the entertainment was furnished by the Honey Boys, a local minstrel organization. It opened as do all professional minstrel first parts with a medley overture, and in this instance the solo numbers were sustained by Miss Helen Dixon. "The Mexican Twist" was given a good rendering by Edward (Tip) Hanley, one of the end men, and this was followed by the bass number, "Over the Hilltop Sea" by G. Irving

MICHAEL J. MAHONEY, Who Played a Part in "The Burglar."

DANDRUFF 20 YEARS AND FALLING HAIR

So Bad Coat Collar and Shoulders Continually Covered With Great White Scales, Itching and Smarting Intense. Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

46 W. 22nd St., New York City.—"For twenty years I have been troubled with dandruff and falling hair, itching and burning scalp, and to that time I have used dozens of widely advertised hair tonics, dandruff cures, and scalp treatments, in no case with any lasting benefit. The dandruff was so bad that my coat collar and shoulders were continually covered with the great white scales, and my hair was becoming very thin. The itching and smarting was so intense and so constant that at times I could not sleep."

"I purchased a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. I used the Cuticura Ointment once a week, gently rubbing it into the scalp before retiring and following it the next morning with a light shampoo with Cuticura Soap. Now my scalp is as healthy, clear and free from dandruff as any man's and my hair is perceptibly thicker. It never comes out now when I brush and comb it. From the time Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured my dandruff I have not felt the slightest return of the trouble." (Signed) F. F. Stone, Nov. 21, 1911.

The regular use of Cuticura Soap, assisted when necessary by Cuticura Ointment, not only preserves, purifies and beautifies the skin, scalp, hair and hands, but tends to prevent clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, indurated, irritating, redness and roughness, and other unsightly conditions. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Address, "Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston. Tender-faced men should shave with Cuticura Shaving Stick.

WILSON DELEGATES WERE CHOSEN BY NORTH CAROLINA CONVENTION

RALEIGH, N. C., June 7.—After an all-night session the state democratic convention elected eight delegates at large to the Baltimore convention and by a vote of 503 to 356 endorsed Gov. Woodrow Wilson's candidacy. The delegates were unopposed, but six are said to favor Governor Wilson and two are said to be neutral. The convention was a tumultuous one and adjourned at 6:30 o'clock this morning. Each delegate will have a half vote. Friends of Governor Kitchin in vain endeavored to prevent the endorsement of the record Sen. Simmons, whom the governor is opposing for reelection. Locke Craig was nominated for governor.

HOW THIN PEOPLE MAY PUT ON FLESH

Great Discovery by Eminent Specialists

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing the arms, neck and bust and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness, and it therefore gives us real pleasure to publish herewith a simple prescription which, by correcting faulty metabolism and stimulating the activity of certain sluggish vital organs, quickly produces a marvelous transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently averaging from 4 to 5 pounds the first week, and very rarely less than 2. This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Catarrh, dyspepsia and nervousness, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, all gradually disappear; dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with a bloom of perfect health.

The prescription, which contains no dangerous drugs and is absolutely harmless, calls for 2 oz. Tincture of Doan's Compound, 2 oz. Fluid of Elixoph, 2 oz. Elix. of Calisaya and enough water to fill an 8-oz. bottle, and can readily be prepared by any druggist. One or two tablespoonfuls should be taken about 20 minutes before each meal. Eat all you want but chew your food thoroughly.

Inquiry develops the fact that this prescription is frequently filled at Hall & Lyon's Pharmacy in this city, and by other prominent central city druggists, and we are led by their statements to add the following:

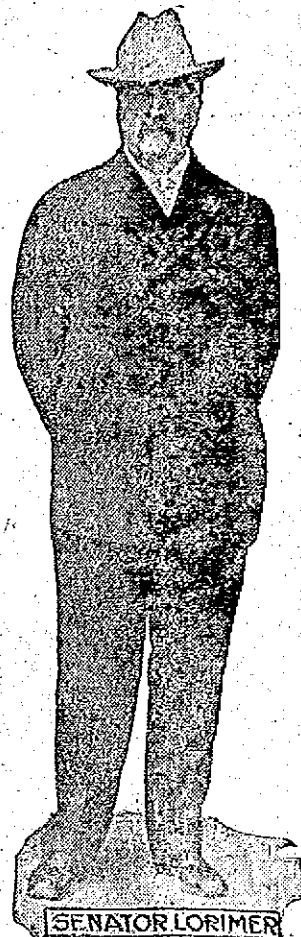

(CAUTION: Although the above prescription is unequalled for relieving nervousness, indigestion and catarrhal troubles, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.)

U. S. SENATOR LORIMER

WASHINGTON, June 7.—It is reported that Senator Lorimer has withdrawn his refusal to resign and will quit the senate. The request for his resignation came from his own friends.

and was a renowned one. They wish him to save them embarrassment. They told him that Senators Simmons of North Carolina and Martin and Swanson of Virginia, who voted for him before, will not do so again and that others are ready to change their votes.

PATROLMAN CORCORAN PASSED AWAY TODAY

Was a Member of Dept. 30 Years

The many friends of Patrolman Peter J. Corcoran will be pained to learn of his death which occurred this morning at his late home, 335 High street, after a lingering illness endured with patience and resignation.

Deceased was one of the best known police officers of this city and his demise will be a keen blow to all who knew him as well as a painful surprise to his many friends. Patrolman Corcoran was a native of Ireland. He was appointed to the supernumerary force in 1880 and a year later on Feb. 5, he was made a regular. On Aug. 1, 1883, he was appointed warrant officer and on Jan. 24, 1887, was made senior deputy chief, a position he held until Jan. 24, 1888, when he was succeeded by the late Jacob G. Faver. In the same year he returned to his beat and was commended twice for efficient service. In 1903 he was made a member of the liquor squad and the following year he returned to patrol duty. Two years later he was again placed in charge of the warrant department and in 1908 he returned to patrolman, his last beat being that of the poor farm on the early night shift.

Deceased was taken sick several months ago and passed away this morning. The department will greatly feel his loss as he was a very active and efficient police officer.

He leaves to mourn his loss, besides his bereaved wife, Rose A., one daughter, Miss Mary E. Corcoran; four sons, Thomas C., John B., Peter J. and Wm. D. Corcoran; one grandson, Peter James Corcoran; also two brothers,

A telegram from Mrs. Frederick P. Shaw to her father-in-law, Dr. Thos. P. Shaw of this city, informing him that her husband, Frederick P. Shaw, formerly of Lowell, was killed in Central America, was received last evening. No details of the accident were given.

Frederick P. Shaw was well known in Lowell. He was employed at the Lowell Machine Shop for a number of years as paymaster, resigning that position to conduct the Shaw Machine Co. with a plant at Middlesex Village. After a short time in the new enterprise he resigned and went to Providence and later to New York, where his wife is now residing. ## MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Ernest McGowan and Miss Helen Gertrude Scanlon, two popular residents of this city, were united in marriage at the parochial residence of St. Michael's church Wednesday afternoon by Rev. John J. Shaw, pastor. The bride was Miss Annie McGowan, a sister of the groom, and the best man was John Scanlon, a brother of the bride. The bride wore a dress of white silk trimmed with silver spangles. The bridesmaid wore a gown of white silk, trimmed with duchess lace.

After the ceremony the wedding party went to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Sarah M. Scanlon, 270 Lakeview avenue, where a supper was served. A reception was held and the couple received congratulations of their many friends. They were also recipients of many presents.

A reception was also given them at the Pony club in Lakeview avenue, of which the bridegroom was a popular member.

They will leave on Friday for a two weeks' wedding tour, most of the time to be spent at Cotuit. On their return they will make their home at 270 Lakeview avenue, where they will be at home to their friends after July 1st.

CARR-BALDWIN

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Baldwin in Tewksbury, when their daughter Leona was married to Mr. Henry Irving Carr. Rev. H. H. Bishop of the First Baptist church officiated.

The bride was attended by her sister Ida as maid of honor, and little Velma May Trull as flower girl, and little Walter Joel Baldwin, Jr., as page.

The bride's dress was of handsome ivory white messaline silk cut with square train, draped with embroidered silk chiffon. Her full length tulle veil was caught with a wreath of orange blossoms, giving the quaint Dutch bonnet effect. She carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor wore white messaline silk trimmed with shadow lace and silk fringe. She wore pearl ornaments in her hair and carried pink roses. The little flower girl wore headed chiffon over cream white silk messaline, with Dutch bonnet to match. She carried a basket of flowers.

The little page wore a very pretty white Russian suit. The groom was attended by Ralph Greenwood. The ushers were Messrs. Jesse R. Trull, J. Chester Trull, Chas. Craig and Walter J. Baldwin.

Following the ceremony a reception was held, the young couple being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Joel Baldwin, the parents of the bride, and Mrs. John Roberts, aunt of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Carr were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts. They left in an automobile amidst showers of confetti for a wedding trip. On their return they will reside in Methuen, Mass.

There were guests present from Troy, New York, Claremont, N. H., Boston, Haverhill, Lawrence.

AN IMPORTANT ARREST MADE BY OFFICER CLARK

Man Tried to Pawn a Revolver He Had Skeleton Keys in His Possession

Patrolman John H. Clark arrested a man thought to be a noted thief last night, who gave the name of Joseph Collins, jeweler of Providence, R. I. The man was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of larceny of a revolver valued at $5 from an unknown person. He entered a plea of not guilty and his case was continued till Monday morning.

Last evening Patrolman Clark saw Collins enter a pawnshop in Middlesex street, and being somewhat suspicious of him, he watched him. When inside the pawn shop, Collins pulled a revolver other party and the two tried to dispose of a $10 diamond.

Larceny Charged

Thomas F. Brown was arraigned before Judge Fisher this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of a coat valued at $10 and a pair of pants worth $5 from an unknown person. He denied his guilt and his case was continued till Monday morning.

Neglected Wife

Joseph C. Bineault admitted being drunk and also pleaded guilty to a charge of neglect of wife. It was learned that the defendant earned $10 per week, but that he would only give about $5 for the support of his family. After providing for the court he would give all his money to his wife, he was given a suspended sentence of one month in jail, while the complaint of drunkenness was placed on file.

Alphonse Bourque, a second offender for drunkenness, was fined $5, while Hugh J. Bourque's case for the same offense was continued till tomorrow morning so as to give Hugh a chance to sober off.

Joe Thomas, the well known middleweight, who is now a resident of Lowell, has accepted an offer to meet Jack Dillon at Terre Haute, Ind., on July 4th. Joe has been doing light training of late and is in good condition. He had several offers to go to New York and was about to accept them when the excellent offer to meet Dillon was received. Joe will start immediately to get in trim for the bout and expects to bring home the bacon. Dillon is a clever man and has defeated some of the best middleweights in the west. He met Jimmy Gardner several times and always put up great bouts. The bout will be for a large purse and, as it comes on a holiday, a great crowd is expected to be at the ringside.

THE ALUMINUM TRUST MUST NOT CONTROL PRICES

An Agreed Decree Against the Company Filed in U. S. District Court

PITTSBURGH, June 7.—For the purpose of destroying the alleged substantial monopoly of the so-called aluminum trust an agreed decree was entered in the United States district court today against the Aluminum Co. of America. Following closely the prayer of the federal government in its civil anti-trust suit filed a week ago, charging the corporation with monopolizing the industry, the decree abrogates alleged unlawful contracts and restrains the defendant company from negotiating similar pacts or pursuing unfair methods toward competitors. The decree was consented to by the Aluminum Co. as a result of protracted negotiations with Attorney-General Wickersham prior to the filing of the suit. The mandate was drawn and accepted by both the government and the defendant long before the suit was initiated. This is the first time a decree has been agreed on under the Sherman law before court proceedings had been started.

The company is forbidden to participate in any combination or agreement to control the output or prices of aluminum. It is enjoined from combining by stock ownership or otherwise with other manufacturers for this purpose. The decree places a long list of specified unfair methods to competitors under the ban of the court.

Provisions of altered agreements to suppress competition between the aluminum company and the so-called Swiss or Neulassen company of Europe, the General Chemical company, the Norton company, the Pennsylvania Salt Mfg. company, the Gustave A. Kruttschnitt and James C. Coleman, both of Newark, N. J., are abrogated by the decree.

Whenever it is shown that substantial competition cannot be made between the defendant and the plaintiff, application for modification may be made at any time in every three years, however. The decree was presented to the court by William T. Chantland, special assistant to the attorney general, who developed the government's case and U. S. Attorney Jordan of Pittsburgh.

YESTERDAY'S SESSION

When court reconvened at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon court eight was taken up.

"When Mr. Hanson and Mr. Boulger were appointed Mr. Wier resigned," said counsel for plaintiff.

"He did," replied Mr. Stearns.

Counsel for plaintiff then moved on to exhibits nine and ten and read several of the articles alleged to be libelous.

One of the articles referred to a "gambling place" in Prescott street. Mr. Murphy asked Mr. Stearns if he knew anything about such a place and Mr. Stearns replied: "Nothing, except that the superintendent of police said he was watching a place in Prescott street."

Counsel for defense moved on to exhibit twelve and read a paragraph to the effect that the hotels "so-called" were a curse to the community. It was stated in the article that men and women had been robbed in them and that "for the sake of common decency" they should have been wiped out long ago.

"Did the board appoint additional police to watch these hotels?" asked Mr. Murphy.

"We did," replied Mr. Stearns.

"And you had all the hotels before you, subsequently?"

"We did, all but one," the Lowell Inn.

Mr. Murphy referred to speeches made by George H. Brown, subsequently elected mayor, relative to the liquor conditions in Lowell.

The reference was objected to but allowed. Judge Stevens, in allowing it, referring to the fact that Mr. Brown was subsequently elected mayor.

St. James Hotel

Mr. Stearns was asked relative to his statement in regard to the St. James hotel to the effect that he would be willing to take his family there to live, believing that the hotel was being very properly conducted.

Mr. Stearns said he had made some such statement and in good faith.

Asked why extra police officers were employed to watch the hotels, Mr. Stearns replied that it was because of the police board's desire to have the business so conducted as not to admit of violations.

Count thirteen, referring to the public unrest because of conditions for which the "rum interests" were responsible was taken up.

Mr. Stearns was asked about statements made by him at the hearing held before Mayor Brown, to the effect that there were people in Lowell who had no other place but the hotel in which to gather on Sunday and enjoy each other's company. Mr. Stearns said he did not remember having made such statements but if they were a matter of record he would not deny them.

Hotel Food on Sundays

Asked about the character of food served in hotels on Sundays and suggestions made for better provision, Mr. Stearns said the board had asked its counsel if it wouldn't be possible to improve the character of the food. He said, however, that a subsequent improvement in the food was not, in his judgment, due to any action on the part of the board.

Mr. Stearns said he did not remember having said that the revocation of a license was too severe a penalty for such violation as had been reported.

A question was asked relative to petitions by citizens who complained about the number of licenses in Middlesex street.

Question Ruled Out

The question was ruled out, the court holding that even though the petition had been signed by a number of citizens it was not material.

Mr. Murphy read from several others of the counts.

In reply to a question by Mr. Murphy, Mr. Stearns said that at a certain meeting of the police board when he, the witness, was a member, Mr. Simon B. Harris was not allowed to testify, that the board had asked him.

Asked if at the same hearing, Mr. Winfred MacBrayne had testified, Mr. Stearns said he had not, and he did not know that Mr. MacBrayne had asked to be allowed to testify.

The Merrimack House

Asked relative to a hearing having to do with the Merrimack house, witness said, he remembered that the board objected to a reporter taking notes. The objection was made by Mr. Boulger and his objection was sustained by the board, by silent consent.

"You were not satisfied with the way the law was being enforced in the month of May, 1908?" said Mr. Murphy.

"I was," replied witness.

"In June?"

"Yes."

"July and August?"

"Yes."

"September?"

"As autumn approached I think we took a different view of matters," said Mr. Stearns.

"You testified at the hearing before the mayor that the board of police knew early in October that conditions in the hotels were not what they should be?"

"I believe I did, and the board sought to improve conditions."

After Mr. Murphy had finished with Mr. Stearns, Mr. Bent re-examined witness on evidence that had gone in.

"What means did the board take to familiarize itself with conditions relative to the sale of liquor in hotels on Sundays and holidays?" asked Mr. Bent.

"The board got instructions from the chief of police," said Mr. Stearns.

"Did you get any information from Mr. Fred Wier, who had been a former member of the board?"

"I did. I called on him several times and talked with him generally as to the enforcement of the law."

"Did you consult with Judge Hadley relative to the administration of the law on Sundays and holidays?"

"I did, frequently."

"When else did you consult relative to the administration of your office?"

"City Solicitor Hill."

"Who else?"

"Lawyer Johnson of Boston."

Mr. Stearns said he looked upon Mr. Johnson as an expert and he consulted with him many times.

"Was Mr. Johnson under pay from the board?"

"He was."

"Who paid him?"

"The board members."

"Did the board make any visits to towns or cities to observe the enforcement of the laws in the different places?"

"Yes, sir."

"Who went?"

"Myself and the chief of police went to Holyoke, Springfield and other places."

"Who paid the expenses of that trip?"

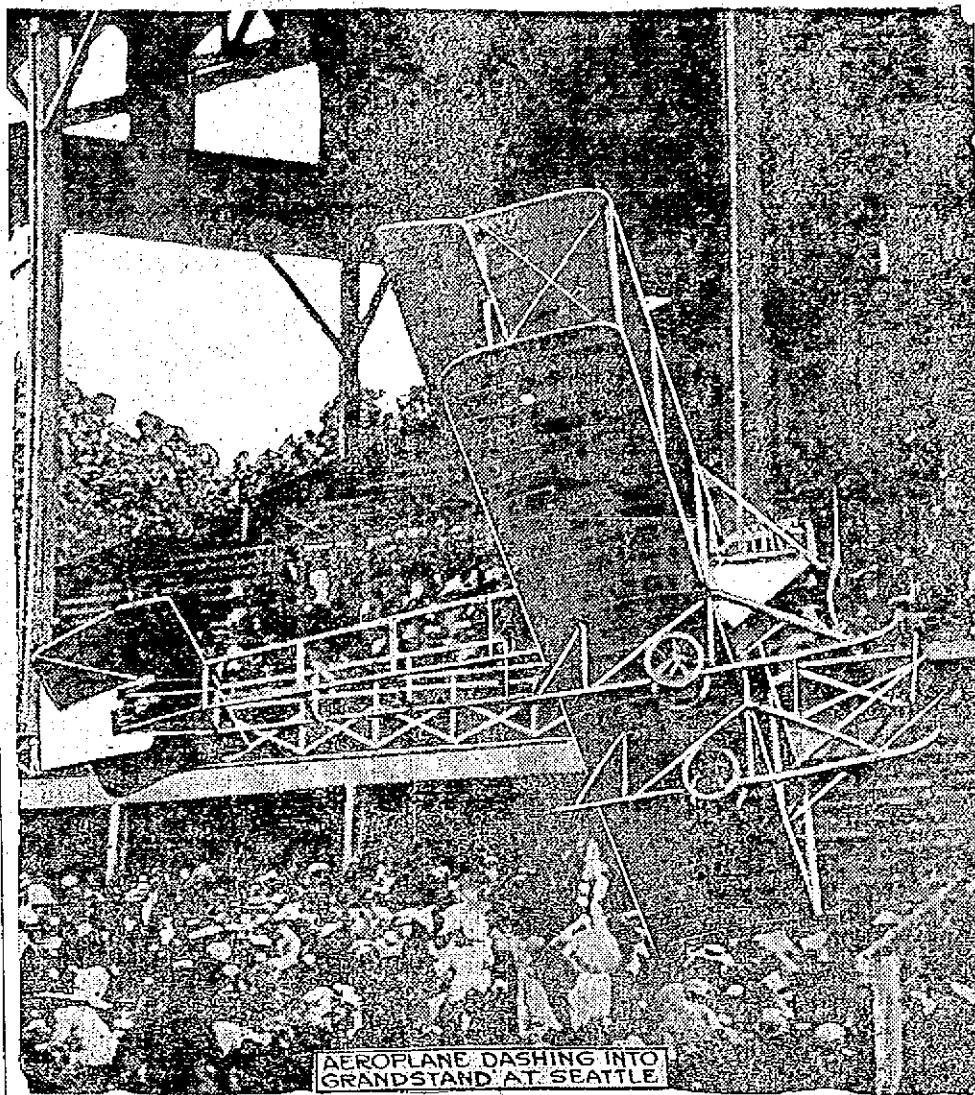

"I don't remember if it was personal or by the board."

"Were you and the chief designated by the board to go?"

"We were."

"Can you give the court and jury any further information as to what course you take to increase your

Unusual Photograph Showing Aeroplane Dashing into Crowd at Seattle

SEATTLE, Wash., June 7.—J. Clifford Turpin, the aviator who caused the death of a man and child and injured 15 persons by running his aeroplane into the grandstand at the Meadows, has decided to give up flying altogether. There is little likelihood that he will ever be called upon to answer officially for the accident here, as it is generally believed that he was not knowledge of the law and to find out how it was administered in other cities."

"I cannot recall."

"Whether or not you and other members of the board made a study of the law relative to sale of liquor and the so-called sandwich law?"

"We did."

"Did you change your mind during your time in office or change your opinion relative to the operation of the sandwich law?"

"I did, as to the true definition of guest."

Mr. Bent then asked witness to tell him what he had changed his mind in the matter, and Mr. Stearns related, in brief, the history of the police board when he was a member. He told of the hotel cases and disagreements in connection with them. Some of them were not pressed. He said that the board, during his time, brought suits against all of the hotels and all of them, with one exception, were found guilty in police court.

Two of these cases considered the most flagrant, he said, were taken to the superior court, as test cases, and in both cases the juries disagreed.

"What did the board finally determine as to what was the proper administration of the law as to the sale of liquor on Sundays and holidays?"

"That the proprietor of the hotel should know who was a bona fide guest and who was not."

"What would be the test?"

"If the guest ordered food it was permissible to serve him with drink; providing the food was ordered in proper quantity and variety."

"When did the board settle down to that conclusion?"

"In the latter part of October, 1908."

"When were officers sent out to hotels on Sundays and holidays?"

"Very early in the year 1908."

"What was the particular occasion for appointment of those officers?"

"To give the board exact conditions in hotels on Sundays and holidays."

Hotel Keepers Called

Mr. Stearns said that hotel keepers in the first place were called before the board and warned that further violations would result in suspension or revocation of their licenses. Mr. Stearns then told of hearings in hotel cases before the board, and of the suspension of hotel licenses as a result of the hearings. The Lowell Inn, he said, was the only one of the hotels that was found not guilty.

Relative to the reduction of hotel licenses witness said the board thought the hotel was not conserving the public good by exercising the liberty of a fourth class license. That license was taken away and in consideration of depriving the hotels of the rights of a fourth class license the reduction in the hotel license was made.

"How many hotels were there in Lowell when you took office as a member of the police board?"

"Thirteen or fourteen."

responsible for the fatalities. He says that as he was preparing for the flight and just before the machine left the ground a spectator ran across the track, directly in front of the machine, it was going 50 miles an hour, much faster than the spectator thought, and it was in trying to avoid hitting him that Turpin lost control of the machine. Turpin was thrown from his seat and suffered a severe cut over the left eye and was badly bruised. He was unconscious for several minutes. His partner, Phil Parmelee, was killed two days after the accident here while flying at North Yakima. Parmelee was engaged to Turpin's sister, and the second accident may have influenced Turpin's decision to give up aviation. The accompanying picture shows Turpin's machine just as it swerved into the crowd.

"How many did you cut off?"

"Five."

"At any subsequent time were licenses granted to either of the five?"

"Yes, the Merrimack and Savoy hotels."

ARRANGING PICTURES

The next time you turn out your sitting room take down all the pictures on one wall at least and either bring some fresh ones in from another room or try some sort of change and see if you are not pleased with the result.

Perhaps you have had a mirror over the fireplace flanked with a pair of pictures exactly the same size and shape. Remove these elsewhere and arrange instead a few good china plates or a group of small colored pictures.

It is not necessary either to hang your pictures exactly in pairs. A little irregularity is often quite artistic and pretty. The only thing which must be noted is that the lower edge of each frame is on the same level.

Many women appear to have a rooted objection to placing a mirror in any spot but immediately over the fireplace. Now, this is not really a law of the Medes and Persians. Try it between the windows or in a darkish corner and notice the effect.

Too much mural decoration is worse than too little. In some cases one meets mirrors, pictures, china, fans, curios, miniatures, photograph frames all hung in wild confusion, without the least attempt at order and arrangement.

If you possess a really nice picture let people have the full benefit of its beauty. Remember, too, that a wall surface, whether it be papered or distempered, should serve as a background to the ornaments hung there, so that anything in the way of an obtrusive design or violent coloring should be avoided.

LUND SUED FOR $100,000 BREACH OF PROMISE ALLEGED

Mrs. Bartlett Says That They Were Engaged to be Married Couple Met 12 Years Ago

BOSTON, June 7.—Arthur Graves Lund, who has an office in the Tremont building and a sergeantcy in the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, was yesterday made the defendant in a suit for breach of promise of marriage in which $100,000 damages is asked by the plaintiff, Mrs. Carolyn S. Bartlett.

The writ was served yesterday on the defendant at the office of his counsel, Herbert L. Baker. It was delivered by Deputy Sheriff Tilden and was prepared at the office of Hon. E. P. Barry, who has been retained as counsel by Mrs. Bartlett.

Mrs. Bartlett absolutely refused to discuss the case, holding it had ethics and an improper thing for a lawyer with a case pending in court to say anything for publication. He would not even help with the address of his client, who was finally found by a reporter.

Mrs. Bartlett has been staying with a friend on Beacon Hill.

Mrs. Bartlett almost broke down entirely when the reporter asked her to talk about the case. She is a woman of commanding presence, and striking appearance. She is much above the average in height, statures and graceful; just now she shows traces of emotion and seems fairly on the edge of collapse.

After a time, she consented to tell of her acquaintance with Mr. Lund.

First Met 12 Years Ago

Mrs. Bartlett was born in New Hampshire, though she comes of a noted Maine family. Her great grandfather was Sullivan Smith, a major general in the Revolutionary war, and her father was George Smith, well known in Maine as a lumber operator.

Her mother was a Boynton, a granddaughter of Sir Thomas Boynton of London. The girl married H. L. Bartlett, an old king of the California field, and he left her considerable property. She also inherited considerable money.

Mr. Lund is the son of Henry O. Lund, and was born in Nashua 45 years ago. His father was a machinist in a big sewing machine concern for many years. His mother and two sisters now live in Salem.

"I first met Mr. Lund," said Mrs. Bartlett, "some 12 years ago. At that time Baron Walter van Horn had a suite in the Touraine, and on one occasion I was a guest there. It was just after the engagement of the baron and Miss Virginia Cameron had been broken, it was afterward taken up again, but at the moment, Baron van Horn was paying some attention to me.

Shows Beautiful Diamond

"I was much attracted to Mr. Lund, who was also living at the Touraine then. He shortly afterward moved to the Hotel Puritan. In the meantime, I had gone away to California, but we corresponded regularly.

"I really don't know when we first were engaged, and for a long time I didn't even know he was still married and could not legally make love to me. He had a wife and a son, who is now 17. He had separated from his wife, and I thought they had been divorced. She finally did divorce him, three or four years ago, and the son went to live with his grandmother, Mr. Lund's mother.

"After the divorce, he gave me this engagement ring."

She showed a beautiful platinum ring, with a brilliant diamond of good size, which she is still wearing.

DR. MCGREGOR GUILTY

Four of One Family
Poisoned

BAD AXE, Mich., June 7.—Dr. Robert A. MacGregor was found guilty of murder in the first degree by the jury which returned its verdict shortly before midnight.

The history of the case which resulted in the conviction of Dr. MacGregor dates from June, 1903, when John Wesley Sparling, a prosperous farmer, died under circumstances which suggested poisoning. Since that date the farmer's three sons, Peter, Albert and Seyrel, have died from similar causes.

Seyrel Sparling, the youngest son, died Aug. 14, 1911, cancer of the liver being given by Dr. MacGregor as the cause. Relatives demanded an investigation and analysis of the organs of Seyrel Sparling revealed arsenical poisoning as the real cause of death.

Dr. MacGregor was arrested last October and placed on trial on April 2 this year. Three weeks were consumed in securing a jury, and after other delays the taking of testimony began May 1.

Mrs. Carrie Boate Sparling, wife of John Wesley and mother of the Sparling boys, is now awaiting trial on a murder charge, having been arrested with Dr. MacGregor, and accused jointly with the physician of having caused her son's death.

CARE OF WINDOW BOXES

There is no danger of overwatering one's plants in boxes, because they are exposed to winds and warm air on all sides and evaporation will take place so rapidly that there is no possible chance of injury to the plants from an undue retention of water. There are generally cracks and crevices in boxes through which surplus water can run off, and these furnish a means of escape for all the water that the plants cannot make use of. Therefore do not be afraid to use water liberally and often enough to guard against any danger of the soil's drying out about the roots of the plants.

LOOKED LIKE WAX

A Symptom of Lack of Blood That Is Evident to Every One.

Pale, sallow complexion, ears that seem almost transparent, lips almost white—these are outward signs of anemia, or lack of blood.

The patient probably has a slight cough, complaints of being easily tired and is troubled with palpitation of the heart.

There is one remedy for this condition—more blood. Blood is made from the food we eat but in this condition it is not made as fast as needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills double the blood-making value of the food and therefore a powerful agency in building up the blood.

Mrs. R. L. Harrod, of 413 South Ohio avenue, Muncie, Ind., recommends Dr. Williams' Pink Pills because they restored her to health when all other medicines failed. "A few years ago," she says, "when I was living at Bellefontaine, Ohio, I was suffering with anemia. I was pale and had a wax-like color and was so short of breath that I couldn't go up stairs without stopping to rest or couldn't stand the least little exertion. I was run down and very thin, didn't feel like eating and didn't want to talk to or see anyone. My heart would palpitate so that I would feel weak. I couldn't sleep well, coughed constantly and had pains under my shoulders. I was so miserable that I wanted to die."

"The doctors told me that my blood was turning into water, and that I was going into a decline and asked me if there had been any consumption in my family. They didn't help me at all and I had read so much about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I decided to try a box of them. They helped me so much that I gave up all other medicine and pinned my faith to them alone. I took several boxes and in a few weeks was completely restored to health. I became strong and healthy and was able to work again. I know Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have also cured rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers and such nervous diseases as neuritis, nervous headaches, dizziness, St. Vitus' dance and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia.

A booklet of valuable information, entitled "Building Up the Blood," will be sent free to any person interested.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50 by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Springfield, N. Y.

BELLBOYS GET FORTUNE

WILL DIVIDE $60,000

For Kindness Shown an Aged Woman

ALBANY, June 7.—Three gentlemanly hotel bellboys are rolling in wealth because of the courtesy they showed to an old woman. Mrs. Hannah Dwight Greene, aged 81, when she died a few months ago, expatiating on their friendships and affability, divided her entire estate of more than $50,000 equally among the three young men.

Her will, which was probated yesterday by Surrogate Vanlerbe, gave the "lucky" bellboys Edwin J. Greenwood, "Phayer's" hotel, Littleton, N. H.; George Hedenburg of Providence, R. I., and Frank Donegan of Hotel Westminster, Boston.

While an old resident of this city, Mrs. Greene spent the last years of her life at the hotels where these young men were. She was the aunt of the widow of "Lucky" Baldwin, millionaire sportsman and mining speculator of California, and of Charles and Samuel Bowles, owners of the Springfield Republican, and her estate represents the savings from allowances which they made to her for years previous to her death. Much of her money was invested in New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and United States Steel stocks.

IN THE

CARBONOL is the ideal disinfectant for personal use. A tablespoonful or two in the bath will thoroughly clean the pores of the skin and leave it in a healthy condition.

Carbonol heals chafed and chapped surfaces and eruptions of the skin. In warm weather, or after exercise that brings on a profuse perspiration, Carbonol in the bath is essential to clear the pores and deodorize. Use Carbonol to relieve tired, aching feet, and prevent swelling after an unusual travel.

Carbonol makes an excellent shampoo. It will dissolve dandruff, keep the hair clean and glossy, and it is much easier to use than a soap.

After shaving, put a dash of Carbonol in the water when you wash off the soap. The Carbonol will dissolve the soap and clean out the pores, healing cuts, stop the flow of blood and relieve all irritation.

For all skin inflammations and eruptions, Carbonol is an ideal antiseptic. It will relieve itchy poison, sunburn and prickly heat. It softens the skin, removes poisonous foreign matter and kills germs.

America's Three Woman "Inseparables"

Who Sailed Recently for Europe

Just before the princess of the house of Morgan sailed for Europe the other day she announced that she was coming back "full of work." This princess is Miss Anne Tracy Morgan, only unmarried daughter of the money king, who she chose to regard work as a thing existing only to minister to her personal convenience, but she chose rather to spend a summer abroad, as-billating all that is being done on the other side for the betterment of the workingman and his laboring sister.

That, however, is typical of Miss Morgan. She is the leading example in America of the rich woman who sees her sisterhood with the rest of mankind. She works, too—works hard in her efforts to raise the standard of living for the toilers. She gives not only her money, but her time and her self. While her father discusses in his Wall street office the details of some monster business deal very likely Miss Morgan is in an East Side day nursery tending to the woes of an Italian mother compelled to leave her baby while she goes out to work.

In the latest interview with Miss Morgan in America she said that on her return from Europe she is going to fight especially hard for the minimum wage scale, now being discussed and advocated by sociological workers and students as the proper legislative remedy for the evils of insufficient abiding a standard is absolutely necessary, Miss Morgan believes. She spoke earnestly of the hard conditions under which women and girls labor in many factories and workshops and of the need for regulating these conditions so that health and mortality may be conserved.

Sailing with Miss Morgan for Europe were two women who form with her one of the most interesting trios in America. Probably nowhere else in America or in any other country, may be found three women inseparables such as Miss Morgan, Miss Elsie De Wolfe and Miss Elizabeth Marbury. They are a living refutation of the assertion sometimes made that friendship, real, true, lasting friendship, is impossible among women. In their devotion to one another, their interest in the pursuit and aims of one another, they remind one curiously of the "four women" of "Dumplings." They have raised in common, brains to an extent unusual among women as well as among men.

The report of the interview with Miss Morgan, already quoted, said she was accompanied, as usual, by her two intimate friends, Miss Elizabeth Marbury and Miss Elsie De Wolfe. This friendship has existed in an unbroken course for—well, for several years at least. Years ago Miss De Wolfe and Miss Marbury dwelt together in the old Washington Irving home in New York, making it a rendezvous for persons of artistic tastes. Miss Marbury has been called "the cleverest woman in New York." She is the best known authors' representative in the world, being known principally as a play broker. Nobody knows, possibly not Miss Marbury herself, how many plays she has handled which have become successes. She acts not only as representatives of American playwrights in dealing with managers and actors, but also as the American agent of foreign dramatists.

She interests herself greatly in Miss Morgan's sociological pursuits and was with her recently when Miss Morgan sat with the magistrate on the bench of the New York night court for women.

The third member of this interesting trio of women is Miss Elsie De Wolfe, former actress and present decorator of homes and public buildings. Miss De Wolfe was known as an actress who could play society parts well before and after the American cause she was "to the manner born" and could wear the garments of society with distinction. But being failed to satisfy Miss De Wolfe, and she became her own manager as well, finally quitting the stage in 1905 to take up her present work, in which she has been very successful. She has decorated the Colony club for women in New York, the home of J. Ogden Armour in Chicago, that of William Crocker in Burlingame, Cal. and many others.

Some Up To-Date Porch Furniture

Made of Wicker, Rattan, Grass, Etc.

WICKER FURNISHINGS THAT ARE NEW THIS SEASON.

In summer people like to get away not only from winter cares and responsibilities, but from cumbersome furnishings in their homes as well, from eye-compelling decorations and unnecessary abundance of things to something more or less suggestive of simple living. Manufacturers, recognizing this liking for the "simple life," adapt their designs to suit the tastes of their public; consequently this season there are a number of charming new things on the market.

Wicker, rattan, grass and a host of fibers that include flax and even paper pulp make some of the best looking sets designed for porch use. Unless one demands it ornamentation in the way of elaborate basketry weaves is no longer shown. Outlines are plain, and comfort is the main feature of the models. All of the new wicker furniture in the heart of Boston Convenient to stores, theatres and all points of interest cludes veranda conveniences, such as newspaper receptacles and magazine stands, tea carts and the like, and this year wicker lamps are added to the list of belongings that the up-to-date porch must boast. Indeed, it is a critical taste that fails to find something to suit it in the great variety of styles provided this season.

The wicker desk and three cornered chair are charmingly convenient articles of furniture to have on the living room porch, and if there is room the lamp, also carried out in wicker, will shed a becoming and grateful glow when one requires more illumination than that afforded by heaven's great luminary. But by night or by day the comfort of the big wicker chair with its high headpiece will shine forth resplendent and be a boon to tired humanity.

MRS. JULIA DEMARAY DEAD
HASTINGS, Mich., June 7.—Mrs. Julia Ann Demaray of Woodland, one of the only surviving real twin daughters of the American Revolution, is dead of paralysis. She is 50 years old. Her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Russell of Lake Odessa, Mich., survives her. Their father, John Peter Frank, emigrated in Philadelphia, and served through the revolution. After the war he removed to Canada, where he married an English woman. The twins were born when he was 78 years of age.

Mrs. Demaray came to this country four years ago, her sister arriving a few years later. Both were mothers of 14 children.

The name of the Lowell young man who was killed in a train accident at Morgan City, La., was Robert Nutter and not Robert Nuttal as previously reported. The members of his family reside in Chapel street.

They Closed Up Thirty Butcher Shops

NEW YORK, June 7.—A militant band of nine Brooklyn housewives set out yesterday to pull down the cost of living, not only by boycott, but by force. And after they had smashed one butcher's plate glass window and threatened a score of others they had actually tied up the retail meat business in the vicinity of De Kalb, Gates and Myrtle avenues.

"Stop selling at these outrageous prices and throw your meat away!" was the command the women carried to every butcher of the neighborhood. "We're not going to buy any more meat, anyway, so you might as well quit buying from the wholesalers and work the strike backward to the trust itself."

Some of the meat men closed up shop without a murmur; others, who tried to argue, were threatened and left to choose their own fate by either closing or keeping open their shops.

About thirty shops were closed by the band of price reformers, who declare they will soon extend their organization and their campaign throughout the city. It is expected the strike will cross the bridge today.

BILLERICA

The regular meeting of Asa John Patten circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., was held Wednesday afternoon in Gardner Parker hall. There was a large attendance and Mrs. Mina L. Gardner occupied the chair.

Special services were held in memory of Comrade Bohannon, who was a member of the circle. Miss Anna M.

Gilman read a memorial hymn. The chaplain of the circle, Mrs. Susan P. Jaquith, has served, since the circle was formed, and has performed her duties very efficiently by visiting the sick and other members in need of relief. Light refreshments were served, and Mrs. Hilsdel poured.

In the evening special services were held in honor of the eighth anniversary of the circle, with Mrs. Hattie Whitney, past president of James A. Garfield circle, corps No. 33, and a former member of Asa John Patten circle, as presiding officer. After the address of welcome by Mrs. Whitney, the following was rendered in a very pleasing manner:

Plano solo, Mrs. A. Amy Torrey; reading, "50 Years Ago," a poem composed by Comrade Cook of San Francisco; remarks, Rev. Lymann V. Rutledge; solo, Miss Helen M. Wilkins; Mrs. Rutledge, accompanist; remarks, Comrade Cowdrey; Rev. David C. Torrey; J. Nelson Parker; piano solo, Mrs. A. Gertrude Tutin; reading, Miss Evelyn Spaulding; remarks, Herbert A. King; sword dance, Raymond Morley; reading, Mrs. Hattie Whitney; singing, "The Star Spangled Banner," by all; remarks, Comrade Jaquith.

Ice cream and cake were served in the banquet hall, which was followed by dancing, with Mrs. A. Gertrude Tutin as partner.

The following were the reception committee for the evening: The president, Mrs. Mina L. Gardner; Mrs. Sarah L. Murphy; Mrs. Hannah L. Whiteside; Mrs. Mabel Smith; Mrs. Margaret Ritchie; Mrs. Herbert Kendall and Mrs. Hattie Whitney. The Sons of Veterans, under Commander Dole, acted as escort.

Comrade Cowdrey had charge of the decorations and he was assisted by Mrs. Murphy and Ernest French.

The following served as waiters during the evening: Misses Holly, Twomey, Maxwell, Hannon, Woods, Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Pacho.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Only the best in vaudeville is seen at the Merrimack Square theatre. The week's presentation is one of the best series of the season, including the Temple Players in their musical comedy, "Circus Days," in which the large east is seen to advantage in various song hits and novel features. Next week this company will present what is considered by critics their very best effort, a musical novelty entitled "In Japan." Miss Grace Hawthorne and the other members appear in congenial parts and the song numbers of the bill are especially good.

Earl and Bartlett, comedians of rank, are dispensing humor in large measure this week and are earning the favorable recognition given them at all performances. Their line of jokes and stories are new and entertaining.

Ben Pierce, known as "The Dutchman with the Hobble Skirt," handles comedy well and sings several songs in a most acceptable manner. Donnelly Hendon is a comedy acrobat, who is winning friends daily, and Miss Alice Bradley, ventriloquist, is being heard in her latest and best song successful.

The photo-plays for the last three days of the week are among the best to be had from the big manufacturers of picture films in the country. They are shown in Lowell for the first time and are not only entertaining but instructive as well.

Don't forget that this theatre is "the coolest spot in town," made so by the special system of ventilation and the use of numerous electric fans, exits and an exanator.

BOARD OF TRADE

MEMBERS OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE NAMED

Pres. Arthur L. Gray of the Lowell board of trade has announced his executive committee for the ensuing year. The members of the committee will be: President Gray, Secretary John H. Murphy, ex officio, George M. Harrison, Clarence H. Nelson and Robert F. Marden.

The board has a number of matters of more or less pressing importance to set upon its study and Mr. Gray decided it to be better to name his executive committee at once and keep the business state clear rather than permit summer idleness to prevail too soon.

GIGANTIC CONSTRUCTION WORK OF THE PANAMA CANAL

The Locks at Gatun Showing the Three Locks and Gates A Lift of 65 Feet As Made Here

Copyright, 1912, by The International Syndicate, Baltimore.

WHEN the plans for the construction of the colossal work of the Panama Canal were first made public few persons really appreciated the immensity of the undertaking. The technical terms used to express the engineering features of the work tended to further mystify the nature of the enterprise so that the average mind had no adequate conception of the project. The consequence was that a comparatively small number of persons took any interest in the Canal, as it was regarded as an impossible proposition and a waste of money. Later, as the plans began to take shape, the number of visitors to the Isthmus increased until finally the Canal Commission decided to erect two comfortable hotels for the reception of tourists.

Arriving at Colon the wise traveler will take the first train to Panama City and make excursions from that point to the different places along the Canal. The trip at present is over the re-located Panama Railroad which went into commission in February of this year. The re-location was made necessary from the fact that the ground on which the old road was built was needed for a part of the Canal plan. The new line is about forty-seven miles in length and its re-location cost the Government about $7,225,000. The construction along the line is of the most extensive character owing to the number of steel bridges and the long tunnel at Miraflores. The road is double tracked and fitted with every modern safety device. All the excavations from the Canal are carried over its lines and are classified as freight, and last year the freight movements ran to the enormous figure of 250,000,000 tons—far in excess of any other railroad of its length in the world. The visitor pays $2.50 for the trip across and the employee $1.25. Four trains are run daily and during the winter chair-cars are carried for the benefit of Northern tourists. Parts of the Canal can be seen from train—just enough to whet the appetite of the sightseer for a longer and more satisfactory view. The ride is usually interesting, for the trains are always well filled with Canal employees who are delighted to point out the different places and talk about the tremendous construction work, for every man, woman and child in the Canal Zone takes special pride in having a part in the project, and this desire to be a part holds hundreds of people on the Isthmus. The train passes through a jungle of tropical foliage equal in many places to some splendid botanical garden. Now and then one catches sight of a cluster of laborers' quarters or towns consisting of well-built, comfortable homes of the white employees.

After a run of two and a half hours the train pulls into the station at Panama City. Street cars are not in operation there and hundreds of carriages cluster about the railroad station, their bells jingling like so many fire engines. The fare is ten cents to all parts of the city. After a ride over comparatively smooth streets the visitor finds comfortable quarters in one of the hotels. There is an eagerness to go "down the line," and at 6.30 the next morning the start is made. Owing to the extreme heat, for Panama is only nine degrees North of the Equator, everybody is astir early and the train is always well filled. Everything is on a large scale—even the cars which go to make up the train seem numberless as it stretches like a snake far beyond the confines of the station. It is barely daylight when the long sounds and the traveler is off—say, for Culebra, the Central division with its huge Culebra Cut.

The greatest amount of digging must be done in this part of the Canal, and the work has from time to time been hampered by the slides—tons of earth slipping down the slopes during the rainy season. At present the office of Colonel D. D. Galliard, the Division Engineer, is on the very edge of a slide, as are several of the buildings at Culebra. When the slides occur the work of carrying the earth away seems almost a hopeless task to the layman, but the busy steam-shovel and the dirt train soon make a clearing. Culebra is the headquarters of the Isthmian Canal Commission and the main offices are located here together with the homes of the chief engineers. These buildings are on a high hill. The average visitor is surprised to learn that Panama is a mountainous country, and that nearly all the residential sections are located on hills. If the sightseer is fortunate enough to be on a sightseeing car or in the engineer's automobile the descent to the bottom of the Cut is easy as the railroad tracks are so arranged that the lower level is soon reached.

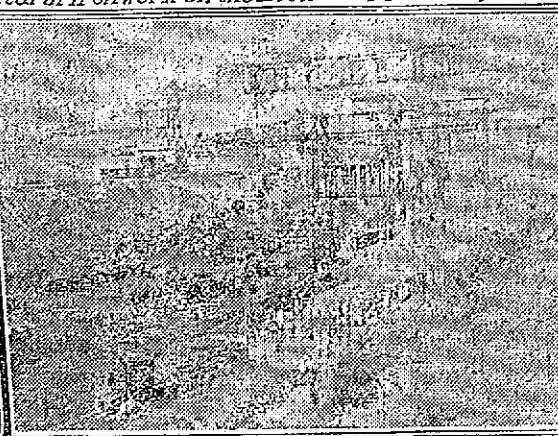

Once down to the Cut the scene presented is a busy one. Great steam shovels which with one scoop take up five cubic yards of earth are all about, rattling as they dump their contents

Structural Iron Work on the Locks at Pedro Miguel

Concrete Work on the Gatun Spillway

on the waiting trains. These shovels make a dump about every twenty seconds, and when the sixteen cars of which a dirt train is composed are filled, the train moves off and another with empty cars takes its place. These trains move back and forth like shuttles in a weaver's loom, and there is never the least confusion. Every man knows his business and the system of doing the work there is almost as remarkable as the work itself. Millions upon millions of yards of earth have been removed, and yet as one watches the scoops at their task it seems like emptying a barrel with a teaspoon. Drills of several kinds are buzzing like a swarm of giant bees as they drill holes in the rocks where pounds of dynamite are put into place by another set of workmen. The blasts are fired by electricity and are set off while the workmen are at their mid-day meals. Tons of rocks are loosened by this method, and comparatively few accidents occur from the blasting.

At Miraflores, nearer to the Pacific, are two pairs of locks with a combined lift of fifty-four feet. Five million barrels of cement will be used in their construction alone. In the center space, about forty-four feet wide, a tunnel has been built. It is divided into galleries or stories—the lower one for drainage, the center one for wires to be used to carry the current to operate the gates, and the upper one as a passageway for the operators who will manage the machinery. It is necessary to give figures in order to convey some idea of the immensity of the construction work for the most scientific photograph made fails to show the colossal size of these locks and gates.

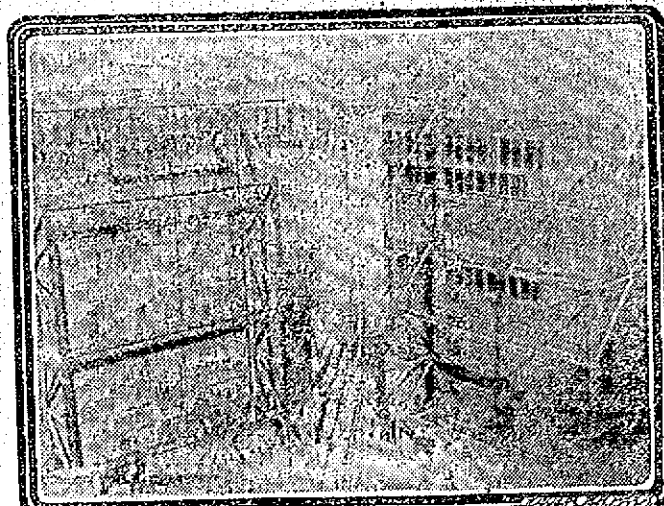

At Balboa, the Pacific end of the Canal, a part of the Government docks have been completed—that is, the concrete foundation. These are in keeping with the mammoth proportions of everything else along the line. The sand carrier at this point is one of the largest in the world and it handles all the sand used in the Canal work, and is brought to Balboa or barges from a point on the West Coast about twenty miles distant. The barges are pulled alongside the car-width of one hundred and ten feet. The walls are eighty-one feet high. The construction is of structural iron and concrete with steel gates seven feet thick, sixty-five feet wide and from fifty to eighty feet in height and weighing from three to six hundred tons. At this point the structural ironworker is seen at his best, for he climbs about and steps from girder to girder like a squirrel from tree to tree.

Great Steel Gates of the Pedro Miguel Locks

rier, which scoops up bucketful after bucketful and swinging, empties the contents on the waiting cars which are sent to all parts of the Canal. A shipbuilding plant is at this point, and a number of tugs and barges are in the process of building. Much of the land around Balboa was a marsh and the Canal excavations are being used as a fill, the greater part being sent here from the Culebra Cut. Mr. S. H. Williamson is in charge of this division.

The Atlantic section—perhaps the most difficult of all owing to the engineering problems which confront them, is under the direction of Col. William Sibert. It extends from Gatun to the deep waters of the Atlantic. The three locks at this point have a combined lift of eighty-five feet. The construction work presents a spectacular appearance at present for it is rapidly nearing completion. The walls of the West chamber are finished and the gates are being placed in position.

The writer made a trip through these locks in the company of Col. Sibert on a flat car which had been fitted with seats for use during one of the visits of the Secretary of War. A small engine attached was the motive power and the dips and dives the little train made were somewhat like the ups and downs of the roller-coaster. The trip ended at the bottom of the lock nearest to the Atlantic and was forty feet below the sea level. At this point the steps to the top were climbed, where an excellent view of this section was obtained. The sand carriers were passing between the two locks and depositing material wherever it was needed. At one point when an engine was required and one was located in the opposite lock, it was the work of but a few minutes for the crane to lift and carry the big engine high in the air to the place where it was needed.

The Gatun Dam, which has been the subject of so much discussion, is at this point, and when completed will be a large body of water one hundred and fifteen feet above the mean level of the sea.

The dam will form the Gatun lake by impounding the water of the Chagres River and other streams. It is now forming and the engineers in charge hope that it will be completed by August. It will then spread over an area of one hundred and sixty-four square miles and cover several villages. Old Gatun is already twenty-five feet beneath the dam. The spillway, a concrete-lined opening twelve hundred feet long and about three hundred feet wide, is cut through a hill of rock in the center of the dam. It is now closed with a concrete dam filled with machinery and gates for regulating the water level of the lake. The Chagres River has been forever cut off from the Atlantic Ocean except when its waters are needed in filling the locks.

A lake is also being formed between the locks at Pedro Miguel and Miraflores, and there will be a dam about five hundred feet long forming a spillway for the lake at Miraflores. It will be equipped with gates similar to the ones used on the Gatun spillway.

Twelve locks in all are being built; three pairs at Gatun, two pairs at Miraflores, and one pair at Pedro Miguel. The length of the Canal will be fifty and one-half miles, forty and one-half miles of which are on land. Vessels will be towed through by electricity. The gates and valves will be operated by the same power. The supply will be generated by the water turbines at Gatun. It is expected that a vessel will pass through the entire Canal in from ten to twelve hours.

At Cristobal the work on the Government docks is being pushed, and the scenes there are almost as busy as in the Cut, for the pile-drivers and drills pound and hum all day long. About thirty-eight thousand men are at work at present, with a pay roll of $1,600,000 per month. It is expected that the cost of the Canal will be about $14,000,000 per mile. From these figures the reader can readily understand the colossal work of the Isthmian Canal Commission.

The engineers all declare that ships will pass through the waterway during the latter part of next year, although the official opening will not take place until 1915. Much speculation is indulged in as to what ship will pass through first, and it is generally supposed by those on the Isthmus that one of the Panama railroad steamers will make the trial trip in order to test the working of the gates, locks, etc., and that the battleship Oregon will be the leader of the official opening. It will be remembered that her long trip around "The Horn" during the Spanish-American War first suggested to the minds of the officials at Washington the need of this great waterway now rapidly nearing completion.

ALTHOUGH the words "floating palace" are generally used to describe the interior arrangement of any of the great trans-Atlantic steamers, that shuttle-like, weaver between this country and the Old World, yet the words are most fittingly used when applied to the description of the modern floating residence of the man of wealth—the steam yacht.

Only those who have been on board of these beautiful, swan-like craft and have stepped across the heavily carpeted saloon and peered into the tapestry-hung staterooms can appreciate just exactly what the word palatial means when applied to a vessel.

Although yachting is one of the oldest of sports, dating back to the days of Cleopatra, and has been for years known as the "sport of kings and the king of sports," it has fallen to the happy lot of the American millionaire to give to the world an exhibition of what money and brains can produce in a vessel, not only of magnificent interior decoration, but of a size sufficient to carry the owner and a party of a dozen or more on a cruise around the world.

According to careful estimates there is in this country fully $25,000,000 invested in steam yachts, not one of which is less than 75 feet long and ranging from that to nearly 275 feet, costing, individually, from $50,000 to $700,000 to build.

In the number of yachts the United States leads the world and although there are some beautiful specimens of marine architecture under the British and French ensigns, it is generally conceded that the American-built yachts are superior.

On the other hand there are many yachts owned by Americans that have been built in England, some of which have never even been in American waters, their owners keeping them abroad and using them only during the summer months while following the Royal Yacht Squadron to Cowes and other places where the great English and international races are held.

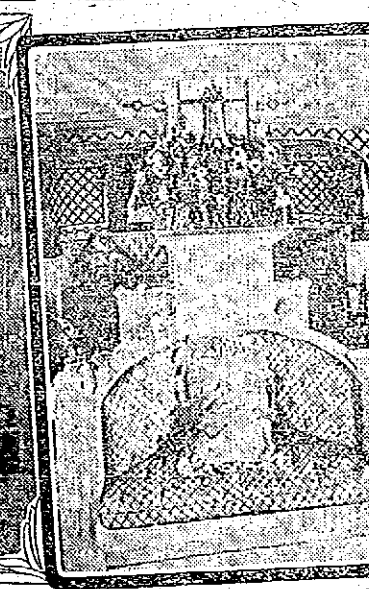

Probably the finest yacht in the world is the Niagara, which is owned by Howard Gould, and which heads the entire list in the matter of cost of building and equipment. She is also what might be termed purely American, being not only of American design and construction, but built throughout of American material. She cost three-quarters of a million dollars. She is 273 feet long and is capable of crossing the Atlantic at a speed equal to that of any of the ordinary liners.

From the moment one sees one of these great craft floating like a swan on the tide, the impression of luxury

LUXURY AFLOAT

Dining Room

is given by the exterior—the graceful outline, the snow-white hull surmounted by deckhouses, the highly-polished sides of which glisten in the sun. Then, too, every bit of metal work to be seen—the railings, binnacle, steering wheel, etc., are all of brass and polished until they catch every ray of the sun. Every rope leading to the stender, tapering mast is taut; there is everything in the yacht is represented the highest attainment of perfection in a maritime fabric.

When invited on board one ascends a varnished gangway, the rails of which are white-painted man-ropes and then, stepping over the varnished rail, one beholds on every side the combination of beauty and utility. The very decks, albeit being plain, unvarnished wood, are attractive for they are as white as constant holystoning will make them, while the seams, laid in black putty, make a sharp contrast; indeed, one feels as though to step upon such a deck is a profanity.

As one walks aft along the deck one sees how beautifully the deckhouses really are. Usually of mahogany or teak, they are as polished as the top of a piano, but upon entering the main saloon the real appreciation of luxury afloat begins. The woodwork is all paneled, either mahogany, teak, bird's-eye maple, walnut or, more costly wood and all highly polished. The furniture, tables, chairs, buffets, etc., are individual to each yacht and while they may vary in detail the evidence of exquisite hand carving is evident.

On the larger craft these saloons are of such size and with furnishings such as might be found in a reception hall of a private house. With the large, tapestry-hung windows there is the ceiling, with its deck beams, to remind one of the maritime. So too, it is in the staterooms where, with brass beds, washstands, bureaus and bathtubs adjoining, the feeling of "all the comforts of home" pervades.

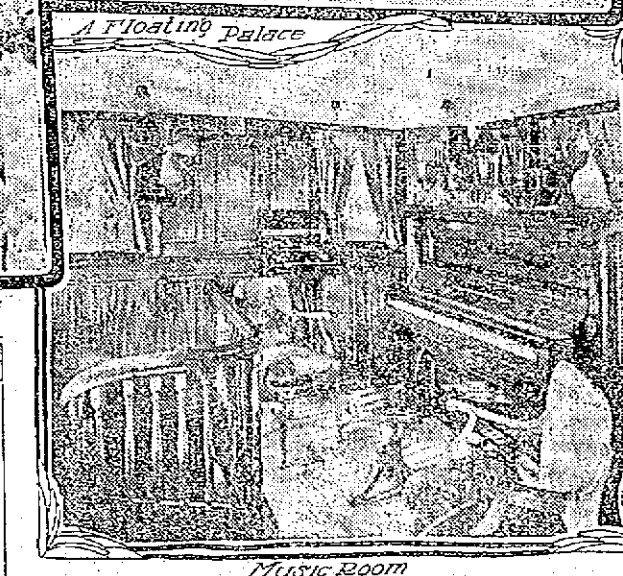

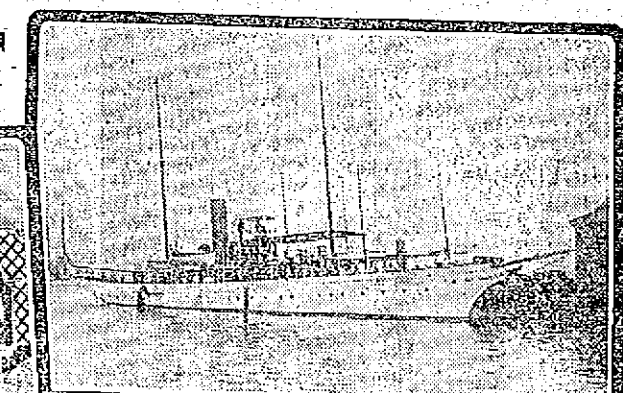

So much space have some of these large yachts that there are music rooms, with pianos built into the most convenient space, and even palm rooms where there is ever the fragrance of flowers.

Least, but not least, are the members of the yacht's company. The sailing master, mate and second officer wear neat blue uniforms, not unlike the dress of petty officers in the navy, while the sailors wear white canvas trousers and jumpers, the name of the yacht being embroidered across the latter. For dress the sailors have blue uniforms similar to those worn by men-of-war, the name of the yacht being embroidered in white.

Throughout the season the strictest "yacht etiquette" prevails and the discipline is of the highest order. There is a bugler who summons the owner and guests to meals, at which time a square white flag is displayed in the rigging. When the crew is eating a triangular red flag flies. When the owner goes ashore a square blue flag is displayed only to be taken down upon his return. By the "absent" flag one can always tell whether the owner is on board. Guests always board a yacht on the right hand, or starboard side, the other side being used by the crew.

The expense of owning, or rather operating one of these huge pleasure craft is enormous, costing not less than $20,000 for the ordinary season which, in this country, is about four months. In the first place a 200-foot steam yacht will carry a crew of not less than 40 men, all told, ranging from the master, who will draw $150 to $250 per month, to the galley, or mess boy, who gets $25 per month. Then there are the first, second and petty officers, the chief engineer and his assistant, firemen and coal passers, all of whom draw pay equal to or better than similar service in merchant craft would pay.

The average merchant vessel burns soft coal, but not so the steam yacht. For this palatial home must always be clean; only the best anthracite is used and when it is estimated that one of these big craft will burn 25 to 40 tons of coal a day the cost of fuel can readily be reckoned.

While the steam yacht is admittedly the acme of perfection and comfort, the modern gasoline craft is a close rival, size for size, but even in the larger of the auxiliary sailing craft such as the bark Aloha, the flagship of the New York Yacht Club, there is everything that would give comfort and convenience to the owner and his guests.

Although yachts are generally regarded as the lilies of the sea—for they toll not, neither do they spin—yet these pleasure craft have played their part in the serious occupation of war. During the Civil War, and again during the Spanish-American War, yachts were enrolled under the colors. During the Civil War there were but few big yachts owned in this country, but it was an English yacht, the Deerhound, which rescued the Confederate Commander Semmes after his vessel, the Alabama, had been destroyed by the Kearsarge. It was in running a blockade that the famous schooner yacht America, the winner of the trophy that bears her name, was engaged when, to escape capture, she was sunk in the St. John's River.

It was when the war against Spain was declared, and this country found itself short of small craft, that the heaviest demand was made upon the yachting fraternity for their boats. And the response was almost equal to the demand, too. More than 100 steam yachts, ranging from 75-footers upward, were offered. In the fleet that the Government purchased were many of the finest that flew the colors of the yacht clubs of the Atlantic coast. Notable among them was the Corsair, owned by J. Pierpont Morgan, which was as fine a vessel as could be found, having cost nearly $500,000. She possessed all of the requirements for easy conversion into a fighting ship and she was hurried to a navy yard and "reconstructed." In the Gloucester that became a member of Admiral Sampson's fleet there was but little resemblance to the Corsair when she was under the Morgan flag. Her once snowy sides were a dark slate color, her beautiful teak deckhouses were painted a dingy drab, while on her forward deck was mounted a pair of wicked-looking one-pounders. It was these same guns, at the battle of Santiago, threw missiles into the hulls of the Spanish torpedo boats Pluton and Terror, destroying both of them.

A number of these yachts were retained after the war; the most notable of these is the Mayflower, which is the official pleasure craft of the President. The Mayflower was a British steam yacht of that name and was built in 1895. She ranks among the largest pleasure craft afloat, being of 2,650 tons, 273 feet on the waterline and 56 feet beam. She has engines of 4,700 horsepower and is capable of steaming 17 knots per hour.

Yachts are exempt from most of the regulations imposed upon merchant craft, for they are permitted to enter and leave ports without the formality of making their clearance through the Custom House, but at the same time they are expected to produce a certificate of good health should they have visited a port suspected of being infested with fever.

Simplicity is the Keynote of the Best Looking Graduation Gowns of 1912

Simplicity is the keynote of the best looking graduation gowns of 1912. Of course these little frocks may be trimmed with a bit of real lace and hand tucks, and when they come from Paris fashions to write a large check for them, but even should the costume emanate from the Ville Lumiere it will be more or less of a tub creation and not instill "envy" and all uncharitable-

"ness" in classmates whose gowns are less distinguished. Whatever the makeup of the graduation gown, this regalia marks an occasion of vital interest, and in the mind of the wearer it is second only in importance to the wedding frock.

Sheer batiste, dotted Swiss, embroidered volles, sheer Landkercher linen, fine silky nainsook and soft marquisette are perhaps the most popular and suitable materials from which to fashion the graduation gown. These fabrics are charming when trimmed with real or fine imitation fllet, shadow lace, creamy point venise or baby Irish, which last lace is not, however, so new as the other varieties. The real Val is always good to use, and when the dress material is a fine organdie, a creamy tint of this lace is really lovely.

An exquisite little creation which will be worn is of white batiste trimmed with yellowish lace and clusters of white satin roses, the latter used both on the bodice and on the skirt.

Flounces are appearing on many of the smartest of graduation frocks, for this style is particularly becoming to young girls. A quaint little dress of the flounce persuasion is of white Swiss ruffled to the waist and finished with a fichu bodice, the edge of the fichu being outlined with a pink taffeta ruche.

Commencement day platforms will see a lot of platings made of net, for they are both economical and effective. These platings are very easy to handle and give to the net frock a charmingly airy appearance, and they are within reach of any little graduate.

Bands of tiny hand tucks on a batiste frock are wonderfully good set between broad insertions of lace on the skirt and applied as brocheles on the waist.

Embroidered net gowns are lovely, but there is always the added expense of silk or mesaline slips worn under them. Still, the cost might be made to average up, as the material itself furnishes the necessary trimming.

Sashes are the graduates own particular privilege, and this year it will be the exceptional girl who does not wear a sash of some sort. White satin and taffeta sashes with tab ends trimmed with small white satin rosebuds are fetching. A cluster of the white roses mingled with maidenhair fern posed at the front of the sash toward the side is very effective, while another tiny cluster to wear in the hair completes the picture of girlish simplicity.

Attractive white satin sashes have loops and ends extending up and down rather than standing out in butterfly fashion, and often four or five flat loops rise one over the other above the waist line, the same number of loops of a longer length falling down the skirt length. Such a bow is easily made. All you have to do is to allow the ribbon to trail from your thumb and finger down to the floor, bring up enough of the ribbon to make a deep loop, hold firmly, then carry the ribbon above your thumb and bring it down firmly. Pass the end around at the top to make a short loop, then down again back and through the knot formed in for another long loop below the thumb, front, which should be drawn tight, and then up to the second short loop. The remaining end is made for the The ribbon so looped must be held belt.

GOWN WITH EFFECTIVE BAND TRIMMING.

Front fastenings are all the rage on graduation dresses this season, and the model illustrated shows this effect at its best. Black velvet ribbon with buttons and straps of white crochet are used on this sheer frock of cotton voile, which displays crochet lace as a trimming.

VOILE FROCK TRIMMED WITH RATINE.

The wide ratine laces are not expensive, and the patterns are most effective. This white cotton costume is a charming one for wear on graduation day, with its band of ratine lace simulating a tunic. Cotton fringe loops and buttons are used as extra adornment.

FALSE ARREST

IS ALLEGED BY FORMER TELEPHONE GIRL

BOSTON, June 7.—Miss Theresa A. Francis, formerly supervisor at the Malden exchange of the New England Telephone and Telegraph company, brought suit in the superior court yesterday for $20,000 against Mrs. Mary A. Powell of Waltham, alleging false arrest and slander.

Plaintiff alleges she was arrested on evidence obtained through an arrangement between Mrs. Powell and private detectives. She was charged with improper relations with Timothy Powell, husband of the defendant, who was a transient officer in Malden.

The plaintiff was convicted in the Malden court, but on a trial by a jury was acquitted. Mrs. Powell obtained a decree of divorce from her husband on the evidence furnished by the detective.

WOMAN ASSAULTED

WATERVILLE, Me., June 7.—As a result of an alleged assault yesterday, Mrs. Annie Solomon of 27 Maple street is in a serious condition and the police and sheriffs are scouring the country for Samuel Silver, 23 years old, a butcher, living at 30 High street. Silver, who is under $1000 bonds in a case preferred by the young daughter of Mrs. Solomon, is alleged to have shouted epithets at Mrs. Solomon while driving past her home. When she ventured to reply he is said to have beaten the woman over the head and shoulders.

Two physicians worked an hour and a half on the woman before they were able to restore her to consciousness. Internal injuries are feared.

AT THE HIGHLAND CLUB

The special entertainment committee which so successfully conducted the Pop concert at the Highland club has arranged for the members and friends of the organization a lawn party to be held on the club grounds on Thursday evening, June 20. An excellent program will be given from 8 to 10 o'clock by the Salem Cadet band, Jean Missid, conductor. The program is one of great variety and includes some of the best known opera selections and many of the popular airs. The grounds will be decorated and illuminated for the occasion and tables at which ices, cake and soft drinks will be served, will be located at intervals around the grounds. There is a limited number of tables which may be procured from the members of the committee. The committee is composed of F. C. Woodworth, W. E. Potter, J. W. Kernan, H. E. Webster and A. G. McCurdy.

PACKING THE VACATION TRUNK

A woman who has traveled a great deal and has found one trunk sufficient for the needs of her wardrobe gives the following hints as to the disposal of her belongings:

In the bottom of the trunk she has had a partition made large enough to carry one large or two small hats. At the side of this partition she places a wooden box filled with sawdust in which she packs her medicine bottles. Here, too, she lays her shoes, each pair carefully rolled in linen covers. Her rubbers are fitted on one pair of boots, and in all of them she stows toilet belongings, such as tooth powder bottle, cold cream jar, etc.

Then she has six or eight pieces of heavy cardboard cut to fit the trunk exactly. They are covered with a pretty light percale made in envelope shape, with straps to fasten down securely. In these large envelopes she pins her dresses and shirt waists. Two or three frocks or blouses can usually go into each envelope. In this way everything is kept absolutely flat and nothing is pushed to one end of the trunk when it is turned up on end. A shallow tray at the top of the trunk holds laces, ribbons and veils.

CORPUS CHRISTI

SOLEMNITY OF FEAST WILL BE OBSERVED SUNDAY

On the Catholic church calendar, yesterday was the feast of Corpus Christi, but the solemnity of the feast will be observed on Sunday. In all the churches processions in honor of the day will be held.

At St. Peter's church last evening a novena in honor of the Sacred Heart was opened. The services were conducted by Rev. Daniel Keleher, Ph. D., rector, and the choir sang hymns of praise to the Sacred Heart. The novena will be brought to a close with elaborate ceremonies on next Friday evening. The "Holy Hour" services will also be held on that evening. Today is the first Friday of the month and in all the churches services were held. This morning masses were celebrated at which there were large congregations and a number went to communion. Tonight services will be held at 7:30 o'clock.

The programs for the processions on next Sunday in several of the churches will include open air services. At St. Patrick's the procession will march through the church and reading grounds and benediction will be given at a repository to be erected in the church yard.

SPALDING WILL

IS WAIVED BY WIDOW OF THE DECEASED

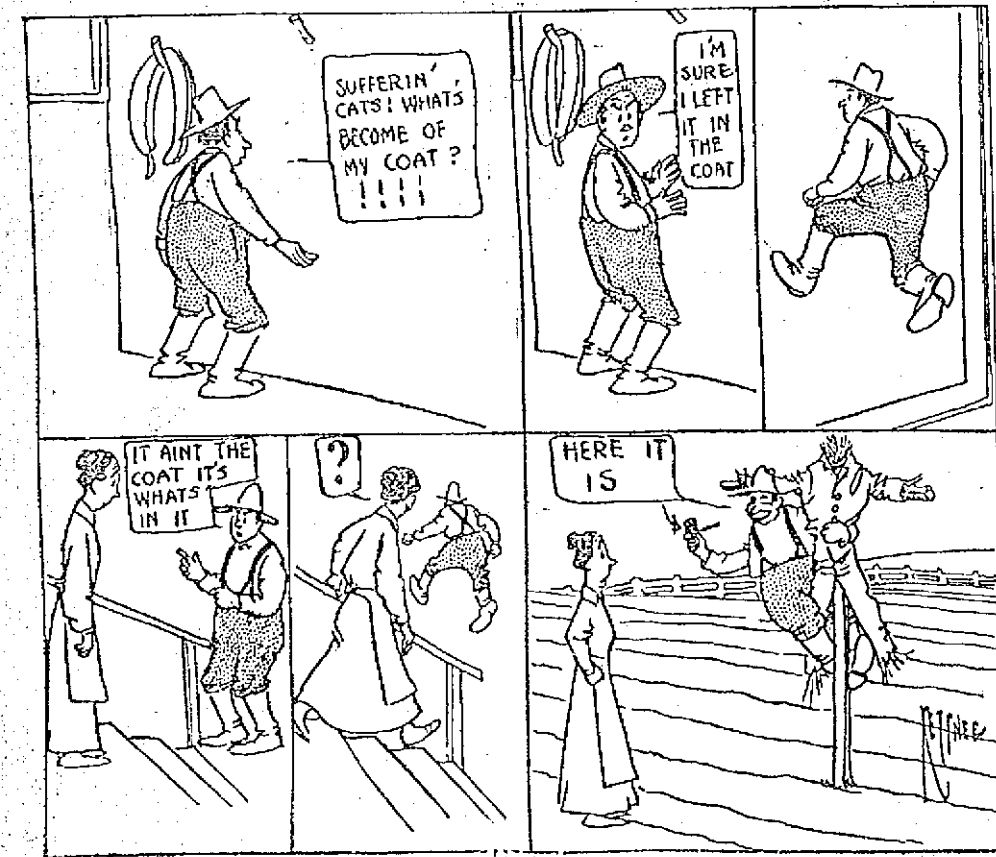

The will of the late William B. Spalding, who died suddenly March 9, was waived by the wife of deceased, Mrs. Mary E. Spalding, and through her counsel she has filed a notice to that effect in Cambridge, thereby taking the statutory first $10,000 and the income of one-half the estate for the remainder of her life, instead of what was left her by the terms of the will.

This disposition of the property has no appreciable effect upon the other bequests. This is particularly true of the sums bequeathed to the Lowell Humane society, which is to receive $1500 per year during the life of Mrs. Spalding, and the Lowell General hospital, which comes into the provisions of the will at a later time. The establishment of a permanent trust fund is not interfered with except as to the sum of $10,000 which Mrs. Spalding receives in cash now.

FIREMEN'S DRILL

The members of Hose 3, 4 and 10 and Truck 3 of the local fire department will hold a drill this evening at 7 o'clock in French street. The exercises will take place against the Bott mill storehouse and will be under the direction of Dept. Chiefs Sullivan and Saunders.

WEDDING CALLED OFF AS FIANCE DISAPPEARED

Louis Avixie Has Been Missing Since May 5—Bride-to-be Waited in Vain

Mrs. Harry O. Jalbert of 483 Central street, called at city hall this morning and asked that the marriage license of her daughter, Cora Anna Jalbert, aged 18 years, who was to have been married to Louis Avixie, aged 21 years, of 23 Westford street, be cancelled, as the wedding had been called off. The license application had been filed on May 1, and it was delivered a few days later according to the new law on marriage. The wedding ceremony was to be performed at Notre Dame de Lourdes church on May 5, but according to the young woman's story her fiance disappeared on the same day.

Miss Cora Anna Jalbert when interviewed by a reporter of this paper today related the following story: "I have known Louis Avixie for several years. He was a moultier in the employ of the Lowell Machine shop foundry. Our courting lasted some time and finally arrangements were made for the wedding which was to have taken place on Sunday, May 5 at 8 o'clock in the evening at Notre Dame de Lourdes church. Some were ready the morning of the above date and in the church on the above date and in the morning he was going to see his mother and I have not seen him since. I was told he is out-of-town. Invitations had been sent out for the wedding celebration which was to have been held in the evening at my home and soon the guests arrived but the bridegroom was missing. However, we had an enjoyable time just the same and now I have altogether forgotten him."

The young woman also said her mother called at the city clerk's office and had the license cancelled. A brother of Louis who lives in Cushing street said this morning that his brother had been gone for a month or so and that his whereabouts is not known. He said the young couple who were to have been married had some trouble and the young man thought it advisable to give up the matrimonial idea and leave town.

SUES FOR $10,000

WOMAN ALLEGES THAT SHE WAS POISONED

BOSTON, June 7.—Elizabeth A. Thompson entered an action in the superior court yesterday against the United Drug company to recover $10,000 damages, claiming she was poisoned while in the employ of the defendant. She went to work in the "dry filling department" in March, 1911, and remained there until March 12 last.

In that department, she alleges, various antiseptic powders were placed and sealed in receptacles for sale. The labor was not skilled, wages were small and later she was put to work filling and weighing cans of bug poison and rat poison.

While the work was similar to what she had been doing, she says, it exposed her to the dangers which she did not appreciate or of which she was wholly ignorant. She alleges the defendant failed to furnish suitable safeguards to protect her and to give her suitable instructions as to how to perform her work in safety. By reason of the alleged fault and neglect of the defendant she claims she was severely poisoned.

THE MENACING ELEMENTS OF THE HOUR

There is a state of discontent spreading all over this country and showing itself in various menacing elements which if allowed to go unchecked will eventually result in serious trouble. Various causes are assigned, but the underlying causes are so numerous that it is very difficult to state them all clearly.

First and foremost among the causes of discontent must be mentioned the trust systems and combinations that have grown to monstrous proportions under the shelter of the excessive tariff provided by the republican party. These trusts protected against foreign competition have throttled domestic competition so that they are able to fix the prices of the necessities of life—food, clothing, shelter—just as high as they please or as high as the people can endure.

This system of extortion has gone from bad to worse, until the people are grasping at such empty bubbles as socialism, the I. W. W. and other organizations which promise their followers a sort of millennium in the not distant future if their policies are put into effect.

While the prices of commodities have risen beyond all precedent, the rate of wages in most cases have lagged behind until the employees have become impatient under the difficulty of making both ends meet. The result is a very general demand for higher wages and strikes where these demands are not met in the right spirit.

The strikes, it must be admitted, have in many cases been conducted in a riotous and threatening manner. Resort to violence has been advocated by certain leaders and the result has been bloodshed and conflicts with the police and militia to an extent that is quite alarming. The wage earners are no longer led by conservative members of their own crafts and unions, but by leaders who usually are socialists and directors of the I. W. W. and who tell them that the employers are public robbers, that the factories are built of money unjustly filched from the wage earners. Sabotage and other illegal methods are resorted to in order to compel the employers grant the demands made upon them whether they can afford to do so or not.

The result of all this is a degree of uncertainty and insecurity that is highly injurious to business. What is the remedy for all this? There must be a change that will take away from the trusts the power to rob the people. The excessive tariff must be cut down and competition, especially domestic competition, must be restored. This will be done if the democratic party be placed in charge of the government, but not otherwise. The republican party is not and will not be in a position to adjust the tariff in the interests of the whole people. The cost of living must be cut down, and this can be done only by competition that will prevent the trusts on one end and the retailers on the other from robbing the people.

It is true that there are organizations all over the country whose avowed purpose is to overthrow the constitution and the present form of government. They are daily gaining strength as a result of the discontent and poverty of the working people owing to the disparity between the cost of living and the rate of wages. Hence the government will have to deal bravely with these various elements lest at any time they should unite their forces to spread disorder and industrial paralysis all over the country. This is apparently their aim if we can judge aright from their speeches and their policies as seen in various industrial conflicts.

The fact is that the republican party of special privilege has been retained in power until the country is in a very bad condition. It is to be hoped that this party and all its cohorts, call them standpaters, progressives or what you will, may be driven from power and that a democratic administration will be chosen, one that will be competent to right the wrongs of the present, restore the rule of justice and fair treatment for all men, to the end that peace, happiness and prosperity may reign throughout the land.

The people are being misled in regard to the great questions of the day. Socialists, anarchists and others claim that there can be no real remedy until their pet hobbies shall have been applied; but the people have the remedy in their own hands and can set things right if they use the ballot in their own interest not to overthrow the constitution but to remedy the divers evils that have grown up as a result of making large corporations the beneficiaries of special privileges.

The fictitious values, the extortionate prices and the uncontrolled monopolies can all be remedied by intelligent action of the masses at the polls next November. That will be a great opportunity for the people if they show the intelligence to vote right and not be misled by the vagaries of the hour.

LINCOLN'S GREATNESS AND HIS STATUE

Abraham Lincoln is a much discussed man at the present time. For his own purposes Colonel Roosevelt almost daily, sometimes many times a day, during his campaign drew parallels between himself and Lincoln, the object being to show that he and Lincoln are the two greatest figures in American history. We do not admit that Roosevelt bears any resemblance to Lincoln, either personally, in character or otherwise, and, therefore, we do not believe in belittling Lincoln in order to show that after all he was not such a model of greatness and perfection as Roosevelt tries to have us believe he was. Here for example is a statement from the Springfield Republican that will surprise some people:

"The worst failure ever in the White House, in the opinion of the great majority of the American people, after the battle of Chancellorsville in the late spring of 1863, was President Abraham Lincoln. There had been over two dreary years of defeat and fizzle, and even a year later, prior to General Sherman's successes in Georgia, there seemed only a slight chance that Lincoln would be re-nominated by the republican party. Mr. Roosevelt loves to appeal to the memory and the great name of Lincoln. From what is known of Mr. Roosevelt, however, it is certain that had he been privileged to observe critically the war president in the spring of 1863, he would have declared that he 'meant well feebly,' was controlled by bosses, was directed and advised by incompetents, and was altogether and unqualifiedly unfit to be president of the United States."

Thus it appears that present day judgments are often erroneous and that it takes the unbiased judgment of the historian to do justice to public men long after they have passed away. Nobody today would admit that Lincoln was a failure in the White House because success finally crowned his efforts. Otherwise he would have been assailed as the greatest failure of the century.

But Lincoln is being discussed in another aspect. George E. Ganiere of Chicago recently made a statue of Lincoln modeled after that produced by the late sculptor Augustus Saint Gaudens. The second statue was placed in the Boston Chamber of Commerce where Mrs. Saint Gaudens condemned it very severely as defective in many points and very much unlike the artistic figure turned out by her husband. No doubt Mrs. Saint Gaudens is correct, as the translation always differs to some extent from the original. Ganiere did not copy the statue correctly and Saint Gaudens, genius though he was, may have departed even more widely still from the original, the real Lincoln as he lived and moved among men.

ERNEST ANDERSON

STAR CLOWN SAYS CLOWNS MAKE BEST HUSBANDS

"I would rather be a clown than anything else," Ernest Anderson confided to a recent interviewer. "They may tell you of the clowns that have been funny when their wives were dying," said Anderson, "and of the famous Grimaldi, who when asked consulted a physician, and was advised to go and see himself, and he would be better. But, taking it all around, the clown's business is the happiest profession a man can have.

"I find that being funny, or trying to be, helps one to have a jovial disposition. I forget that years are passing by and that the time will come when I will be old. I forget that there is such a thing as care. I have the laughter of children echoing in my ears when I'm eating my breakfast, and I'm glad to work. I take an absolute delight in being funny."

"Being a clown nowadays is utterly different to what it was in the old days when the clowns used to do a lot of talking and shove their fists

through paper hoops. That was old

"Frisky's" stunt and he got a laugh out of the same thing year after year. But the boys and girls of today are more sophisticated and they make the clowns work. A funny "wheel" makes a hit and lasts for one season, but you can't carry it any longer, for, as a rule, your own "stunt" is copied all winter and the management and public demand something new each spring.

"I think the hardest time I ever had in being a clown was when I was in love. Before we were married my wife was almost a daily attendant at the show to watch me work. Then it was difficult, as nobody likes to have his best girl see him making a clown of himself. All that comes naturally enough after marriage. Still, my advice to any young woman is that if she really wants a happy husband, marry a clown and she won't have a quarrel from one year's end to another. There are plenty of eligible clowns, too, and not all of them with the Barnum & Bailey circus, for most of them are happily married."

Olive Oil for Thin People

Thin people as a rule are not strong, and ordinary foods even when eaten in quantity, do not always build up the body and give strength. If this has been your experience, you should at once become a convert to the use of Pompeian Olive Oil. Two things, this the purest of olive oils will do—first, it is a food and flesh builder. It is easily digested and is an ideal food in itself, especially for invalids and convalescents, and, second, it builds up strength and creates energy. This is due to the fact that it is much easier digested than solid foods.

Pompeian Olive Oil being absolutely pure and from the first pressing of selected, hand picked, ripe Italian olives, without any chemical treatment or adulteration of any kind, is the best remedy possible for all stomach and nerve troubles. It has a distinctive sweet, nutty flavor not to be found in other kinds.

When taken with each meal, either plain or with salads and other foods, it will soon demonstrate to you its wonderfully beneficial results. If you will use more Pompeian Olive Oil you will soon learn that you can do away with half the other medicines you are using. In itself, it is a food-medicine without an equal.

Pompeian Olive Oil is sold by druggists and grocers. Full one-half pint cans, 25 cents; full pint cans, 50 cents; full quart cans, 90 cents.

"I think they might be nearer right if they were aftercasts."

NEARLY THE SAME.

"Did I understand you to say that Mr. Hullard was a broad-minded man?"

"Not exactly. I said he was thick-headed."

RATHER ROUGH.

"Fred is afraid that he will be buried alive."

"He needn't worry; he is such a bore that he could work his way out."

APRIL FOOL JOKE
CAUSED BOY'S DEATH
He Was Kicked by a Schoolmate

WORCESTER, June 7.—As the result, it is said, of an April fool joke four years ago, when a tax was placed into his coat and he was kicked by a playmate while running in a schoolyard, Leroy S. Williams, aged 14, died yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James B. R. Hadden of 131 Highland street. The death of the boy ended four years of intense suffering and followed the death of his mother, Mrs. Martha Williams, last week. The boy's death was caused by tuberculosis of the spine, said to be the result of the kick he received from his schoolmate, and his mother's death was attributed to worry over his sad plight as she saw his young life fading away with no power to save him.

Mrs. Williams was a widow when she began to fall ill, as a result of the condition of her son, who was taken into the home of Mr. Hadden, who is husband of Mrs. Williams' daughter, and cared for until she died.

The card pinned on the Williams boy's coat read "Kick Me Hard". One of the larger boys of the school caught the card, who was then 10 years of age, by the shoulder and administered a kick which struck the victim on the end of the spine. The kick was so hard the Williams boy became unconscious and had to be taken to his home. He recovered his senses in short time and it was thought that the injury was not serious, but tuberculosis of the spine set in and the boy came yesterday.

WOMAN SAVED CHILD FROM BEING KILLED
Mrs. Howland Figures in Thrilling Rescue

CLINTON, June 7.—Mrs. George Howland of North Main street yesterday figured in a thrilling rescue. Going from her house near the main line of the D. & M. railroad to her father's, who was to receive her, she saw the two daughters of Henry Cooper, 11, and 9 years of age, upon the tracks.

At the same time she saw the train, land, express, which had just left the Union station, heading south from the children. Her cries were heard by the children and the elder girl got off the track, but the younger fell over the rail upon which the train was approaching. Horrified by the sight, her strength left her and she could not run to lift the child, but the freight wagon, as the train, stopped in the station, and he stepped at the locomotive.

Descending from the cab, the rescued Mrs. Howland what was the matter and she told him. Not until then did he see the child lying across the track just six inches from the engine.

Mrs. Howland took the child to her home and learned that the child had sent them on an errand, and she resuscitated their crossing the tracks.

LOWELL YOUNG MAN
Maurice E. Harris Graduates From B. U.

The numerous friends in this city of Maurice E. Harris, of 44 Lincoln street, will be glad to hear that he was among those who graduated from Boston University Law school during the present week. The exercises were held in the Tremont temple yesterday afternoon, and there was a large number of friends in attendance.

Mr. Harris is very popular in his school, being the only student of his class and later from the Lowell High school, class of 1904, who was exceptionally bright while in school and received high marks in all his studies. He will take the bar examination in the latter part of this month and expects to start the practice of law in this city about July.

While in school, young Harris was identified more or less with athletics, and to baseball he was one of the best semi-professional players in the city. He played on some of the best teams of the city and his clever playing and gentlemanly actions won for him a host of friends who will be pleased to hear of his success.

FIREMEN HURT
WHILE FIGHTING A BLAZE IN BROCKTON

BROCKTON, June 7.—Patrick Stack, a member of squad A of the central fire station, had his right hand nearly severed yesterday while breaking a window in the home of William Dote, the interior of which was a mass of flames.

Stack was alone on the plaza roof, and after receiving the frightful gash, attempted to stop the flow of blood with his handkerchief. His weakened condition, due to the loss of blood, and a blanket was quickly produced, into which the injured fireman jumped.

He was rushed to the Brockton hospital by City Electrician Dote, the fireman being unconscious when the three rifle auto aids were completed.

The fire which started on the second floor, practically gutted the entire house, causing a loss of about $1250.

Assistant Chief W. F. Daley and Earl Clark, a volunteer fire fighter, were also cut by falling glass, but did not have to seek medical attendance.

ATTEMPT TO FIX JURY
IN $50,000 SUIT ALLEGED
Foreman of Jury Says He Was Asked to Return Verdict for the Plaintiff

PROVIDENCE, June 7.—Alleged at the superior court building yesterday, attempts at jury fixing in a $50,000 Robert LeMay, foreman of a jury hearing suit created a sensation about hearing the civil suit of A. B. Crafts against the Mechanics Savings bank of Westerly and others, was approached, it was stated to Judge Baker, by a man who said he wished him to see that a verdict was returned for Crafts.

When this fact was brought to the attention of Judge Baker, the case was taken from the jury and passed. The alleged tampering with the jury was turned over to Atty. Gen. Rice for prosecution.

The case was brought to recover $50,000 for services claimed to have been rendered the defendants in connection with transactions concerning oil properties in the west. The trial began May 20, and Crafts was on the witness stand for nine days.

When the court opened Judge Baker announced that the case had been taken from the jury and passed by agreement of counsel. It developed that Juror LeMay was the man approached. He is a grocer and market man of 675 Broadway, Pawtucket. The stranger appeared in LeMay's store and requested him to see that a verdict was rendered in favor of Crafts and against the bank. The man, according to LeMay, was about 5 feet 6 inches high and weighed about 130 pounds. He was apparently between 25 and 30 years old, LeMay thought. There was no request for any special sum to be awarded by the verdict and no suggestion, it is understood, as to when the implied reward would be paid to the foreman if he carried out the instructions.

Anonymous letters written to Judge Baker and to lawyer Rathbone Gardner are said to have been mailed in Pawtucket. They describe what the writer calls a telephone conversation, arranging an appointment with LeMay. The writer claims to have overheard the conversation and says that he deemed it to be his duty to report the matter to the court.

The letters are signed "A Friend to Justice." It is understood. Crafts expressed the opinion that the affair was a trick framed up by some of his enemies for the express purpose of having it reported to the court in order to procure a mistrial of the case.

United States is Ten Years Behind In the Field of Electrical Progress

Two Views of the Trackless Trolley in Operation in California.

When a man of the highest standing in electrical matters says the United States is ten years behind in a field of electrical progress it should be time for Americans to wake up. Such is their standing in the matter of the adoption of the trackless trolley, in successful operation in Europe for several years and only now attracting general attention in America. Europe has at least twelve or fifteen trolley trackless systems, says Thomas Commerford Morgan, the electrical expert, authority for the statement made above. In his "Report of the Committee on Progress," prepared for reading before the convention of the National Electrical Light Association in Seattle, June 19-24, this year, Mr. Morgan says: "An entirely new department of business for central stations is the trackless trolley, operating on suburban roads or in rural districts where it is undesirable or unprofitable to install tracks, so that the opportunity ignored by trolley systems falls as naturally to the central stations as does the charging of electric automobiles, some of which might, of course, do the same work."

The trackless trolley, with contact wires overhead, has already been adopted at numerous places in Europe, and there are hundreds of communities in America that could be benefited by such a service, the central station at the same time picking up a nice, steady, off peak load and having quite frequently, already in use, the pole lines to which the circuits can be attached or else securing in this new field an additional use that will warrant the erection of such a line. The subject is already receiving very serious attention and many such installations may be looked for in the near future."

There is at present only one trackless trolley system in operation in America. That is in California, near Los Angeles. It has been in successful use more than a year. Four years ago the matter was taken up in New Haven, Conn., and tests were made, but nothing came of the venture. The subject is receiving constantly growing attention in Europe.

As far back as 1907 three trackless trolley routes were operated in Austria, six or seven in Italy and one or two in Germany, according to the official reports of the census bureau on street and electric railways. A year ago lines were opened in Leeds and Bradford, Eng. The description of the vehicles and method of operation given in the report mentioned may be taken as descriptive of all the systems.

The vehicles correspond in general appearance to the single deck motor omnibus, plus the means of collecting current. A double trolley method is necessary to complete the circuit from the wire through the motors and back to the generating plant. On one of the lines in Vienna two pairs of cables are used, so that passing cars do not have to stop and exchange connections, as on other lines and as was done by some of the earlier electric railway trolley systems in the United States.

The Austrian vehicles, which, empty, weigh two and a half tons apiece, each carry 12 passengers seated, with standing room for 12 more. The electric motors, each of 20 horsepower, form the hubs of the rear wheels, and current is led to them by a flexible cable attached to a pair of wheels which run on top of the wire, a similar pair making the return circuit. A weighted pendulum hung from a frame presses the wheels down upon the wires.

the attached to a pair of wheels which run on top of the wire, a similar pair making the return circuit. A weighted pendulum hung from a frame presses the wheels down upon the wires.

It is stated that all the systems examined operated smoothly, with few hitches, and that owing to the comparative lightness of the vehicles the road suffers less than in the case of engines, especially gasoline or other engines. The committee reports itself as much impressed with the practicability of all the systems for transportation of passengers in sparsely settled districts and as a means of avoiding the heavy expense required for the installation of ordinary street railways.

In addition it may be said that the trackless trolley system lends itself very well to the purpose of those who desire to avoid the laying of tracks in restricted roads along which regular means of transportation of passengers or freight are needed. The wires may be hidden in trees at the sides of roads.

In some cases the cars have been equipped with storage batteries so that the wires may be left if desired and the cars then may be run independently until such time as it is found advisable to hitch them again to the central sources of power. But the objection to this form of utilization of the batteries in the opinion of Mr. Morgan, and the European trackless trolleys have not been fitted generally with batteries.

The flexible cable and the absence of tracks enable the car to run on any part of a road, overtake other carriages or to turn anywhere, accommodating itself, therefore, to all sorts of traffic. The cost of running the systems has been found in Europe to be very reasonable.

BATTLESHIP ARKANSAS

GIVEN ANOTHER TEST

Expected to Make 20 1-2

Knots an Hour

ROCKLAND, Me., June 7.—The battleship Arkansas left here early today to continue her builders' acceptance trials. As she was anchored five miles outside the inner harbor and the weather was thick it was not known on shore what time she took her departure.

The first of the trials was a four-hour endurance run on which she was expected to average 20½ knots an hour, to meet the requirements of her contract. On that run she burned coal alone. This will be followed by a two-hour run, burning coal and oil. Then will follow a 24-hour run at 15 knots an hour. The only other test would be a 24 hour run at 12 knot speed, but it was uncertain whether this would be made now or at the final acceptance trial which will be required owing to the accident to the cruising turntable during the first day's standardization trial.

The dreadnought will make no landings until she reaches Lewes, Del.

A rehearsal of those to participate in the concert to be given by the Holy Rosary sodality of the Sacred Heart parish in the school hall next Wednesday evening, was held at the home of Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, in Lawrence street, last evening. All members of the entertainment committee were present and during the evening refreshments were served by Mrs. Sullivan and her daughter.

MODERATE CHARGES FOR BOARD IN COLORADO

A vacation in Colorado is by no means beyond the reach of the person of average means. There are hundreds of nice, clean, wholesome boarding-houses and ranch houses in Colorado where the rates are from $10 to $15 a week, and where you can live well and comfortably. Then, of course, there are elaborate Modern Hotels for those who require more, but even then it will surprise you to know how moderate their charges are.

I would like to send you, without charge, a copy of the "Burlington Route Handbook of Colorado." It tells all about the country, gives a complete list of hotels and boarding-houses, names of the proprietors, addresses, rates, conveniences and nearby attractions. Then, too, it has a big map of Colorado and is full of pictures. Let me send you a copy (no charge), and if you wish I can tell you all about the trains and cost of railway tickets, and I will gladly help you in planning for a trip to the most wonderfully interesting and altogether charming country in America.

The chief speaker of the afternoon was Hon. Joseph Walker. Dr. David

Snedden, state commissioner of education, was slated for an address but because of other and previous engagements he found it impossible to come to Lowell. The medal of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers was presented by Frederick A. Flather, treasurer of the Buott mills, and Franklin W. Hon. Joseph Walker's Address

The chief speaker of the afternoon, Hon. Joseph Walker of Brookline, formerly speaker of the house of representatives, spoke as follows:

In the new movement for vocational training first came the great technical schools, such as the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the Worcester Polytechnic institute, and now have come the textile schools and the various industrial schools. This new educational movement means much to the industrial development and to the future prosperity of the United States.

In my judgment no schools are doing better work than our three great textile schools here in Massachusetts. I was present at the dedication of this building in which today these graduating exercises are being held. I have spoken at the graduation exercises of the Bradford-Durfee Textile school of Fall River and of the New Bedford Textile school, and now I am especially glad to join with you in these graduation exercises. I have great interest and much faith in all these schools. I congratulate you upon what has already been accomplished by the work you are doing and I prophesy a great future for this school. You are serving not the select few, but in your evening classes especially, you reach the great mass of ambitious textile workers. By developing their ability to serve their employers you increase their ability to serve themselves. You make them better men and better citizens.

This is a city of great mills and workshops. Let us never forget that in the last analysis these mills and these workshops are for the benefit of the multitudes of people who work in them and not for the benefit of the few who own and manage such mills and factories. If this were not so, then indeed would our industrial system be a failure. An industrial system which does not permit the normal development of childhood into manhood and womanhood, a system which tends to destroy the bodies and crush down the minds and souls of the many, cannot long endure.

Industrial Peace Needed

Industrial peace is essential to the prosperity and happiness both of employers and of employees. In the long run, the interests of capital and labor are the same. To harmonize these interests for the benefit of society is, therefore, essential. There can never be contentment and harmony, peace can never be. Industrial peace until the individual worker is assured safe and healthful conditions of employment and a living wage for a reasonable day's work. The wage workers of the commonwealth must have a reasonable opportunity for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

An industry which cannot pay a living wage for a reasonable day's work has no right to exist. No industry is good for a community the wage scale of which is permanently sub-normal.

This fundamental problem of industrial conditions, of wages and of hours, must be worked out. If it is not so worked out as to insure a reasonably high standard of living in each industry, then, not only our industrial system, but our free government itself becomes insecure. Oppressive conditions, insufficient wages and unreasonable hours of labor lead directly to discontent, to industrial wars and to socialism.

Employers' Obligation

Employers must realize the situation which confronts us in time. They must feel responsibility for the living conditions of their employees. They must look upon their employees not merely as machines out of which to get work but as men and women, as citizens and as brothers.

I realize the difficulties of the situation. I realize the evils in unrestricted competition. Reasonable combinations and agreements, under government regulation and control must be permitted. The law must be made clear on this subject. As far as legislation is concerned there are always two sides to industrial problems. It is important to protect by law the health and safety of operatives, to relieve the individual worker of the burden of industrial accident, to limit the hours of labor and generally to insure proper conditions of employment. Yet every one recognizes the fact that Massachusetts has too far ahead of her sister states in this matter she handicaps and may even destroy the industries upon which our people depend for their living. It is always a nice question to decide how far and how fast Massachusetts acting alone can afford to go in this direction.

A Difficult Problem

Under our federal system of government and in the face of competition from other states, with longer hours and lower wages, this is a difficult problem to work out. But it must be worked out if we are to avoid that discontent and unrest which is driving this country on to socialism. If the nation had power to fix uniform hours and uniform conditions of labor throughout the country, the problem would be easier of solution. If it were not for our protective tariff we would be in unrestricted competition with the rest of the world as well.

Above all it is important to keep alive the right spirit among all our people. Today the feeling is altogether too common that men, in one way, or another, are trying to take advantage of each other rather than trying to cooperate and help each other. The rich and the powerful care nothing for them, but in the pursuit of their own selfish ends are ready to crush them. This feeling leads to class hostility. A great free government like ours cannot endure if the people are to be divided into classes with feelings of class hostility, one class arrayed against another.

I do not believe that in America this feeling is as yet very widespread or very deep-seated. If all our citizens, employers and employees alike, and especially our legislators, act with fairness, with self-restraint and with wisdom in solving our great social and industrial problems I believe that that feeling of brotherhood, so essential in government like ours, can be kept alive.

Now I believe that this school and schools like it which are trying to serve the interests of the workingman and of the employer alike, can do much to further the cause of industrial peace and of true progress.

YESTERDAY'S RAIN INTERFERED WITH NEW ENGLAND GAMES

ANDREW F. ROACH AND JAMES J. KENNEDY, OWNERS OF
THE LOWELL BALL TEAM

Lowell Owners are Striving to Secure a Winning Team for This City

All the New England games were postponed yesterday on account of rain and in every city the managers report that this season has been the poorest paying in years on that very account, poor weather. Of course several of the teams, including our own, have made many ascensions and this too has decreased the attendance at the games considerably. But if we ever get good weather, and if the pitchers get going right and if the team bats as it should, we will win the pennant. There is no question but this weather is hard on players and while that may be the reason for the showing so far, many are of the opinion that there are others.

One man says that since the last trade the team has greatly benefited and that they will now play baseball which they are certainly capable of doing. All over the circuit yesterday, where the players assembled and held faning bees, there was much discussion about the Conney-McGraw deal. The general opinion is that we pulled a good one. Many congratulated the Lowell manager for pulling off what they term a great trade.

With the all left-hander on the initial sack, Miller on second, Boutles third, and Longman at short, the Lowell infield looks good. The outfield at present is of champion calibre, but Magee is not batting as good as the fans expected, and is surely not hitting like he did last season. His fielding is very good, but the boy with the willow is what is needed at this stage of the game.

The catching department is about as good as there is in this league. Lavigne is not only catching great ball but his batting is one of the features of the team's work. He is hitting in great style and if his present fast gain continues the New England league will not be hit enough to hold him next season. Monahan is also a very good man, and though not as fast as Little Arthur, he is a good second man. He too is hitting finely.

The pitching staff though is the principal weak spot on the team. Zeller, while wild and ineffective in the first game at Lawrence Tuesday, came back strong in the second game and twirled a remarkable game. He has the stuff, and judging from the manner in which he went into the game with great odds against him, of being taken out of the first game and being pitted against the star, Keating, to do a wonderful stunt. Mayholm and Wolfgang have pitched some good games, this season, but have recently received their bumps. The new man, Kolesch, is said to be a good one, and all the fans hope so.

The Lowell fans realize that the owners of the Lowell and Manager Gray are working hard to bring a winning team here. Messrs. Kennedy and Roach have instructed the manager to spare no expense to get the goods and they have so far invested a great deal of money. They say that they will continue until the team is satisfactory. The attendance at the games this season have been good, considering the weather, but unless the weather improves a great financial loss will be suffered by the owners.

Tomorrow Lowell and Haverhill will meet in a double-header at Spaulding park, the first game starting at 2 o'clock.

DIAMOND NOTES

If "Rube" De Graff, outfielder of the Lowell team, was known around the circuit for his amusing stunts as well as his hard hitting he would be a great drawing card. It is worth while to get around to a game an hour earlier when Lowell is playing to see DeGraff pull off the comedy. The right fielder can catch a ball in his hip pocket, barehanded, in his hat, through his legs or almost any way. Then again he misses them in trying to make spectacular catches and this gives the fans the chance to have a hearty laugh at "Rube's" expense.—Lawrence Sun.

It is not generally known that Manager Connaughton got into an argument with Manager O'Brien at All-fetie field Memorial day morning and in consequence of a day from the Fall River manager, Connaughton challenged O'Brien to a duel in any branch of athletic sports.

O'Brien hotly declared that he could lick Connaughton, an assertion which caused the New Bedford manager to come back with a dare, which, up to date, the Fall River manager has not dared to accept.

Connaughton stated last evening that he was naturally of a peaceable turn of mind but he did not propose to stand for any pugilistic talk that O'Brien might put up. There is promise of an interesting set-to when next the rival managers meet.—New Bedford Mercury.

In May rain fell on 29 days and in April it rained 18 days of the month—reason enough for the league magnates to be peevish.

Jimmy Gray is so hard up for pitchers that he intends to use Jake Boutles in the box. Jake twirled for the Boston Nationals once, but that was many days ago, and surely he has not improved as a pitcher since then, or else he would not be playing the third base.—Exchange. Some of them always came back for more.

Arthur Lavigne does not let up his good work behind the bat for Lowell. Arthur hits well, and never in his history has he thrown a second so well.

Exchange. Well, about time they started to realize that "Little Arthur" is some catcher. "She's the best that ever 'twas in this league."

"Bob" Ganley, former New England leaguer, is through in the Southern league. He has been cut loose by the Atlanta club.—Exchange.

Keating is beginning to get his bumps, maybe Van Dyke won't be glad to get another crack at him.—Worcester Post.

Lawrence is going like a house afire right now, but those Barristers are bound to hit a slump, and then there is no telling what will happen.

Good hitting pitchers are not scarce in the New England league this season, no less than seven twirlers are batting .300 or better in Murnane's league.

Clark Griffith Says He Has Wonderful First Sacker

Manager Clark Griffiths of the Washington team, says that Ohio recently purchased Gandil from the Montreal team of the International league, where he has been a sensation for the last two years. This is not his first entry into the big show. He was a member of the Chicago White Sox three years ago and was sent back to the minors for more seasoning.

JIM CALLAHAN AND HIS WHITE SOX ARE SHOWING CLASS

Will the Chicago White Sox blow? That is a question big league bugs are asking. And big league baseball writers are pondering over the amazing form Jimmy Callahan's men have shown this season. The Sox leader has two youngsters, Rath and Weaver, in the middle of his inner works, and these players are said to be playing in grand style and with all the confidence of old leaguers.

The doubt seems to hang over Weaver. Rath went to the Sox from Cleveland, and the Cleveland writers believe he will keep to his guns, although they didn't count him in the running when he was turned over to the Sox. Callahan's supporters believe he will be in the fight until the end.

It is such unexpected doings as the capers of the White Sox, the Cincinnati Reds and the Washingtons that make baseball the wonderful game it is. The uncertainty of the game and the surprises that arise from that uncertainty keep the interest in the sport at high tide and the turnstiles never grow rusty.

Austrian Watermen Are Strong May Win Some Olymptic Events

While it is not likely that Austria will send more than three or four swimmers to the Olympic games, they would be hopelessly outclassed by most of the events, the Vienna newspapers express the belief that Otto Sheff, O. Demjan, F. Kellner and J. Kellner have a good chance to land in the awards.

This seems to outsiders rather an optimistic view to take of the situation when past performances are considered. Still, in these days of rapid progress in aquatics everything is possible, and it is unwise to be too skeptical. Sheff is undoubtedly a good man, at 400 and 1500 yards, and if he has improved of late, as claimed, he may accomplish the unexpected, for some time ago he negotiated 440 yards in 5 minutes 40 seconds in a 10 foot pool and one mile in 25 minutes 30 seconds over a 110 yard course. At that, though, his prospects are not over bright.

Demjan, on the other hand, appears to be a rather promising candidate for the two breast stroke races. At 200 meters he may only make a bid for a place, but at 400 meters he is credited with having done 6 minutes 45 seconds, and this time, if correct, should place him in line for the title.

Kellner may figure in the 100 meter back stroke race. He is thought to be able to swim the distance under 1 minute 19 seconds, and such a performance would rank him with the leaders.

As to Kellner, the fancy diver, he must have developed wonderfully to be in the running, and even European experts think his skill has been greatly overestimated. They don't concede him a look in.

Chicago watermen are making a great fuss over the recent 220 yard performance of Kenneth Huzagh, who finished second to McGillivray in 2 minutes, 31 seconds. They are predicting that he will defeat all easterners in the tryout for the relay team, besides asserting that he will prove one of our most valuable representatives at the Olympic games owing to his brilliant 100 yard work.

Unfortunately, their great hopefulness is in no way warranted. Huzagh's furlong mark was made in a sixty foot pool and is equal to about 2 minutes 34 seconds in a twenty-five foot tank, which is slower time than that of Helly of the New York A. C. or Fritsch of the city C. C. or Hieber of the Illinois A. C. and when it comes to sprinting Huzagh has been consistently defeated by Duke Kahanamoku of Hawaii, and only a few days since Harry Heber of the Illinois A. C. traveled the century in 55 1-5 seconds, which is faster by almost two seconds than the best marks of either Huzagh or Kahanamoku. So, without wishing to throw cold water on the waterman's heated enthusiasm it must be admitted that everything seems to indicate that there are several better men for both the 100 and 220 yard distances than the Windy City youth.

According to Conch Sullivan of Princeton, Harry O'Sullivan of the New York A. C. will wear the orange and black in competition next season and be eligible for the varsity team. As the Mercury footer has repeatedly beaten 50 seconds for 100 yards, no parts think his skill has been greatly overestimated. They don't concede him a look in.

The Cincinnati team keep the fans guessing. Manager Hank O'Day of Cincinnati is staging a skit that has all the fans in the country wondering. His team, lowly last year, trailing the St. Louis Cardinals into the finish, is now making a spirited fight for the leadership of the National league race. The men are working well together. The jinx of Clark Griffith has taken a back seat, and even Larry McLean has forgotten his tendencies in the general desire to win.

The pitching staff is not any too strong. The Reds picked up a crack young twirler in Rube Benton. If he can hold up he will be the only material factor in increasing the club's strength in this department over last year.

BRENNAN DEFEATED BY M'FARLAND

Canadian Put Away in Fourth Round

MUSKOGON, Mich., June 7.—Paddy McFarland, the Chicago stockyard lightweight, knocked out Frank Brennan, who claims the welterweight title of Canada, in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round go here last night.

The celebrated lightweight toyed with his opponent the entire distance, and did not open up on him until the third. McFarland started in the fourth with a rush, and in the first few seconds floored Brennan with a left swing to the jaw.

The Canadian took the count of eight, but was knocked down for the second time, this time taking nine. He staggered to his feet, and before McFarland could land the finishing punch on his groggy antagonist, the police ordered the bout stopped.

HENRY BEATS BROAD
ALBANY, N. Y., June 7.—Kid Henry outpointed Kid Broad of Philadelphia in a slow 10-round bout last night. Henry's left jab, which he used almost exclusively from the fifth round on, gave him sufficient advantage to be called the winner. In the fourth round Broad injured his hand and Henry took advantage of this and pounded his adversary at every opportunity.

His left jab hurt Broad a good deal and his injured hand also gave him trouble, but he stuck it out until the end. The biggest crowd of sports that ever gathered at a fight in Albany saw the battle.

GLOVER GETS BEATING
NEW YORK, June 7.—Conceding 14 pounds in weight proved too big a task for Mike Glover of Boston last night in his bout with Joe Smith of Bayonne, N. J., at Brown's gymnasium, and Smith administered a severe drubbing to the Bostonian.

In the first five rounds Glover put up a good scrap, but the weight began to tell on him, and in the final sessions Mike received a bad beating. Smith weighed 159 pounds and Glover 145 pounds.

WHITE KNOCKS OUT RIDGE

WARREN G. HARDING WILL PRESENT NAME OF PRESIDENT TAFT
COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—The name of President Taft will be presented to the Chicago convention by Warren G. Harding, former Ohioan governor. Mr. Harding today announced that he had received a letter from President Taft asking him to name him at Chicago and had accepted the commission.

H. Brooks will captain the Lowell team and his lineup will be as follows: G. Hunt, S. Nicholls, E. Shaw, F. Chapman, R. Birchwisle, E. Hayden, H. Hadley, J. Hoyle, W. Metcalf, J. Wood and R. Hirst; umpire, W. Croft, Sr.; scorer, J. W. Foster.

The Lawrence team will be piloted by that veteran and sterling cricketer, David Bruce, and his lineup is as follows: F. Chave, T. Jeffs, W. Hamer, W. Briggs, R. Hoyle, J. Bottomley, H. Rhodes, F. Halsey, W. Haddon, D. Stewart and T. Lamont; umpire, A. E. Sladen; scorer, W. Killest.

After the game the teams will be tendered a banquet by the Merrimack league officials in the large banquet hall at the Bunting club. An excellent program will also be given.

The concert in the evening will be free, and members and friends from all the clubs in the district are cordially invited to be present. Members of the Bunting club are requested to waive their rights as members at this game, as a small admission price to the grounds will be charged, the proceeds to go to the Merrimack Valley league which is doing its best to promote cricket in this part of the district. Weather permitting, a big crowd is expected to be present from Lawrence who will come up in special cars to encourage their representatives. Spectators for Lowell should turn out in large numbers and make things lively for the visitors.

STOVALL IS PLAYING GREAT GAME FOR THE BROWNS
While conditions undoubtedly warranted the trading of George Stovall, it is very evident that the Cleveland Naps did not help themselves by reason of the deal which sent the former manager to St. Louis. Stovall is playing great ball for the Browns.

His batting has put the tailenders in several games, and he is already the most popular man on the team. This probably means that in due time Stovall will be given the reins of the Browns and Wallace will go back to the ranks.

SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE HAS BEEN ORGANIZED

Representatives From Churches and Charitable Organizations Held Meeting

At a meeting last night of representatives from many of the churches and charitable organizations of this city, the Lowell Social Service League was formally inaugurated.

The meeting was held in the rooms of the Board of Trade and there was a short address by Mr. Robert A. Woods of the South End house, Boston, on the scope and effectiveness of a social service league such as it was proposed should be established here.

Mr. Woods said, in part:

"One of the most encouraging facts in our modern American life is the interest which our young business men take, not in the attainment solely of their own personal success and that of their business, but in setting aside of these more selfish desires for the betterment of their community and in their interest in the public welfare. The business organizations, too, as bodies, are taking a very friendly sort of interest in the welfare of the community, the same sort of interest which the Board of Trade in this city has shown toward you in your plans for organizing a clearing house for the charitable work of the city."

"When I was serving on one of the district boards of the London Charitable Society I found that one of the most important features of charitable work was looking after the individual family. The family being a little nation in itself and the very foundation of society itself."

"I also discovered that the method of dealing with the family was simply a problem of sympathetic assistance and co-operation. Each family and individual in that family had to have his case diagnosed and treated in the same way that a physician treats the individual patient. In fact there have been great strides made in charitable work from the study of medical work.

ECZEMA? TRY ZEMO

Yes, try Zemo. That's all you need to get rid of the worst case of eczema. You take no chance, it is no experiment. Zemo is positively guaranteed to stop itching, rash, raw, bleeding eczema, make a pimply face smooth and clean. Zemo is a wonder and the minute applied it sinks in, vanishes, leaves no evidence, doesn't stick, no grease, just a pure, clean, wonderful liquid and it cures. This is guaranteed. Zemo is put up by the E. W. Ross Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., and is regularly sold by druggists at $1 for the large bottle and 25-cent for the liberal size trial bottle. Try one 25-cent bottle and be convinced. Endorsed and sold by leading druggists everywhere and in Lowell by A. W. Dow's & Co.'s drug store.

"And other great needs of organized charitable work are the need of high intelligence and thorough training, the need of imagination which will be able to plan and look forward into the future, and last but not least, the need of great intellectual persistence."

"To the social and political betterment of a city, organized charitable work is the very foundation because it goes into the homes, builds them up and strengthens them, raises each individual in the home to a position where he can stand on his own feet, makes him independent and able to stand for himself, free from all domination by selfish bosses."

"The foundation of our schools is in the home. Many times a teacher finds one of her pupils seriously handicapped by conditions which she is unable to cope with because she cannot give each individual in her care the study and time necessary to solve the problem of his home life. Many a child is held down through life by the serious physical and moral handicaps of his early life at home. These questions can be cared for by the organized social and charitable work which deals with the individual home and the problems for the betterment of the conditions which a careful study reveals."

"Another phase of this work is that of caring for the chronic cases of destitution and drunkenness and other forms of social evil. We have all learned that there are contagious diseases and we take stringent care of them nowadays. But there is a moral contagion just as truly as there is a physical contagion and these chronic cases of destitution and poverty should be treated by isolation and treatment just as contagious diseases are."

"And lastly I want to mention the neighborhood work. This is one of the greatest phases of all. When we undertake to better the conditions in our own neighborhoods there arises a pooling of interests which results not only in the attainment of the betterment of the neighborhood but in the creation of public spirit, a by-product more valuable than the original product desired, a condition which has so often happened in our industrial life."

The constitution as drawn up by the committee of three appointed for that purpose was read by the chairman of that committee, Rev. Clarence F. Skinner. The constitution was accepted.

TAFT WINS FIRST FIGHT

Before the Republican National Committee

CHICAGO, June 7.—President Taft won the first of the contests for seats in the republican national convention heard by the republican national committee today when by a vote of 53 to 9, a unanimous decision, the contest over the Alabama delegates at large, six in number, was decided in favor of the "long" (Taft) delegation.

The first vote was viva voce, Senator Borah asking for an aye and nay vote, although evidently there were no negatives.

His request was complied with and confirmed the unanimous decision.

NORTHERN STATION
ENGINEERS MAKING SURVEYS IN THAT VICINITY

This morning at the Middlesex street station several engineers were making surveys. They also measured the crossing there and it is said at the depot that they were doing the work in view of the fact that the new grade crossing at that point will soon be started.

The traveling on the trains was reported to be very good and all were on schedule. Several more Lowell people left today for the beaches along the Maine coast.

The attaches of the depot are expecting that the new time table will present many changes. One of the men said that he was informed many of the trains that now go into Boston will be changed, and that more will pass through Lowell. There is a movement to have the New York trains changed so that the company will receive the baggage fare and not express companies in the Hub.

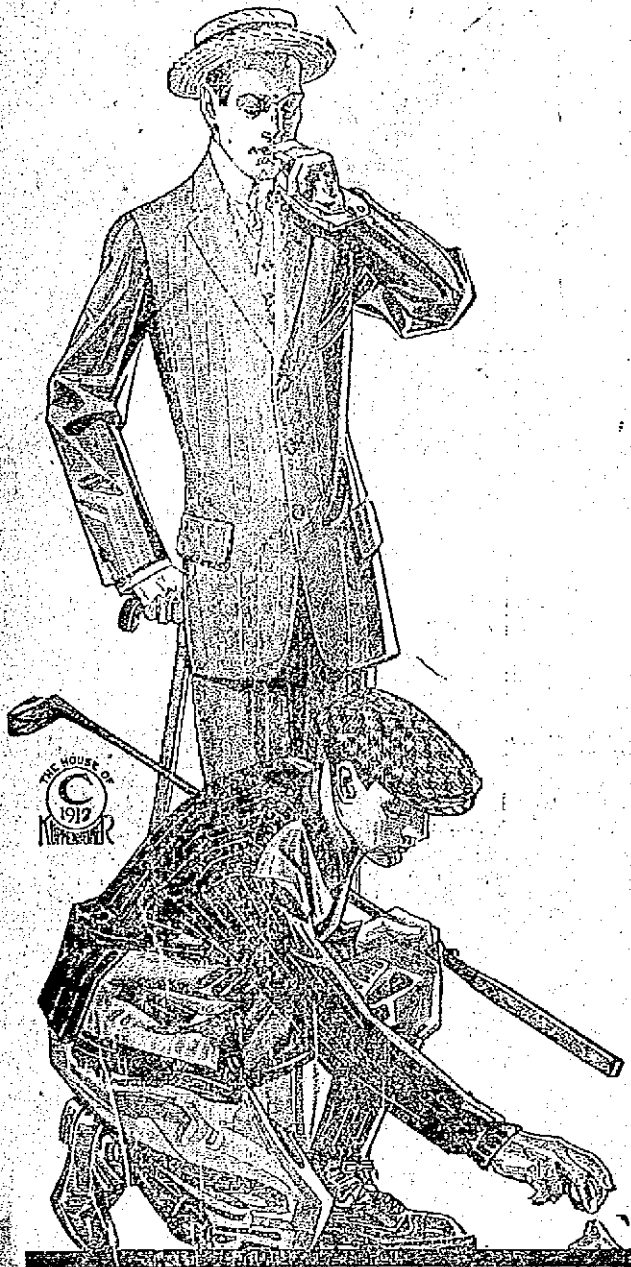

Frank Goss, baggage master at the depot, who attended the convention of the Order of Moose in Springfield yesterday, was back on the job today.

GRAIN ELEVATOR BUILT FOR THE J. B. COVER CO.

NEW GRAIN ELEVATOR OF J. B. COVER CO.

New Structure in Middle Street Will Store Many Carloads of Grain

The new grain elevator of the J. B. Cover Co. in Middle street, next to the Central fire station, is now finished and will be occupied soon. The building is of brick, 33x56 feet, three stories high. The plans were drawn by Architect Henry L. Rourke and the work was done by C. F. & J. B. Varum, while the foundation and the brick were set by Patrick Conlon.

On the first floor are the offices and salesroom as well as a large shipping room and a large elevator with a capacity of two tons, which runs from the basement to the third floor. The second and third floors as well as a large basement 10 feet deep will be used as storage rooms. In the rear of the building are grain bins extending from the first floor to the roof. The capacity of each bin is 20 cars of grain. The grain cars run in the rear of the building and are unloaded by power, one man alone unloading a car in one hour. The building is said to be one of the strongest in the city and is almost fire proof. The second and third floors will hold 23 car loads of grain, while the basement's capacity is 20 car loads.

The tower which can be seen on the above picture is that of the Central fire station in Palmer street, adjoining the new grain elevator.

TO GROW HAIR ON A BALD HEAD

BY A SPECIALIST

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who have tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum, 6 ounces; Lavender Compound, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half ounce. If you wish it perfumed, add half to one teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Do not apply to the face or where hair is not desired.

Before publication we presented this prescription at Hall & Lyon's drug store, this city, and they state that they have fitted it many times for their patrons who report most astonishing results from its use.

GRAND MINSTREL PERFORMANCE

Testimonial to William H
Way a Big Success

The minstrel and vaudeville testimonial to William H. Way at the Hathaway theatre last night was very largely attended. The entertainment was one of the best produced by amateurs of this city and created a favorable impression. The members of the Lowell baseball club were guests of the evening and they occupied the boxes. Mr. Frank K. Stearns, an old-timer on the amateur stage, was at the helm again as interlocutor and his work was very commendable. The first half of the entertainment was furnished by the Honey Boys, a local minstrel organization.

It opened as do all professional minstrel first parts with a medley overture, and in this instance the numbers were sustained by Miss Helen Dixon. The "Mexican Twist" was given a good rendering by Edward (Tip) Hanley, one of the end men, and this was followed by the bass number, "Over the Willow Sea," by G. Irving

MICHAEL J. MAHONEY,
Who Played a Part in "The Burglar."

WERE CHOSEN BY NORTH CAROLINA CONVENTION

RALEIGH, N. C., June 7.—After an all-night session the state democratic convention elected eight delegates at large to the Baltimore convention and by a vote of 503 to 296 endorsed Gov. Woodrow Wilson's candidacy. The delegates were unfrustrated but six are said to favor Governor Wilson and two are said to be neutral. The convention was a tumultuous one and adjourned at 6:30 o'clock this morning. Each delegate will have a half vote. Friends of Governor Kitchin in vain endeavored to prevent the endorsement of the record Sen. Simmons, whom the governor is opposing for reelection. Locke Craig was nominated for governor.

Said to be Ready to Quit
Senate

WASHINGTON, June 7.—It is reported that Senator Lorimer has withdrawn his refusal to resign and will quit the senate. The request for his resignation came from his own friends.

SENATOR LORIMER

and was a renewed one. They wish him to save them embarrassment. They told him that Senators Simmons of North Carolina and Martin and Swanson of Virginia, who voted for him before, will not do so again and that others are ready to change their votes.

PATROLMAN CORCORAN PASSED AWAY TODAY

Was a Member of Dept.
30 Years

The many friends of Patrolman Peter J. Corcoran will be pained to learn of his death which occurred this morning at his late home, 336 High street, after a lingering illness endured with patience and resignation.

Deceased was one of the best known police officers of this city and his demise will be a keen blow to all who knew him as well as a painful surprise to his many friends. Patrolman Corcoran was a native of Ireland. He was appointed to the supernumerary force in 1880 and a year later on Feb. 8, he was made a regular. On Aug. 1, 1893, he was appointed warrant officer and on Jan. 24, 1897, was made senior deputy chief, a position he held until Jan. 24, 1903, when he was succeeded by the late Jacob G. Fawcett. In the same year he returned to his beat and was commended twice for efficient service. In 1903 he was made a member of the liquor squad and the following year he returned to patrol duty. Two years later he was again placed in charge of the warrant department and in 1908 he returned to patrolman, his last beat being that of the poor farm on the early night shift.

Deceased was taken sick several months ago and passed away this morning. The department will greatly feel his loss as he was a very active and efficient police officer.

He leaves to mourn his loss, besides his bereaved wife, Rose A., one daughter, Miss Mary E. Corcoran, four sons, Thomas C., John B., Peter J. and William D. Corcoran; one grandson, Peter James Corcoran; also two brothers.

Did you ever notice how some of the inferior thin stockings lose their shape after a wearing? How they wrinkle and won't cling close?

Not so with "Tripletoes." "Tripletoe" sheer weights fit well and smoothly, yet they have the "give" necessary for comfort. They have the usual "Tripletoe" design, but they are in them too. They will wear longer than any other sheer hosiery.

DANDRUFF 20 YEARS AND FALLING HAIR

So Bad Coat Collar and Shoulders
Continually Covered With Great
White Scales. Itching and Smarting
Intense. Cured by Cuticura
Soap and Ointment.

46 W. 22nd St., New York City.—"For twenty years I have been troubled with dandruff and falling hair, itching and burning scalp, and in fact time I have used dozens of widely advertised hair tonics, dandruff cures, and scalp treatments, with no case with any lasting benefit. The dandruff was so bad that my coat collar and shoulders were continually covered with the great white scales, and my hair was becoming very thin. The itching and smarting was so intense and so constant that at times I could not sleep.

I purchased a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. I used the Cuticura Ointment once a week, gently rubbing it into the scalp before retiring and following in the next morning with a light shampoo with Cuticura Soap. Now my scalp is as healthy, clear and free from dandruff as any one's and my hair is perceptibly thicker. It never comes out now when I brush and comb it. From the time Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured my dandruff I have not felt the slightest return of the trouble." (Signed) F. F. Stone, Nov. 24, 1911.

The regular use of Cuticura Soap, assisted when necessary by Cuticura Ointment, not only preserves, purifies and lubricates the scalp, scalp, hair and hands, but tends to prevent clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, inflammation, irritation, redness and roughness, and other unwholesome conditions. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world. Samples of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Address, "Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston. Tender-faced men should shave with Cuticura Soap shaving stick.

AN IMPORTANT ARREST MADE BY OFFICER CLARK

Man Tried to Pawn a Revolver He Had Skeleton Keys in His Possession

Patrolman John H. Clark arrested a man thought to be a noted thief last night, who gave the name of Joseph Collins, Jeweler of Providence, R. I. The man was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of larceny of a revolver valued at $5 from an unknown person. He entered a plea of not guilty and his case was continued till Monday morning.

Last evening Patrolman Clark saw Collins enter a pawnshop in Middlesex street, and being somewhat suspicious of him, he watched him. When inside the pawn shop, Collins pulled a revolver out of his pocket and endeavored to sell it, but his efforts were fruitless and later he came out. The officer followed him as far as the Northern station and there placed him under arrest. When searched at the station several skeleton keys were found on his person as well as silk handkerchiefs and silk ties. When questioned, he said the revolver was his property, but it was learned later that Collins, during the day had sold opera glasses worth about $10 for 50 cents at which time he gave his name as Joseph Gleason, showman, 412 Tremont street, Worcester. It was also learned that during the day he was with another party and the two tried to dispose of a $40 diamond.

Larceny Charged
Thomas K. Brown was arraigned before Judge Fisher this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of a coat valued at $10 and a pair of pants worth $5 from an unknown person. He denied his guilt and his case was continued till Monday morning.

Neglected Wife
Joseph C. Hineault, admitted he's drunk and also pleaded guilty to a charge of neglect of wife. It was learned that the defendant earned $10 per week, but that he would only give about $5 for the support of his family. After promising the court he would give all his money to his wife, he was given a suspended sentence of one month in jail, while the complaint of drunkenness was placed on file.

Alphonse Bourque, a second offender for drunkenness, was fined $8, while Hugh J. Bourque's case for the same offense was continued till tomorrow morning so as to give Hugh a chance to sober off.

JOE THOMAS TO MEET JACK DILLON

At Terre Haute, Ind., on July 4th

Joe Thomas, the well known middleweight, who is now a resident of Lowell, has accepted an offer to meet Jack Dillon at Terre Haute, Ind., on July 4th. Joe has been doing light training of late and is in good condition. He had several offers to go to New York and was about to accept them when the excellent offer to meet Dillon was received. Joe will start immediately to get in trim for the bout and expects to bring home the bacon. Dillon is a clever man and has defeated some of the best middleweights in the west. He met Jimmy Gardner several times and always put up great bouts. The bout will be for a large purse and, as it comes on a holiday, a great crowd is expected to be at the ringside.

FORGE VILLAGE

Mr. James A. Murphy of Lowell and Miss Mary F. Hanley were the recipients of beautiful gifts from the members of St. Catherine's choir and friends at a surprise party held at the Hanley cottage on Forge pond, Wednesday evening. The presentation to Mr. Murphy was a silver baton, in recognition of the work that he put in, in training the choir members for the recent operetta, "Evelyn." He was completely surprised, but found words to thank his friends for the gift. Miss Hanley was then given an amethyst ring. During the evening refreshments were served and a general good time enjoyed.

A horse driven by Kenneth Ewing of Littleton suddenly bolted and crashed into an electric light pole at the junction of Pine and Pleasant streets yesterday morning, and the buggy to which the animal was attached was badly damaged. Several spokes were broken, as were the shafts, while the driver was severely shaken up. The horse was caught on Pond street by Bert Conney, and another team was secured to make the journey home. The buggy was towed to Littleton later in the day.

STOCK MARKET WAS HEAVY AT THIS CLOSE THIS AFTERNOON
Lowest Prices Were Reached in the Last Hour—Decision of U. S. Supreme Court Had Influence On Market—Other Features of the Trading
NEW YORK, June 7.—Declines were almost universal at the opening of today's stock market with losses of a point in several of the less active securities and 2 1/2 points in Canadian Pacific. All the better known issues reflected selling pressure but the early losses in Reading and Lehigh Valley were soon recovered.
Pressure relaxed soon after the opening but only in a few isolated cases did the list make material recovery. Steel, U. P., and Amal. Copper were increasingly heavy.
Depression in London's market resulting largely from acute conditions in Berlin provoked uneasiness here today. Canadian Pac. in which Berlin has some interest, was the chief sufferer, declining 2 1/2 points with pronounced heaviness in many of the more active stocks and various important issues. Coal shares regained initial losses but U. P. reflected more than usual pressure. Among industrial shares, inclined to heaviness, and with Steel fell under yesterday's news.
About the only interesting feature of the noon hour was the report of the copper producers, showing a decrease in the supply of metal on June 1 of about 15,000,000 pounds. Standard issues manifested an easier trend.
The market retained their reactionary tendency in the late afternoon with another general advance in various issues. Brooklyn Transit also gained materially as a result of its legal victory over former rival interests.
The market closed heavy. Lowest prices were reached in the last hour, when news came that the United States supreme court had overruled the commerce court in several important findings of the latter tribunal.

America's Three Woman "Inseparables"

Who Sailed Recently for Europe

Just before the princess of the house of Morgan sailed for Europe the other day she announced that she was coming back "full of work." This princess is Miss Anne Tracy Morgan, only unmarried daughter of the money king who she chose she could regard work as a thing existing only to minister to her personal convenience, but she chose rather to spend a summer abroad, assimilating all that is being done on the other side for the betterment of the workingman and his laboring sister.

That, however, is typical of Miss Morgan. She is the leading example in America of the rich woman who sets her sisterhood with the rest of mankind. She works, too—works hard at her efforts to raise the standard of living for the toilers. She gives not only her money, but her time and herself. While her father discusses in his Wall street office the details of some monster business deal very likely Miss Morgan is in an East Side day nursery tending to the woes of an Italian mother compelled to leave her baby while she goes out to work.

In the latest interview with Miss Morgan in America she said that on her return from Europe she is going to fight especially hard for the minimum wage scale now being discussed and advocated by sociological workers and students as the proper legislative remedy for the evils of insufficient pay for women and girls. A law establishing a standard is absolutely necessary, Miss Morgan believes. She spoke earnestly of the hard conditions under which women and girls labor in many factories and workshops and of the need for regulating these conditions so that health and mortality may be conserved.

Sailing with Miss Morgan for Europe were two women who form with her one of the most interesting trios in America. Probably nowhere else, America or in any other country, can be found three women inseparables such as Miss Morgan, Miss Elsie de Wolfe and Miss Elizabeth Marbury. They are a living refutation of the assertion sometimes made that friendship, real, true, lasting friendship, is impossible among women. In their devotion to one another, their interest in the pursuit and aims of one another, they remind one curiously of the "four hardmen" of Dumas. They have aims in common, brains to an extent unusual among women as well as among men.

The report of the interview with Miss Morgan, already quoted, said she was accompanied, as usual, by her two intimate friends, Miss Elizabeth Marbury and Miss Elsie de Wolfe. This friendship has existed in an unbroken course for—well, for several years at least. Years ago Miss de Wolfe and Miss Marbury dwelt together in the old Washington Irving home in New York, making it a rendezvous for persons of artistic tastes. Miss Marbury has been called "the cleverest woman in New York." She is the best known authors' representative in the world, being known principally as a play broker. Nobody knows possibly not Miss Marbury herself, how many plays she has handled, which have become successes. She acts not only as representatives of American playwrights in dealing with managers and actors, but also as the American agent of foreign dramatists. She interests herself greatly in Miss Morgan's sociological pursuits and was with her recently when Miss Morgan sat with the magistrate on the bench of the New York night court for women.

The third member of this interesting trio of women is Miss Elsie de Wolfe, former actress and present decorator of homes and public buildings. Miss de Wolfe was known as an actress who could play society parts well because she was "to the manner born" and could wear the garments of society with distinction. But acting failed to satisfy Miss de Wolfe, and she became her own manager as well, finally quitting the stage in 1905 to take up her present work in which she has been very successful. She has decorated the Colony club for women in New York, the home of J. Ogden Armour in Chicago, that of William Crocker in Burlingame, Cal., and many others.

Some Up To-Date Porch Furniture

Made of Wicker, Rattan, Grass, Etc.

WICKER FURNISHINGS THAT ARE NEW THIS SEASON.

In summer people like to get away not only from winter cares and responsibilities, but from cumbersome furnishings in their homes as well, from compelling decorations and unnecessary abundance of things to something more or less suggestive of simple living. Manufacturers, recognizing this liking for the "simple life," have been required to give a satisfactory and for the proper fulfillment of the public; consequently this season there are a number of charming new things on the market.

Wicker, rattan, grass and a host of fibers that include flax and even paper pulp make some of the best looking sets designed for porch use.

Unless one demands it ornamentation in the way of elaborate basketry weaves is no longer shown. Outlines are plain, and comfort is the main feature of the models.

All of the new wicker furniture includes veranda conveniences, such as newspaper receptacles and magazine stands, tea carts and the like, and this year wicker lamps are added to the list of belongings that the up-to-date porch must boast. Indeed, it is a critical taste that fails to find something to suit it in the great variety of styles provided this season.

The wicker desk and three cornered chair are charmingly convenient articles of furniture to have on the living room porch, and if there is room the lamp, also carried out in wicker, will shed a becoming and grateful glow when one requires more illumination than that afforded by heaven's great luminary. But by night or by day the comfort of the big rush chair with its high headpiece will shine forth resplendent and be a boon to tired humanity.

MRS. JULIA DEMARAY DEAD
HASTINGS, Mich., June 7.—Mrs. Julia Ann Demaray of Woodland, one of the only surviving real twin daughters of the American Revolution, is dead of paralysis. She is 80 years old. Her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Russell of Lake Odessa, Mich., survives and their father, John Peter Frank, enlisted in Philadelphia and served through the revolution. After the war he removed to Canada, where he married an English woman. The twins were born when he was 75 years of age.

Mrs. Demaray came to this country four years ago, her sister arriving a few years later. Both were mothers of 14 children.

The name of the Lowell young man who was killed in a train accident at Morgan City, La., was Robert Nutter and not Robert Nuttal as previously reported. The members of his family reside in Chapel street.

NEW YORK, June 7.—A militant band of nine Brooklyn housewives set out yesterday to pull down the cost of living, not only by boycott, but by force. And after they had smashed one butcher's plateglass window and threatened a score of others they had actually tied up the retail meat business in the vicinity of De Kalb, Gates and Myrtle avenues.

"Stop selling at these outrageous prices and throw your meat away!" was the command the women carried to every butcher of the neighborhood. "We're not going to buy any more meat, anyway, so you might as well quit buying from the wholesalers and work the strike backward to the trust itself."

Some of the meat men closed up shop without a murmur; others, who tried to argue, were threatened and left to choose their own fate by either closing or keeping open their shops.

About thirty shops were closed by the band of price reformers, who declare they will soon extend their organization and their campaign throughout the city. It is expected the strike will cross the bridge today.

BILLERICA

The regular meeting of Asa John Patten circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., was held Wednesday afternoon in Gardner Parker hall. There was a large attendance and Mrs. Mina L. Gardner occupied the chair.

Special services were held in memory of Comrade Bohannon, who was a member of the circle. Miss Anna M.

Gilman read a memorial hymn. The chairman of the circle, Mrs. Susan P. Jaquith, has served since the circle was formed, and has performed her duties very efficiently by visiting the sick and other members in need of relief. Light refreshments were served, and Mrs. Blaisdell poured.

In the evening special services were held in honor of the eighth anniversary of the circle, with Mrs. Hallie Whitney, past president of James A. Garfield circle, corps No. 33, and a former member of Asa John Patten circle, as presiding officer. After the address of welcome by Mrs. Whitney, the following was rendered in a very pleasing manner:

Piano solo, Mrs. A. Amy Torrey; reading, "50 Years Ago," a poem composed by Comrade Cook of San Francisco; remarks, Rev. Lyman V. Rutledge; solo, Miss Helen M. Wilkins, Mrs. Rutledge, accompanist; remarks, Comrade Cowdry; Rev. David C. Torrey, J. Nelson Parker; piano solo, Mrs. A. Gertrude Tutin; reading, Miss Evelyn Spaulding; remarks, Herbert A. King; sword dance, Raymond Morley; reading, Mrs. Hallie Whitney; singing, "The Star Spangled Banner," by all; remarks, Comrade Jaquith.

Ice cream and cake were served in the banquet hall, which was followed by dancing, with Mrs. A. Gertrude Tutin as pianist.

The following were the reception committee for the evening: The president, Mrs. Anna L. Gardner, Mrs. Sarah L. Murphy, Mrs. Hannah L. Whiteside, Mrs. Mabelle Smith, Mrs. Margaret Ritchie, Mrs. Herbert Kendall and Mrs. Hallie Whitney. The Sons of Veterans, under Commander Dole, acted as escort.

Comrade Cowdry had charge of the decorations and he was assisted by Mrs. Murphy and Ernest French.

The following served as waiters during the evening: Misses Holly, Twomey, Maxwell, Hannon, Woods, Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Pasho.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Only the best in vaudeville is seen at the Merrimack Square theatre. This week's presentation is one of the best series of the season, including the Temple Players in their musical comedy, "Circus Days," in which the large cast is seen to advantage in various song hits and novel features. Next week this company will present what is considered by critics their very best effort, a musical novelty entitled "In Japan." Miss Grace Hawthorne and the other members appear in congenial parts and the song numbers of the bill are especially good.

Earl and Bartlett, comedians of rank, are dispensing humor in large measure this week and are earning the favorable recognition given them at all performances. Their line of jokes and stories are new and entertaining.

Ben Pierce, known as "The Dutchman with the Hobbie Skirt," handles comedy well and sings several songs in a most acceptable manner. Donnelly Hendon is a comedy acrobat, who is winning friends daily, and Miss Alice Bagley, vocalist, is being heard in her latest and best song successes.

The photo-plays for the last three days of the week are among the best to be had from the big manufacturers of picture films in the country. They are shown in Lowell for the first time and are not only entertaining but instructive as well.

Don't forget that this theatre is "the coolest spot in town," made so by the special system of ventilation, and the use of numerous electric fans, exits and an exhauster.

BOARD OF TRADE

MEMBERS OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE NAMED

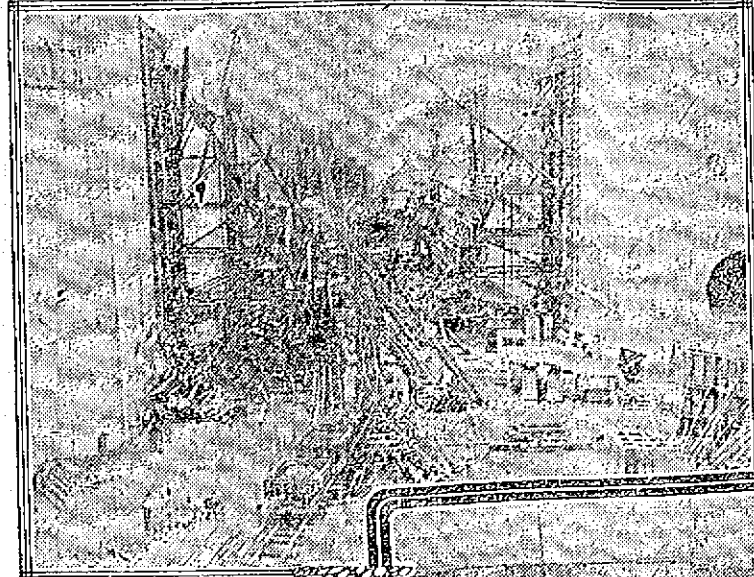

PRES. Arthur L. Gray of the Lowell board of trade has announced his executive committee for the ensuing year. The members of the committee will be: President Gray, Secretary John H. Murphy, ex officio, George M. Harrigan, Clarence H. Nelson and Robert F. Marden.

The board has a number of matters of more or less pressing importance to act upon or study and Mr. Gray decided it to be better to name his executive committee at once and keep the business slate clear rather than permit summer dullness to prevail too soon.

GIGANTIC CONSTRUCTION WORK OF THE PANAMA CANAL

The Locks at Gatun showing the Three Locks and Gates. A Little of 85 Feet is made here

Copyright, 1912, by The International Syndicate, Baltimore.

WHEN the plans for the construction of the colossal work of the Panama Canal were first made public few persons really appreciated the immensity of the undertaking. The technical terms used to express the engineering features of the work tended to further mystify the nature of the enterprise so that the average mind had no adequate conception of the project. The consequence was that a comparatively small number of persons took any interest in the Canal, as it was regarded as an impossible proposition and a waste of money. Later, as the plans began to take shape, the number of visitors to the Isthmus increased until finally the Canal Commission decided to erect two comfortable hotels for the reception of tourists.

Arriving at Colon the wise traveler will take the first train to Panama City and make excursions from that point to the different places along the Canal. The trip at present is over the re-located Panama Railroad which went into commission in February of this year. The re-location was made necessary from the fact that the ground on which the old road was built was needed for a part of the Canal plan. The new line is about forty-seven miles in length and its re-location cost the Government about $7,225,000. The construction along the line is of the most expensive character owing to the number of steel bridges and the long tunnel at Miraflores. The road is double tracked and fitted with every modern safety device. All the excavations from the Canal are carried over its lines and are classified as freight, and last year the freight movements ran to the enormous figure of 230,000,000 tons—far in excess of any other railroad of its length in the world. The visitor pays $2.50 for the trip across and the employee $1.25. Four trains are run daily and during the winter chair-cars are carried for the benefit of Northern tourists. Parts of the Canal can be seen from train—just enough to whet the appetite of the sightseer for a longer and more satisfactory view. The ride is usually interesting, for the trains are always well filled with Canal employees who are delighted to point out the different places and talk about the tremendous construction work, for every man, woman and child in the Canal Zone takes special pride in having a part in the project, and this desire to be a part holds hundreds of people on the Isthmus. The train passes through a jungle of tropical foliage equal in many places to some splendid botanical garden. Now and then one catches sight of a cluster of laborers' quarters or towns consisting of well-built, comfortable homes of the white employees.

After a run of two and a half hours the train pulls into the station at Panama City. Street cars are not in operation there and hundreds of carriages cluster about the railroad station, their bells jingling like so many fire engines. The fare is ten cents to all parts of the city. After a ride over comparatively smooth streets the visitor finds comfortable quarters in one of the hotels. There is an eagerness to go "down the line," and at 6:30 the next morning the start is made. Owing to the extreme heat, for Panama is only nine degrees North of the Equator, everybody is astir early and the train is always well filled. Everything is on a large scale—even the cars which go to make up the train seem numberless, as it stretches like a snake far beyond the confines of the station. It is barely daylight when the gong sounds and the traveler is off—say, for Culebra, the Central division with its huge Culebra Cut.

The greatest amount of digging must be done in this part of the Canal, and the work has from time to time been hampered by the slides—tons of earth slipping down the slopes during the rainy season. At present the office of Colonel D. D. Goillard, the Division Engineer, is on the very edge of a slide, as are several of the buildings at Culebra. When the slides occur the work of carrying the earth away seems almost a hopeless task to the layman, but the busy steam shovel and the dirt train soon make a clearing. Culebra is the headquarters of the Isthmian Canal Commission and the main offices are located here together with the homes of the chief engineers. These buildings are on a high hill. The average visitor is surprised to learn that Panama is a mountainous country, and that nearly all the residential sections are located on hills. If the sightseer is fortunate enough to be out in a sightseeing car or in the engineer's automobile the descent to the bottom of the Cut is easy as the railroad tracks are so arranged that the lower level is soon reached.

Once down in the Cut the scene presented is a busy one. Great steam shovels which with one scoop take up five cubic yards of earth are all about, rattling as they dump their contents on the waiting trains. These shovels make a dump about every twenty seconds, and when the sixteen cars of which a dirt train is composed are filled, the train moves off and another with empty cars takes its place. These trains move back and forth like shuttles in a weaver's loom, and there is never the least confusion. Every man knows his business and the system of doing the work there is almost as remarkable as the work itself. Millions upon millions of yards of earth have been removed, and yet as one watches the scoops at their task it seems like emptying a barrel with a teaspoon. Drills of several kinds are buzzing like a swarm of giant bees as they drill holes in the rocks where pounds of dynamite are put into place by another set of workmen. The blasts are fired by electricity and are set off while the workmen are at their mid-day meals. Tons of rocks are loosened by this method and comparatively few accidents occur from the blasting. At Matachin the bottom of the Canal has been reached and at present it is being leveled off. The Cut proper is about nine miles in length and will be three hundred feet wide at the bottom. This division extends from Gatun to the Pedro Miguel, where the steamers will go into the locks on their way to the Pacific.

Structural Iron Work on the Locks at Pedro Miguel

At Pedro Miguel the visitor sees the great gates being set into position. The lock chambers are taking on shape—their mighty walls of concrete glistening in the tropical sunlight. The lift here will be about thirty and one-half feet. The chambers are one thousand feet in length, with a usable width of one hundred and ten feet. The walls are eighty-one feet high. The construction is of structural iron and concrete with steel gates seven feet thick, sixty-five feet wide and from fifty to eighty feet in height and weighing from three to six hundred tons. At this point the structural ironworker is seen at his best, for he climbs about and steps from girder to girder like a squirrel from tree to tree.

At Miraflores, nearer to the Pacific, are two pairs of locks with a combined lift of fifty-four feet. Five million barrels of cement will be used in their construction alone. In the center space, about forty-four feet wide, a tunnel has been built. It is divided into galleries, or stories—the lower one for drainage, the center one for wires to be used to carry the current to operate the gates, and the upper one as a passageway for the operators who will manage the machinery. It is necessary to give figures in order to convey some idea of the immensity of the construction work, for the most scientific photograph made fails to show the colossal size of these locks and gates.

At Balboa, the Pacific end of the Canal, a part of the Government docks have been completed—that is, the concrete foundation. These are in keeping with the mammoth proportions of everything else along the line. The sand carrier at this point is one of the largest in the world and it handles all the sand used in the Canal work, and is brought to Balboa on barges from a point on the West Coast about twenty miles distant. The barges are pulled alongside the carrier, which scoops up bucketful after bucketful and swinging, empties the contents on the waiting cars which are sent to all parts of the Canal. A shipbuilding plant is at this point, and a number of tugs and barges are in the process of building. Much of the land around Balboa was a marsh and the Canal excavations are being used as a fill, the greater part being sent here from the Culebra Cut. Mr. S. B. Williamson is in charge of this division.

The Atlantic section—perhaps the most difficult of all owing to the engineering problems which confront them, is under the direction of Col. William Short. It extends from Gatun to the deep waters of the Atlantic. The three locks at this point have a combined lift of eighty-five feet. The construction work presents a spectacular appearance at present for it is rapidly nearing completion. The walls of the West chamber are finished and the gates are being placed in position.

The writer made a trip through these locks in the company of Col. Short on a flat car which had been fitted with seats for use during one of the visits of the Secretary of War. A small engine attached was the motive power and the dips and dives the little train made were somewhat like the ups and downs of the roller-coaster. The trip ended at the bottom of the lock nearest to the Atlantic and was forty feet below the sea level. At this point the steps to the top were climbed where an excellent view of this section was obtained. The sand carriers were passing between the two locks and depositing material wherever it was needed. At one point when an engine was required and one was located in the opposite lock. It was the work of but a few minutes for the crane to lift and carry the big engine high in the air to the place where it was needed.

The Gatun Dam, which has been the subject of so much discussion, is at this point, and when completed will be a large body of water one hundred and fifteen feet above the mean level of the sea.

The dam will form the Gatun lake by impounding the water of the Chagres River and other streams. It is now forming and the engineers in charge hope that it will be completed by August. It will then spread over an area of one hundred and sixty-four square miles and cover several villages. Old Gatun is already twenty-five feet beneath the dam. The spillway, a concrete-lined opening twelve hundred feet long and about three hundred feet wide, is cut through a hill of rock in the center of the dam. It is now closed with a concrete dam filled with machinery and gates for regulating the water level of the lake. The Chagres River has been forever cut off from the Atlantic Ocean except when its waters are needed in filling the locks.

A lake is also being formed between the locks at Pedro Miguel and Miraflores, and there will be a dam about five hundred feet long forming a spillway for the lake at Miraflores. It will be equipped with gates similar to the ones used on the Gatun spillway. Twelve locks in all are being built: three pairs at Gatun, two pairs at Miraflores, and one pair at Pedro Miguel. The length of the Canal will be fifty and one-half miles, forty and one-half miles of which are on land. Vessels will be towed through by electricity. The gates and valves will be operated by the same power. The supply will be generated by the water turbines at Gatun. It is expected that a vessel will pass through the entire Canal in from ten to twelve hours.

At Cristobal the work on the Government docks is being pushed, and the scenes there are almost as busy as in the Cut, for the pile-drivers and drills pound and hum all day long. About thirty-eight thousand men are at work at present, with a pay roll of $1,500,000 per month. It is expected that the cost of the Canal will be about $14,000,000 per mile. From these figures the reader can readily understand the colossal work of the Isthmian Canal Commission.

The engineers all declare that ships will pass through the waterway during the latter part of next year, although the official opening will not take place until 1915. Much speculation is indulged in as to what ship will pass through first, and it is generally supposed by those on the Isthmus that one of the Panama railroad steamers will make the trial trip in order to test the working of the gates, locks, etc., and that the battleship Oregon will be the leader of the official opening. It will be remembered that her long trip around "The Horn" during the Spanish-American War first suggested to the minds of the officials at Washington the need of this great waterway now rapidly nearing completion.

ALTHOUGH the words "floating palace" are generally used to describe the interior arrangement of any of the great trans-Atlantic steamers that shuttle-like, weave between this country and the Old World, yet the words are most fittingly used when applied to the description of the modern floating residence of the man of wealth—the steam yacht.

Only those who have been on board of these beautiful, swan-like craft and have stepped across the heavily carpeted saloon and peered into the tapestry-hung staterooms can appreciate just exactly what the word "palatial" means when applied to a vessel.

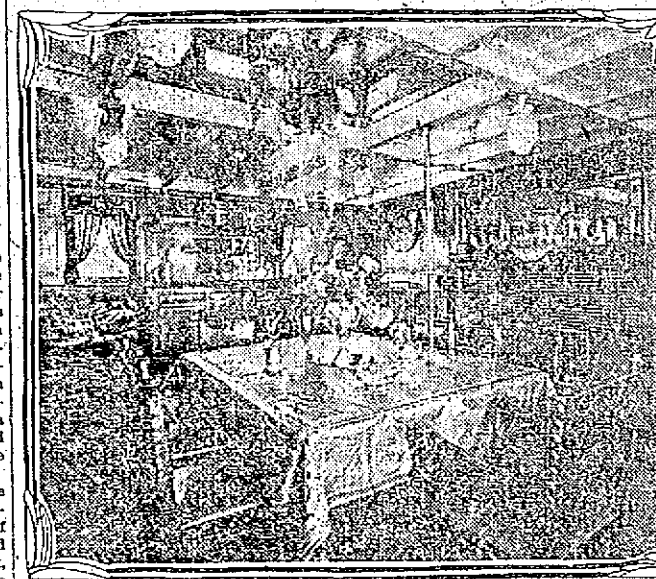

Although yachting is one of the oldest of sports, dating back to the days of Cleopatra, and has been for years known as the "sport of kings and the king of sports," it has fallen to the happy lot of the American millionaire to give to the world an exhibition of what money and brains can produce in a vessel, not only of magnificent interior decoration, but of a size sufficient to carry the owner and a party of a dozen or more on a cruise around the world.

According to careful estimates there is in this country fully $25,000,000 invested in steam yachts, not one of which is less than 75 feet long and ranging from that to nearly 275 feet, costing, individually, from $50,000 to $700,000 to build.

In the number of yachts the United States leads the world and although there are some beautiful specimens of marine architecture under the British and French ensigns, it is generally conceded that the American-built yachts are superior. On the other hand there are many yachts owned by Americans that have been built in England, some of which have never even been in American waters, their owners keeping them abroad and using them only during the summer months while following the Royal Yacht Squadron to Cowes and other places where the great English and International races are held. Probably the finest yacht in the world is the Niagara, which is owned by Howard Gould, and which heads the entire list in the matter of cost of building and equipment. She is also what might be termed purely American, being not only of American design and construction, but built throughout of American material. She cost three-quarters of a million dollars. She is 272 feet long and is capable of crossing the Atlantic at a speed equal to that of any of the ordinary liners.

LUXURY AFLOAT

Dining Room

is given by the exterior—the graceful outline, the snow-white hull surmounted by deckhouses, the highly polished sides of which glisten in the sun. Then, too, every bit of metal work to be seen—the railings, binoculars, steering wheel, etc., are all of brass and polished until they catch every ray of the sun. Every rope leading to the slender, tapering mast is taut; there is everything to show even the inexperienced that in the yacht is represented the highest attainment of perfection in a maritima fabric.

When invited on board one ascends a varnished gangway, the rails of which are white-painted man-ropes and then, stepping over the varnished rail, one beholds on every side the combination of beauty and utility. The very decks, albeit being plain, unvarnished wood, are attractive for they are as white as constant holystoning will make them, while the seams, laid in black putty, make a sharp contrast; indeed, one feels as though to step upon such a deck is a profanity.

As one walks aft along the deck one sees how beautifully the deckhouses really are. Usually of mahogany or teak, they are as polished as the top of a piano, but upon entering the main saloon the real appreciation of luxury afloat begins. The woodwork is all panelling, either mahogany, teak, bird's-eye maple, walnut or other costly wood and all highly polished. The furniture, tables, chairs, buffet, etc., are individual to each yacht and while they may vary in detail the evidence of exquisite hand-crafting is evident.

On the larger craft these saloons are of such size and with furnishings such as might be found in a reception hall of a private house. With the large, tapestry-hung windows there is only the ceiling, with its deck beams, to remind one of the maritime. So too, it is in the staterooms where, with brass beds, washstands, bureaus and bathrooms adjoining, the feeling of "all the comforts of home" pervades.

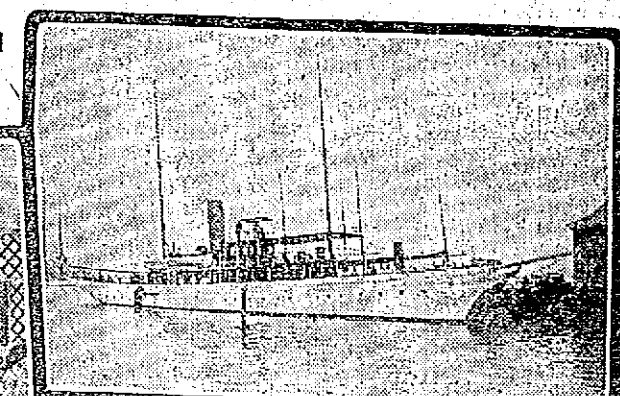

So much space have some of these large yachts that there are music rooms, with pianos built into the most convenient space, and even palm rooms where there is ever the fragrance of flowers.

Last, but not least, are the members of the yacht's company. The calling master, mate and second officer wear neat blue uniforms, not unlike the dress of petty officers in the navy, while the sailors wear white canvas trousers and jumpers, the name of the yacht being embroidered across the latter. For dress the sailors have blue uniforms similar to those worn by men-of-war-men, the name of the yacht being embroidered in white.

Throughout the season the strictest "yacht etiquette" prevails and the discipline is of the highest order. There is a bugler who summons the owner and guests to meals, at which time a square white flag is displayed in the rigging. When the crew is eating a triangular red flag flies. When the owner goes ashore a square blue flag is displayed only to be taken down upon his return. By the "absent" flag one can always tell whether the owner is on board. Guests always board a yacht on the right hand, or starboard side, the other side being used by the crew.

The expense of owning, or rather operating one of these huge pleasure craft is enormous, costing not less than $30,000 for the ordinary season which, in this country, is about four months. In the first place a 200-foot steam yacht will carry a crew of not less than 40 men, all told, ranging from the master, who will draw $150 to $250 per month, to the galley, or mess boy, who gets $25 per month. Then there are the first, second and petty officers, the chief engineer and his assistant, firemen and coal passers, all of whom draw pay equal to or better than similar service in merchant craft would pay. The average merchant vessel burns soft coal, but not so the steam yacht. For this palatial home must always be clean; only the best anthracite is used and when it is estimated that one of these big craft will burn 25 to 40 tons of coal a day the cost of fuel can readily be reckoned. While the steam yacht is admittedly the acme of perfection and comfort, the modern gasoline craft is a close rival, size for size, but even in the larger of the auxiliary sailing craft, such as the bark Alpha, there is everything that would give comfort and convenience to the owner and his guests. Although yachts are generally regarded as the lilies of the sea—"for they toil not, neither do they spin"—yet these pleasure craft have played their part in the serious occupation of war. During the Civil War, and again during the Spanish-American War, yachts were enrolled under the colors. During the Civil War there were but few big yachts owned in this country, but it was an English yacht—the Deerhound—which rescued the Confederate Commander Semmes after his vessel, the Alabama, had been destroyed by the Kearsarge. It was in running a blockade that the famous schooner yacht America, the winner of the trophy that bears her name, was engaged when, to escape capture, she was sunk in the St. John's river.

It was when the war against Spain was declared, and this country found itself short of small craft, that the heaviest demand was made upon the yachting fraternity for their boats. And the response was almost equal to the demand, too. More than 100 steam yachts, ranging from 75-footers upward, were offered. In the fleet that the Government purchased were many of the finest that flew the colors of the yacht clubs of the Atlantic coast. Notable among them was the Corsair, owned by J. Pierpont Morgan, which was as fine a vessel as could be found, having cost nearly $500,000. She possessed all of the requirements for easy conversion into a fighting ship and she was hurried to a navy yard and "reconstructed." In the Gloucester that became a member of Admiral Sampson's fleet there was but little resemblance to the Corsair when she was under the Morgan flag. Her once snowy sides were a dark slate color, her beautiful teak deckhouses were painted a dingy drab, while on her forward deck was mounted a pair of wicked looking one-pounders. It was these same guns, at the battle of Santiago, threw missiles into the hulls of the Spanish torpedo boats Pluton and Terror, destroying both of them.

A number of these yachts were retained after the war; the most notable of these is the Mayflower, which is the official pleasure craft of the President. The Mayflower was a British steam yacht of that name and was built in 1876. She ranks among the largest pleasure craft afloat, being 2,650 tons, 273 feet on the waterline and 36 feet beam. She has engines of 4,700 horsepower and is capable of steaming 17 knots per hour.

Yachts are exempt from most of the regulations imposed upon merchant craft, for they are permitted to enter and leave ports without the formality of making their clearance through the Custom House, but at the same time they are expected to produce a certificate of good health should they have visited a port suspected of being infected with fever.

Simplicity is the Keynote of the Best. Looking Graduation Gowns of 1912

Simplicity is the keynote of the best. Paris fashion has to write a large check for them, but even should the costume emanate from the Ville Lumiere it will be more or less of a tub creation and hand tocks, and when they come from not instill envy and all uncharitable-ness in classmates whose gowns are above your thumb and bring it down firmly. Pass the end around at the to make a short loop, then down again back and through the knot formed in for another long loop below the thumb front which should be drawn tight and then up to the second short loop. The remaining end is made for the The ribbon so looped must be held tight.

Sheer batiste, dotted Swiss, embroidered voiles, sheer handkerchief linen, fine silky nainsook and soft marquisette are perhaps the most popular and suitable materials from which to fashion the graduation gown. These fabrics are charming when trimmed with real or fine imitation filet, shadow lace, creamy point venise or baby Irish, which last lace is not, however, so new as the other varieties. The real Val is always good to use, and when the dress material is a fine organdie a creamy tint of this lace is really lovely.

An exquisite little creation which will be worn is of white batiste trimmed with yellowish lace and clusters of white satin roses, the latter used both on the bodice and on the skirt.

Flounces are appearing on many of the smartest of graduation frocks, for this style is particularly becoming to young girls. A quaint little dress of the dance persuasion is of white Swiss ruffled to the waist and finished with a tulle bodice, the edge of the tulle being outlined with a pink taffeta ruche.

Commencement day platforms will see a lot of platings made of net, for they are both economical and effective. These platings are very easy to handle and give to the net truck a charming airy appearance, and they are within reach of any little graduate.

Bands of tiny hand tucks on a batiste frock are wonderfully good set between broad insertions of lace on the skirt and applied as barettes on the waist.

Embroidered net gowns are lovely, but there is always the added expense of silk or messaline slips worn under them. Still, the cost might be made to average up, as the material itself furnishes the necessary trimming.

Sashes are the graduates own particular privilege, and this year it will be the exceptional girl who does not wear a sash of some sort. White satin and taffeta sashes with tab ends trimmed with small white satin rosettes are fetching. A cluster of the white roses mingled with maidenhair fern posed at the front of the sash toward the side is very effective, while another tiny cluster to wear in the hair completes the picture of girlish simplicity.

Attractive white satin sashes have loops and ends extending up and down rather than standing out in butterfly fashion, and often four or five flat loops rise one over the other above the waist line, the same number of loops of a longer length falling down the skirt length. Such a bow is easily made. All you have to do is to allow the ribbon to fall from your thumb and finger down to the floor, bring up enough of the ribbon to make a deep loop, hold firmly, then carry the ribbon

VOILE FROCK TRIMMED WITH RATINE.

The wide ratine laces are not expensive, and the patterns are most effective. This white cotton costume is a charming one for wear on graduation day, with its band of ratine lace simulating a tunic. Cotton fringe loops and buttons are used as extra adornment.

GOWN WITH EFFECTIVE BAND TRIMMING.

Front fastenings are all the rage on graduation dresses this season, and the model illustrated shows this effect at its best. Black velvet ribbon with buttons and straps of white crocheted lace are used on this sheer frock of cotton voile, which displays crocheted lace as a trimming.

CORPUS CHRISTI

SOLEMNITY OF FEAST WILL BE OBSERVED SUNDAY

On the Catholic church calendar, yesterday was the feast of Corpus Christi, but the solemnity of the feast will be observed Sunday. In all the churches, processions in honor of the day will be held.

At St. Peter's church last evening a novena in honor of the Sacred Heart was opened. The services were conducted by Rev. Daniel Keeler, Ph. D., rector, and the choir sang hymns of praise to the Sacred Heart. The novena will be brought to a close with elaborate ceremonies on next Friday evening. The "Holy Hour" services will also be held on that evening.

Today is the first Friday of the month and in all the churches services were held. This morning masses were celebrated at which there were large congregations and a number went to communion. Tonight services will be held at 7:30 o'clock.

The programs for the processions on next Sunday in several of the churches will include open air services. At St. Patrick's the procession will march through the church and academy grounds and benediction will be given at a repository to be erected in the church yard.

IS WAIVED BY WIDOW OF THE DECEASED

The will of the late William B. Spalding, who died suddenly March 3, was waived by the wife of deceased, Mrs. Mary E. Spalding, and through her counsel she has filed a notice to that effect in Cambridge, thereby taking the statutory first $10,000 and the income of one-half the estate for the remainder of her life, instead of what was left her by the terms of the will.

This disposition of the property has no appreciable effect upon the other bequests. This is particularly true of the sums bequeathed to the Lowell Humane society, which is to receive $1500 per year during the life of Mrs. Spalding, and the Lowell General hospital, which comes into the provisions of the will at a later time. The establishment of a permanent trust fund is not interfered with except as to the sum of $10,000 which Mrs. Spalding receives in cash now.

FIREMEN'S DRILL

The members of hose 3, 4 and 10 and Truck 3 of the local fire department will hold a drill this evening at 7 o'clock in French street. The exercises will take place against the West mill storehouse and will be under the direction of Dept. Chiefs Sullivan and Saunders.

FALSE ARREST

IS ALLEGED BY FORMER TELEPHONE GIRL

BOSTON, June 7.—Miss Theresa A. Francis, formerly supervisor at the Malden exchange of the New England Telephone and Telegraph company, brought suit in the superior court yesterday for $20,000 against Mrs. Mary A. Powell of Waltham, alleging false arrest and slander.

Plaintiff alleges she was arrested on evidence obtained through an arrangement between Mrs. Powell and private detectives. She was charged with improper relations with Timothy Powell, husband of the defendant, who was a trunk officer in Malden.

The plaintiff was convicted in the Malden court, but on a trial by a jury was acquitted. Mrs. Powell obtained a decree of divorce from her husband on the evidence furnished by the detective.

WOMAN ASSAULTED

WATERVILLE, Me., June 7.—As a result of an alleged assault yesterday, Mrs. Annie Solomon of 27 Maple street is in a serious condition and the police and sheriffs are scouring the country for Samuel Silver, 23 years old, a butcher, living at 20 High street. Silver, who is under $1000 bonds in a case preferred by the young daughter of Mrs. Solomon, is alleged to have shouted epithets at Mrs. Solomon while driving past her home. When she ventured to reply he is said to have beaten the woman over the head and shoulders.

Two physicians worked an hour and a half on the woman before they were able to restore her to consciousness. Internal injuries are feared.

AT THE HIGHLAND CLUB

The special entertainment committee which so successfully conducted the Pop concert at the Highland club has arranged for the members and friends of the organization a lawn party to be held on the club grounds on Thursday evening, June 20. An excellent program will be given from 8 to 10 o'clock by the Solon Cadet band, Jean Milsom, conductor. The program is one of great variety and includes some of the best known opera selections and many of the popular airs. The grounds will be decorated and illuminated for the occasion, and tables at which ices, cake and soft drinks will be served, will be located at intervals around the grounds. There is a limited number of tables which may be procured from the members of the committee. The committee is composed of F. C. Woodworth, W. E. Potter, J. W. Kernan, H. E. Webster and A. G. McCurdy.

PACKING THE VACATION TRUNK

A woman who has traveled a great deal and has found one trunk sufficient for the needs of her wardrobe gives the following hints as to the disposal of her belongings:

In the bottom of the trunk she has had a partition made large enough to carry one large or two small hats. At the side of this partition she places a wooden box filled with sawdust in which she packs her medicine bottles. Here, too, she lays her shoes, each pair carefully rolled in linen covers. Her rubbers are fitted on one pair of boots, and in all of them she stows toilet belongings, such as tooth powder bottle, cold cream jar, etc.

Then she has six or eight pieces of heavy cardboard cut to fit the trunk exactly. They are covered with a pretty light percale made in envelope shape, with straps to fasten down securely. In these large envelopes she pins her dresses and shirt waists. Two or three frocks or blouses can usually go into each envelope. In this way everything is kept absolutely flat and nothing is pushed to one end of the trunk when it is turned up on end. A shallow tray at the top of the trunk holds laces, ribbons and veils.

WEDDING CALLED OFF AS FIANCE DISAPPEARED

Louis Avixie Has Been Missing Since May 5—Bride-to-be Waited in Vain

Mrs. Harry O. Jalbert of 483 Central street, called at city hall this morning and asked that the marriage license of her daughter, Cora Anna Jalbert, aged 18 years, who was to have been married to Louis Avixie, aged 21 years, of 23 Westford street, be cancelled, as the wedding had been called off. The license application had been filed on May 1, and it was delivered a few days later according to the new law on marriage. The wedding ceremony was to be performed at Notre Dame de Lourdes church on May 5, but according to the young woman's story her fiance disappeared on the same day.

Miss Cora Anna Jalbert when interviewed by a reporter of this paper today related the following story: "I have known Louis Avixie for several years. He was a moultier in the employ of the Lowell Machine shop foundry. Our courtship lasted some time and finally arrangements were made for the wedding which was to have taken place on Sunday, May 5 at 8 o'clock in the evening at Notre Dame de Lourdes church. Banns were read in church on the above date and in the morning both of us went to church together. After mass he left me, saying he was going to see his mother and I have not seen him since. I was told he is out-of-town. Invitations had been sent out for the wedding celebration which was to have been held in the evening at my home and soon the guests arrived but the bridegroom was missing. However, we had an enjoyable time just the same and now I have altogether forgotten him."

The young woman also said her mother called at the city clerk's office and had the license cancelled.

A brother of Louis who lives in Cushing street said this morning that his brother had been gone for a month or so and that his whereabouts is not known. He said the young couple who were to have been married had some trouble and the young man thought it advisable to give up the matrimonial idea and leave town.

SUES FOR $10,000

WOMAN ALLEGES THAT SHE WAS POISONED

BOSTON, June 7.—Elizabeth A. Thompson entered an action in the superior court yesterday against the United Drug company to recover $10,000 damages, claiming she was poisoned while in the employ of the defendant. She went to work in the "filling department" in March, 1911, and remained there until March 12 last.

In that department, she alleges, various antiseptic powders were placed and sealed in receptacles for sale. The labor was not skilled, wages were small and later she was put to work filling and weighing cans of bug poison and rat poison.

While the work was similar to what she had been doing, she says, it exposed her to the dangers which she did not appreciate or of which she was wholly ignorant.

She alleges the defendant failed to furnish suitable safeguards to protect her and to give her suitable instructions as to how to perform her work in safety. By reason of the alleged fault and neglect of the defendant she claims she was severely poisoned.

THE MENACING ELEMENTS OF THE HOUR

There is a state of discontent spreading all over this country and showing itself in various menacing elements which if allowed to go unchecked will eventually result in serious trouble. Various causes are assigned, but the underlying causes are so numerous that it is very difficult to state them all clearly.

First and foremost among the causes of discontent must be mentioned the trust systems and combinations that have grown to monstrous proportions under the shelter of the excessive tariff provided by the republican party. These trusts protected against foreign competition have throttled domestic competition so that they are able to fix the prices of the necessities of life—food, clothing, shelter—just as high as they please or as high as the people can endure.

This system of extortion has gone from bad to worse, until the people are grasping at such empty bubbles as socialism, the I. W. W. and other organizations which promise their followers a sort of millennium in the not distant future if their policies are put into effect.

While the prices of commodities have risen beyond all precedent, the rate of wages in most cases have lagged behind until the employees have become impatient under the difficulty of making both ends meet. The result is a very general demand for higher wages and strikes where these demands are not met in the right spirit.

The strikes, it must be admitted, have in many cases been conducted in a riotous and threatening manner. Resort to violence has been advocated by certain leaders and the result has been bloodshed and conflicts with the police and militia to an extent that is quite alarming. The wage earners are no longer led by conservative members of their own crafts and unions, but by leaders who usually are socialists and directors of the I. W. W. and who tell them that the employers are public robbers, that the factories are built of money unjustly filched from the wage earners. Sabotage and other illegal methods are resorted to in order to compel the employers grant the demands made upon them whether they can afford to do so or not.

The result of all this is a degree of uncertainty and insecurity that is highly injurious to business. What is the remedy for all this? There must be a change that will take away from the trusts the power to rob the people. The excessive tariff must be cut down and competition, especially domestic competition, must be restored. This will be done if the democratic party be placed in charge of the government, but not otherwise. The republican party is not and will not be in a position to adjust the tariff in the interests of the whole people. The cost of living must be cut down, and this can be done only by competition that will prevent the trusts on one end and the retailers on the other from robbing the people.

It is true that there are organizations all over the country whose avowed purpose is to overthrow the constitution and the present form of government. They are daily gaining strength as a result of the discontent and poverty of the working people owing to the disparity between the cost of living and the rate of wages. Hence the government will have to deal firmly with these various elements lest at any time they should unite their forces to spread disorder and industrial paralysis all over the country. This is apparently their aim if we can judge aright from their speeches and their policies as seen in various industrial conflicts.

The fact is that the republican party of special privilege has been retained in power until the country is in a very bad condition. It is to be hoped that this party and all its cohorts, call them standpatters, progressives or what you will, may be driven from power and that a democratic administration will be chosen, one that will be competent to right the wrongs of the present, restore the rule of justice and fair treatment for all men, to the end that peace, happiness and prosperity may reign throughout the land.

The people are being misled in regard to the great questions of the day. Socialists, anarchists and others claim that there can be no real remedy until their pet hobbies shall have been applied; but the people have the remedy in their own hands and can set things right if they use the ballot in their own interest not to overthrow the constitution but to remedy the divers evils that have grown up as a result of making large corporations the beneficiaries of special privileges.

The fictitious values, the extortionate prices and the uncontrolled monopolies can all be remedied by intelligent action of the masses at the polls next November. That will be a great opportunity for the people if they show the intelligence to vote right and not be misled by the vagaries of the hour.

LINCOLN'S GREATNESS AND HIS STATUE

Abraham Lincoln is a much discussed man at the present time. For his own purposes Colonel Roosevelt almost daily, sometimes many times a day, during his campaign drew parallels between himself and Lincoln, the object being to show that he and Lincoln are the two greatest figures in American history. We do not admit that Roosevelt bears any resemblance to Lincoln, either personally, in character or otherwise, and, therefore, we do not believe in belittling Lincoln in order to show that after all he was not such a model of greatness and perfection as Roosevelt tries to have us believe he was. Here for example is a statement from the Springfield Republican that will surprise some people:

"The worst failure ever in the White House, in the opinion of the great majority of the American people, after the battle of Chancellorsville in the late spring of 1863, was President Abraham Lincoln. There had been over two dreary years of defeat and fizzle; and even a year later, prior to General Sherman's successes in Georgia, there seemed only a slight chance that Lincoln would be re-nominated by the republican party. Mr. Roosevelt loves to appeal to the memory and the great name of Lincoln. From what is known of Mr. Roosevelt, however, it is certain that had he been privileged to observe critically the war president in the spring of 1862, he would have declared that he 'meant well feebly,' was controlled by bosses, was directed and advised by incompetents, and was altogether and unqualifiedly unfit to be president of the United States."

Thus it appears that present day judgments are often erroneous and that it takes the unbiased judgment of the historian to do justice to public men long after they have passed away. Nobody today would admit that Lincoln was a failure in the White House because success finally crowned his efforts. Otherwise he would have been assailed as the greatest failure of the century.

But Lincoln is being discussed in another aspect. George E. Gamiere of Chicago recently made a statue of Lincoln modeled after that produced by the late Sculptor Augustus Saint Gaudens. The second statue was placed in the Boston Chamber of Commerce where Mrs. Saint Gaudens condemned it very severely as defective in many points and very much unlike the artistic figure turned out by her husband. No doubt Mrs. Saint Gaudens is correct, as the translation always differs to some extent from the original. Gamiere did not copy the statue correctly and Saint Gaudens, genius though he was, may have departed even more widely still from the original, the real Lincoln as he lived and moved among men.

CLOWNS WITH BARNUM AND BAILEY CIRCUS

ERNEST ANDERSON STAR CLOWN SAYS CLOWNS MAKE BEST HUSBANDS

"I would rather be a clown than anything else," Ernest Anderson confided to a recent interviewer. "They may tell you of the clowns that have been funny when their wives were dying," said Anderson, "and of the famous Grimaldi, who when asked consulted a physician and was advised to go and see himself and he would be better. But, taking it all around, the clown's business is the happiest profession a man can have.

"I find that being funny, or trying to be, helps one to have a jovial disposition. I forget that years are passing by and that the time will come when I will be old. I forget that there is such a thing as care. I have the laughter of children echoing in my ears when I'm eating my breakfast, and I'm glad to work. I take an absolute delight in being funny.

"Being a clown nowadays is utterly different to what it was in the old days when the clowns used to do a lot of talking and shove their fists

Clicquot Club (Kiss-o-Club) GINGER ALE

Try a glassful of Clicquot Club these warm evenings—with perhaps a sandwich or other cold morsel. There's just the right amount of lemon taste to satisfy thirst and induce restful, refreshing sleep. And the pure, fresh ginger and confectioners' sugar offer a mild, stimulating, grateful food value, which the stomach craves and needs.

There's just enough for two persons in each Clicquot Club bottle—a most convenient and economical feature.

through paper hoops. That was old 'Fisky's' 'stunt' and he got a laugh out of the same thing year after year. But the boys and girls of today are more sophisticated and they make the clowns work. A funny 'wheeze' makes a hit and lasts for one season, but you can't carry it any longer, for, as a rule, your own 'stunt' is copied all winter and the management and public demand something new each spring.

"I think the hardest time I ever had in being a clown was when I was in love. Before we were married my wife was almost a daily attendant at the show to watch me work. Then it was difficult, as nobody likes to have his best girl see him making a clown of himself. All that comes naturally enough after marriage. Still, my advice to any young woman is that if she really wants a happy husband, marry a clown and she won't have a quarrel from one year's end to another. There are plenty of eligible clowns, too, and not all of them with the Barnum & Bailey circus, for most of them are happily married."

Olive Oil for Thin People

This people as a rule are not strong, and ordinary foods, even when eaten in quantity, do not always build up the body and give strength. If this has been your experience, you should at once become a convert to the use of Pompeian Olive Oil. Two things, first, it is a food and flesh builder. It is easily digested and is an ideal food in itself, especially for invalids and convalescents, and, second, it builds up strength and creates energy. This is due to the fact that it is much easier digested than solid foods.

Pompeian Olive Oil being absolutely pure and from the first pressing of selected, hand picked, ripe Italian olives without any chemical treatment or adulteration of any kind, is the best remedy possible for all stomach and gastric troubles. It has a distinctive, sweet, nutty flavor not to be found in other kinds.

When taken with each meal, either plain or with salads and other foods, it will soon demonstrate to you its wonderfully beneficial results.

If you will use more Pompeian Olive Oil you will soon learn that you can do away with half the other medicines you are using. In itself, it is a food-medicine without an equal.

Pompeian Olive Oil is sold by druggists and grocers. Full one-half pint cans, 75 cents; full pint cans, 50 cents; full quart cans, 50 cents.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

MOST LIKELY.

"I see that trust magnate has bought a farm out in the country."
"What do you suppose he is going to do?"
"Prices, probably."

CONTRADICTORY.

Mrs. Doyle—How men change after marriage!
Mrs. Doyle—Indeed they do; my husband used to say that I looked good enough to eat, and now he says that I am only half-baked.

REAL CLEVER.

"Jones is one of our cleverest young poets."
"Why, I didn't know that he had published anything."
"That's just it. He hasn't."

FOUR AND APT.

"What do you think of these weather forecasts?"
"I think they might be nearer right if they were aftercasts."

NEARLY THE SAME.

"Did I understand you to say that Mr. Hullard was a broad-minded man?"
"Not exactly. I said he was thick-headed."

RAATHER ROUGH.

"Fred is afraid that he will be buried alive."
"He needn't worry; he is such a bore that he could work his way out."
